T OF BREA CLUB MADE VE AFFAIR

The preventorium camp, reported the need of more spreads there and the club voted to take the money retained in that fund and purchased material for them. Club members will make them up.

Mrs. Davis reported the breakfast meeting of the book and basket section in the city park on the morning of May 12. The breakfast is being served by Mrs. Davis, Mrs. O. S. Close, Mrs. Schweitzer and Mrs. L. A. Sayles, and in addition to the other members of the section there were to be guests from Fullerton.

Mrs. Holland announced that the music section were to sing that night at a mothers' and daughters' banquet in Fullerton. Mrs. Fleisher announced the meeting of the art section with Mrs. W. E. Griffith Thursday.

By a majority of one, the members present voted to return to the Masonic hall as a place of meeting next year. Thirty-six of the forty-three voting expressed the desire to continue with one meeting of the club each month. Mrs. Fanning named the new treasurer, Mrs. Hardy, and Mrs. H. R. Williams, a committee to audit the club's books and report at the next meeting. A letter of condolence is to be written to the family of Mrs. Lauretta H. Newell, recently deceased member. An expression of sympathy will also go to Mrs. J. Cox who is mourning the loss of her mother.

Carl Yost, senior at the Brea-Olinda union high school, presented four members of the cast of the senior play, "You're Telling Me," in sketch of the play. Those appearing were Marjorie Green, Bernadine Jansen, Bruce Hamlin and Don White.

New members of the year who were present were introduced. They were Mrs. S. S. Smith, Mrs. R. A. Bates, Mrs. J. B. Phillips, Mrs. J. D. Neuls and Mrs. J. L. Van Ness. Several guests were present, among them being Mrs. Earl Casner, Mrs. Joe Priddy, Mrs. D. R. Ross and Mrs. A. E. Lynes, all of Brea, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fanning and Mrs. J. J. Holland of Fontana.

Lions Hear Talk By Dr. Hunter on Internationalism

FULLERTON MINISTER FEARS SPREAD OF RUSSIAN COMMUNISM

Warpy Brown made a strong plea for aid from the Brea Lions Club for an unfortunate young man from Olinda who needed a little help to make him self-supporting. Upon motion unanimously carried the matter was recommended for the favorable action of the Finance Committee.

Carl Harvey asked for the support of the folks of Brea at the baseball game to be held at 3 p. m. Friday at Monrovia to determine the championship of the league.

President Bill Fanning again reminded the Club that we must win the Swanger cup once more to be sure of retaining it. It was thought at first that last month would determine our ownership, but the contest does not end until July. Brea has five legs on the trophy, Orange three. If we win the May contest we will have six wins and can not then be overtaken. Also at this meeting our orator, John Joseph Holland, D. D. S., will endeavor to carry off the Orange County Council honors for his Five Minute talk. His subject will be: "Lionism—Its Place In Government." Seventeen pledges for the County Council meeting at Garden Grove were made. We should have at least 20 members present to support John Joe and encourage him on to victory.

Rev. Don Gaylord as program chairman introduced the speaker of the day, Dr. Graham Hunter, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Fullerton, who took as his theme, The International in Lions International.

Dr. Hunter is a finished speaker and made a plea for the maintenance of the bill of rights incorporated in the constitution of the United States. He said that numbers of liberal ministers felt pessimistic over the continuation of western civilization, threatened they seem to feel by Slavic supremacy. as

Brea Legalizes Sale Of 3.2 Beer Saturday

Following the precedents and in line with all California communities which have so far had an opportunity to express the wishes of their citizens at the polls, Brea, on Saturday, expressed an overwhelming approval of the sale of 3.2 beer in its own community. With 1123 registered voters, only 616 votes were cast at Saturday's election. For legalization of beer sales 449 votes were cast. Against the proposal only 167 votes found their way to the ballot box. Apparently the community was not very much steamed up over the situation and the few days immediately preceding the election were calm and uneventful.

The date for the legalization of sales will be announced.

Mrs. W. E. Fanning Hostess To Board

The charming hospitality of Mrs. W. E. Fanning's home was enjoyed on Friday when she served a 1 o'clock luncheon to members of the executive board of the Brea Woman's Club. Cecil Bruner roses combined with dainty blue daisies offered a pretty decorative scheme for the luncheon tables and bowls of these roses were used throughout the rooms.

Places were laid for Mrs. R. W. Spensley, Mrs. C. O. Harvey, Mrs. Frank Wharton, Mrs. J. J. Holland,

City Council Has Session Monday To Canvass Vote

FIRST READING OF ORDINANCE TO LEGALIZE BEER SALES

A special meeting of the Brea City Council was held at the Council chamber in the City Hall on Monday night. The votes of the election last Saturday were duly canvassed and a resolution declaring the decision in legal form was passed by the three members of the Council present. These were Mayor L. A. Hogue, Councilman J. D. Wakeman and W. C. Baldwin. Later Councilman Frank Schweitzer came in. Councilman O. S. Close was confined to his bed, ill.

Two applications for license were received and filed for future consideration.

Wm. B. Wade, associated with the office of Albert Launer, City Attorney for Brea, read the proposed ordinance for the City of Fullerton and recommended that this form the basis of the Brea ordinance. But the fact that the Fullerton ordinance was drawn by Attorney Wade for the petitioners of Fullerton, who by failure of their City Council to initiate an election, resulted in a very stringent ordinance, as the petitioners were anxious not to alienate any votes by a laxly drawn ordinance. This made the Fullerton ordinance slightly too drastic. The conditions here are different. Our smart Council initiated the election themselves and thereby retained control of the machinery for its operation. The overwhelming majority of the vote for the legalization of beer here, made some of the more stringent clauses out of line with the wishes of the electorate, as demonstrated by the vote of our citizens. The Council recognized this fact by liberalizing some of the unnecessary clauses of the Fullerton instrument.

Attorney Wade seemed slightly foggy on the application of the state law. He stated that the state law made mandatory the serving of a regularly priced meal with Several guests were present, among them being Mrs. Earl Casner, Mrs. Priddy, Mrs. D. R. Ross and Mrs. A. E. Lynes, all of Brea, and Mrs. Frank Fanning and family of Fontana.

Following the program a committee comprising Mrs. R. M. Ross, Mrs. V. J. Kubin, Mrs. Goodwin and Mrs. Winnifred Crabill served delicious refreshments from a prettily appointed tea table where the two named members presided over the tea urns.

He said that numbers of liberal ministers felt pessimistic over the continuation of western civilization, threatened they seem to feel by Slavic supremacy, as demonstrated by the wide spread of Russian communism.

Dr. Hunter asked that members of the Communist party be accorded the just rights guaranteed them in the Constitution by the right of assembly. He also pleaded for more international harmony and better international good will, stating that cultured people all over the world have so many tastes in common that the wall of nationalism should be let down and harmony established world-wide in nature.

Dr. Hunter spoke briefly of his trip to Russia some year and a half ago in company with an outstanding group of ministers, members of the press and other nationally known personages.

At the conclusion of his talk, W. D. Shaffer asked Dr. Hunter if he could describe communism in two minutes. Dr. Hunter said that would be difficult, but he thought the best brief description would be an effort to achieve liberalism and equality by means of violence.

Guests introduced were H. L. Taggart of the Los Angeles office of the Hartford Indemnity Co., by Bill Culp; E. F. Burrill of the Los Luncheon places were found through clever pen and ink sketches, made by the hostess, each depicting the official duty of the member for whom it was intended. Mrs. Fanning was assisted by her niece, Miss Hope McConnell, in serving a delicious luncheon.

Following the luncheon the guests were invited to visit the "art gallery," the "catalog" for which was provided by the hostess and this furnished excitement and amusement for all. Twenty subjects were viewed in the gallery from which artistic atmosphere the guests returned to settle down to the business meeting of the board, Mrs. Fanning presiding.

He stated that the state law made mandatory the serving of a regularly priced meal with each serving of beer in retail establishments. This is not so. The state law recommended this, but it was not mandatory, and Long Beach permits the sale of beer without the camouflage of phoney sandwiches.

Main provisions of the ordinance as adopted by the Brea City Council and subjected to its first reading are the following: No beer may be sold within 300 feet of any school in this city. No beer may be served to patrons in cars outside of any licensed establishment. Any violation of the terms of the ordinance automatically cancels licenses, which are not transferable. The City Council has no jurisdiction to reinstate a license lost thru violation of the ordinance. Licenses are for three classes of licensee. Tentative fees are as follows: For Class A license for sale on the premises, the fee is $20. For Class B, by bottle, bottles or case, with no privilege to open on premises, $10.00. Wholesale license constitute Class C and cost $20.00. In the event of a food distributor now paying $1.00 per

With the conference, however, the California delegation hastened home to help the industry interpret and seek for translating into effect the President's opinion on oil states and not the Federal Government are properly referred to curtailment efforts. On April 7, Governor Rolph suggested that the State Legislature that delegate to the Railroad Commission or some other constituency the power to limit oil production of oil in California. But a disunited front at the time was reflected in similar action in California, and the result was inevitable—the reorganization of the California curtailment program. The first move was made on April 17, when the Proration Committee dissolved the old Executive Committee. On June 1, 1932. The resolution was adopted: "The Central Proration Committee withdraw its four members representing the Central Proration Committee on the Executive Committee; that the Central Proration Committee rescind and withdraw power and authority heretofore vested in the Executive Committee of this Committee; and that the Central Proration Committee in Executive Committee in conjunction with the Proration Committee in the proration of oil promote the stabilization of the California oil industry." ## Vote On Saturday On Legalization Of Beer

May 6-1933
Attention is called to the fact that only those persons can vote Saturday on the question of legalization of 3.2 beer for sale in Brea, who voted at the Primary or the General Election in November or who failing to vote in either case registered forty days before the election to be held Saturday, May 6th.

Much interest is sure to be shown in this election and it is hoped that every qualified voter will cast a vote tomorrow.

BREA, May 6.—By an average of nearly three to one, Brea citizens on Saturday voted to legalize the sale of alcoholic beer in the city. All voting was done in the city hall as a consolidated precinct and from a total registration of more than 900, 616 ballots were cast.

The tally showed 449 of the votes were cast in favor of the sale of beer, 167 voting to retain ordinance No. 52, adopted many years ago, prohibiting within the city the sale of any drink containing more than one-tenth of one per cent of alcohol.

The city council is convening tonight to canvass the votes and to hear the first reading of an ordinance covering the regulation of licenses and sales.

'YELLOW DOG' BILL PASSED BY SENATE

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 2.—(UP)—Fifteen years of legislative failure was finally capped by a partial victory for labor today when the senate passed the "yellow dog" bill by a one-sided vote.

The victory was incomplete, however, because the senate amended out of the measure an anti-injunction clause which would have prevented courts from blocking up strikes and boycotts to hearings.

As passed, the measure prohibited employers from entering into contracts with employees who the latter could be barred from joining a labor organization.
