First Brea apartment building offers nostalgia

By Mark Berg

BREA — Modernization has forced its hand in improvements at the Casa Brea Inn Hotel. Built in ice boxes once cooled with ice lay dormant in the wake of electronic refrigeration. Murphy beds were torn out and the space converted to closets.

But the Casa Brea Inn Hotel won't stand up to the latest move to modernize the redeveloper's wrecking ball. The historic building at 215 E. Ash Street, now owned by C&J Development Co., is being demolished so the land can be redeveloped.

The 18-unit apartment building, the first in Brea, was recently toured by members of the Brea Historical Society and the Brea Historical Committee in order to reflect on the city's early days and salvage some historical memorabilia. Among the take, the sign from the top of the building that will be stored and eventually displayed in a museum of Brea artifacts.

Eight of the units are single rooms, containing a washbowl and large walk-in closet as amenities, requiring the boarder to head down the hall to share one of two "community" bathrooms. The other 10 units include a living room, one bedroom, bathroom, kitchen and large walk-in closet.

The architecture, though plain, features mission-style arched doorways, windows and hallways, which was representative of the popular style in Brea at the time, according to Inez Fanning, president of the Brea Historical Society.

Perhaps the most fascinating features of the units are found in the small kitchens, equipped with built-in ice boxes and ironing boards. The ice boxes were the kind that required ice to keep the contents cool — no electricity here. And the ironing boards, complete with a small sleeve board, were representative of the means used to gain space: they folded up into the wall.

In similar fashion, Murphy beds were the standard in earlier days at the hotel.

"In the living rooms were these large, very wide closets with double doors, which very obviously contained fold out beds in the beginning," Fanning explained. "This was another feature of compact quarters."

A system of buzzer signals was the communication mechanism of the day. "In the beginning there were no telephones — it was frivolous in those years," Fanning said. "They had a buzzer system so that the manager could ring a person's room."

The signals were explained in the house rules, a copy of which was found by the history-minded visitors.

"House rules for the average person are unnecessary," the list begins, "but for those who unthinkingly or willfully disregard the comforts of others, the following rules must be observed."

"No loud noises, radios or other music in rooms or halls after 10 p.m. One ring of buzzer from the office is a polite reminder of this rule."

The hotel is positioned near what used to be the main downtown intersection of Ash Street and Brea Boulevard. "That proximity made it desirable for people having business in town," Fanning noted.

The apartments, built in 1926, served a dual purpose over the years, housing both permanent and temporary tenants.

"It was a popular place for persons to live temporarily, and some lived there permanently, especially single persons in the single rooms," she said. Fanning said she guessed monthly rent for one of the rooms used to be $35.

Area briefs

Walking tour scheduled again

BREA — The Brea Historical Society and Brea Historical Committee are sponsoring another walking tour of the old downtown Saturday.

Participants will be led through the streets of the old downtown area scheduled for redevelopment later this year and will be told the significance and interesting stories of many of the buildings and signs that have been a part of Brea's history.

The one hour and 45-minute tour is scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. in front of the old City Hall building at 401 S. Brea Blvd. For further information, call (714) 529-2993.

Brea junior highers recognized

BREA — Five Brea Junior High School students have received special recognition during February.

Eighth-grader Angie Smith was named Rotary Student of the Month. A National Junior Honor Society member with a 4.0 grade point average, she is active in BJA Student Government and in Girl Scouting.

Eighth-grade Students of the Month are Alice Park and Roger Wirz. Receiving seventh-grade Student of the Month honors were Tara Barlow and Ryan Saunders.

Rotary honors BOHS students

BREA — Three Brea Olinda High School sophomores were honored recently by the Brea Rotary Club as Students of the Month. They are Amy Aronson for November, Marc Feine for December and Heidi Allred for January.

Rotary honors are awarded on the basis of activities and academic standing and include a $100 savings bond.

Coach drafted for teacher honor

By Barbara A. Williams

OSP Correspondent

BREA — Varsity football coach Jon Looney has been selected Teacher of the Month at Brea Olinda High School.

Looney, who also teaches Drafting at the high school, was chosen by vote of the student body and received a basket of gifts from the BOHS Parent Teacher Student Organization.

The Wildcat coach attended Anaheim High School and played football at Cypress College before getting his degree in Industrial Arts and Physical Education from Cal State Long Beach.

After teaching athletics at Santiago Junior High School, he came to Brea in 1984, serving as woodshop instructor and assistant football and track coach.

Looney has served as the Wildcats' head football coach for the past two seasons, overseeing the program from the days when the team had no home field to the 1989 opening of the Wildcat Way stadium.

Coaching the varsity team was "something I always wanted to do," said Looney, whose father served as the Troy High School football coach.

Looney said he looks forward to the introduction of Computer

Aided Drafting equipment next year.

The Drafting classes are valuable for high school boys and girls, he noted, especially for those interested in careers in architecture, interior design, engineering and industrial production.

Even though it is a lot of work, football is also a valuable experience for teen-agers, added the 35-year-old coach. Athletes learn about school pride, camaraderie and how to have fun while they work, he said.

"People struggle throughout their lives," Looney pointed out. "If they compete in athletics, instead of folding up or just walking out on problems, they'll know how to work and struggle toward a goal."

Looney is in the midst of moving from Anaheim to Yorba Linda with his wife Cathy, a County of Orange employee, and his 2-year-old son Chad. While he is happy about changing his address, he said he doesn't want to make any changes in his educational career. "I like education. That's where I'll always be," Looney said. "And I'd like to keep on coaching, as long as I'm still having fun."

MALL BALLS — These stainless steel spheres are part of a new art piece in Brea Mall that marks the 90th addition to the city's Art in Public Places program. The untitled kinetic fountain, created by internationally renowned artist Pol Bury of Belgium, was commissioned for more than $100,000, a mall spokeswoman said. The fountain was made in six months and is expected to be operational by this weekend, she said. The spheres will rotate as a result of the kinetic action of water rising through the columns.

Shorthand Students Given Certificates

BREA, May 23.—Certificates of honorable mention have been issued to the first and second year shorthand classes of the Brea-Clinda union high school in charge of Mrs. Reed and Miss Nebel. The certificates were issued for class submission of specimens of exceptionally meritorious work in the annual A. G. O. contest. The students will have the certificates framed to hang on the wall of the new high school building. These students are given credit for earning the certificates: Maude Anderson, who won the prize of an A. G. O. pin for having the best specimen entered; Oliver Scheyer, Evelyn, Marjorie Ruth Wakeman, Frances Greenwood, Wanda Vinson, Irene Quill, Lois Everett and Evelyn Wallentin.

County Scout Chief Gives Talk To Lions

BREA, May 23.—Roland Dye, Boy Scout executive for Orange county, was the speaker at weekly Lions club luncheon held here Friday, addressing the luncheon guests on the growth of the Boy Scout organization, using an illustrated chart to emphasize its policy. Nomination of officers for next year occupied a part of the time of the club members as did discussion of the Lions convention which is to be held in Riverside on May 26, 27 and 28. President E. H. Peterkin, secretary George Henman, A. H. Brown and F. E. Anderson have been selected to represent the Brea den on that occasion. Guests of the club were Norman, Richard, president of the newly organized Fullerton den, three of his members, Harry Edlins, J. E. Smith and Henry Baldwin and County Supervisor William Schumacher.

Frank Mason Named Air Board Member

BREA, May 23.—Frank Mason has been made a member of the new aviation committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce and in this connection urged the delegates at a recent meeting of the legion county council to recommend to their posts the formation of local committees on aeronautics for the purpose of working in conjunction with President P. Greeley, of the associated chambers, to place Orange county in line for the expected development of airplane manufacturing in the southern part of the state. The committee is headed by Commodore H. B. Northland of the Santa Ana air club. Plans are now under way for the first meeting to be held soon under the auspices of the last named club.

Company's Holdings To Be Sold In Word

BREA, May 23.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. O'Brien and family are leaving within the next few days for their new home in Bellflower, to which place Mr. O'Brien has been transferred by the Shell Oil company.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Goot are recent arrivals in Brea and are living at 214 South Celvers street. The family were formerly residents of Ventura.

Mrs. East, of Douglas, Ariz., who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. E. Milms here for the past several weeks, has now gone to San Diego for a visit with relatives and friends before proceeding on her way home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Easley, who have been living in the Dushnell property in East Ash are leaving June 1 for Vista, Cal. During their stay in Brea Mr. Easley has been employed by the Brea Electric company.

Apartment Hotel To Be Ready By July 1

BREA, May 23.—Charles E. Sanderson, Los Angeles builder, expects to have his apartment hotel on East Ash street ready for occupancy in July. Erected at an approximate cost of $25,000 the building consists of three single and two double apartments on the ground floor besides the apartment of the overseer, the hotel dining room and kitchen, lobby, office, hallway and large court. Upstairs sixteen sleeping rooms have been provided, each room furnished with a lavatory and some with private baths. All floors in the building are hardwood with the exception of the bathrooms, where tile has been employed. Each apartment, in addition to the regular built-in features, is to be provided with a range and a built-in refrigerator, with the breakfast nook also furnished. In the large basement several stationary tubs have been installed and other equipment for the use of the tenants who are to do their own laundry. Work garages have been built on the rear of the lot and individual storage rooms are to be found in the basement. Continuous hot water service is a splendid feature of the house. The building is to be known as the Scott apartments. Mrs. Ella Scott, mother of Mr. Sanderson, being associated with him in the project.

Notice Again Given On Teachers' Picnic

BREA, May 23.—Attention is again being called to the annual picnic which is being held to maintain interest for teachers of the Brea grammar school under the auspices of both the Brea and the Local Parent Teacher associations. Gensola Park, at Pomona, is the place selected for the setting of this outing and all teachers are asked to be there at five o'clock bringing with them either sandwiches and salad, or sandwiches and cold coffee and a meat dish will be provided by the associations. Children are welcome if accompanied by one or both parents or a proper attendant. Members of the faculty of the Brea-Clinda union high school have been invited to attend.

Retiring Chief Of P. T. A. Entertains

BREA, May 23.—Mrs. Arthur Sullivan, retiring president of the Brea Parent Teacher association entertained both the incoming and outgoing officers of the organization at her home Wednesday, the affair taking the form of a delightful luncheon. Those present were Mesdames Margaret BREA, May 23.—Frank Mason, of the Brea post American Legion, has been named chairman of a committee to promote the legion sign-posting idea and has brought the matter to the attention of the county council. According to Mason, if present plans carry the signs used will be similar to those used by the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis and other service clubs throughout the country and Orange county will be the first in the United States to adopt such a method through the legion. Mason is having a sample sign post made which he will display at the various legion posts in the county on their regular meetings. The proposed sign is a two-foot replica of the official American Legion emblem, finished in blue and gold and mounted on a six foot post which will also carry information to visiting legionnaires as to meetings of the local post. The signs are to be posted only on thoroughfares leading into the ten cities of the county which have legion posts.

The honoree was presented with a beautiful linen luncheon set.

Mrs. Falconer and daughters, Dorothy and Margaret, returned Tuesday to Los Angeles to prepare for their trip to the east.

BREA STORES NOT TO OPEN ON JULY 23

Proposed July 16
Everybody's going to close shop and forget about the bill collectors and the monthly installments on the family fliwer next Thursday when we stage our annual picnic. Orange County Park, the scene of the gala event will fairly shake with pep when the gang arrive from Brea and the surrounding country, because if you want it done right, "Just leave it to Brea."

Plans now outlined by the entertainment committee of the C. of C. include transportation for those who haven't payed last month's garage bill or who are otherwise inconvenienced. The program calls for departure from the corner of Birch and Pomona, right down town, at 10 o'clock promptly. Every body arrange to bring their own eats. The drinks, (?) well there will be drinks on the grounds. Yes, you and your friends are invited, including the beverages.

Some twenty events have been scheduled by the committee in charge including running and jumping events and various and sundry contests for the old and young, lean and fat. Prizes are being arranged for by the merchants and it looks like there wasn't going to be a dull moment in the land; whole proceedings.

When the athletic contests have been pulled off and the champions decided in the east va, west baseball game and everybody has done his or her darndest you can either stay overnight for supper and trip the light fantastic to tantalizing strains from syncopated horns or crank up the old fliwer and wend homeward. Sure we're going. Wouldn't miss such a chance. Yes my neighbors going to!

Here are the events for ladies; 50 yard dash, potato race; sack race; egg race; rolling pin throw and special 50 yard dash for ladies weighing more than the average.

For the men, open to all; 50 yard dash; potato race, sack race, three legged race, dude race, fat mens special and bull throwing contest.

The following events have been arranged for those under 16 years of age—Girls; broad jump, 50 yard dash ball throw; 440 yard relay (east vs. west) 5 inning ball game (east vs. west). For boys there will be the same events including a watermelon eating contest. A dozen or more committees have charge of the affair and if you have any suggestions leave them to the Chamber of Commerce.

Cedar St. Extension Endorsed

July 22

Goodly number of the members of the Chamber of Commerce met on Monday evening in the Chamber Hall and discussed many important problems affecting the community. While the attendance was not as great in numbers as some of the past meetings the enthusiasm of the meeting made up for this discrepancy.

Committee reports were received from the various divisions as work and progress in all lines recorded. Improvement of present road and street conditions, new roads, industrial activity, advertising and publicity occupied a great deal of the time of the meeting. Discussion of the plans formulated for the first annual Brea Picnic on Thursday presented much material for good natured bantering and it is expected that the community will turn out in full force for this event.

CEDAR STREET EXTENSION PLANS ENDORSED AT MEET

Members of the Brea Chamber of Commerce at their regular monthly meeting on Monday night enthusiastically endorsed the report of the Road Committee and urged that every effort be extended in the securing of right of way for the proposed Cedar Street Highway.

This particular bit of new highway was brought to the special attention of the local organization when Yorba Linda asked that this community go on record favoring a new highway paralleling the Pacific Electric railway tracks between Brea and Yorba Linda. This new thorough fare was planned to connect with the Santa Ana canyon route on one end and Telegraph Road in Los Angeles county on the other.

The substitute highway, between Cedar Street, will serve two purposes. It will fulfill what the other highway intended to and also bring closer to Brea, through the construction of a new direct route, certain trading area which has heretofore been more or less out of the main line of travel. The extension of Cedar Street to the West and to the east means that Brea is putting itself on the map so far as the travel between Riverside and Los Angeles is concerned and also gives to Northern Orange-county a route much shorter than the old way to Los Angeles. The Cedar Street Highway is the next step.

Update

Carl's Night helps Hermosa

FULLERTON — The Carl's Jr. restaurant's support of the Fullerton Adopt-A-School program has resulted in a unique fundraising project for the student council at Hermosa Drive School. Carl's Jr., which adopted Hermosa Drive last fall, is holding "Carl's Night" tonight until 7:30.

Any customer who presents a special Hermosa Drive flyer to the Carl's Jr. at 4010 N. Harbor Blvd., in Fullerton, is assured that 25 percent of the profits from the purchase of food and beverages will support the school's fundraising effort.

Members of Hermosa Drive's student council will decorate the restaurant in a 1950s Rock-Around-the-Clock motif. The children will dress in '50s-style clothing and provide music from that era.

Helping Hands jobs available

FULLERTON — Applications are being taken by Home Helping Hands to provide light housekeeping/personal care to older adults in frail health residing in Orange County. This service provides a safe and clean environment for the frail elderly, enabling them to remain in their own homes.

This is part-time work, at least 9 hours per week and not more than 18. The hours are between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The salary is $5 to $7 per hour, plus mileage, for homemakers and $7 to $8 per hour for qualified personal-care aides.

Applicants must be 18 or older. For more information, please call the Fullerton office of Home Helping Hands. (714) 870-0820.

Home Helping Hands is a non-profit organization funded through the Orange County Area Agency on Aging and sponsored by the Volunteer Center of Orange County - North.

Museum room available to rent

FULLERTON — Fullerton Museum Center has rooms to rent at minimal fees for everything from a wedding reception to a monthly club meeting. Groups as large as 75 can be accommodated, and fees can include use of the museum's kitchen and patio, as well as audio-visual equipment.

Paul Garver, facility coordinator for the museum, said rental fees vary depending "on the number of hours the facility is required, the profit or non-profit status of the group, and whether the group is from Fullerton or another city."

Hourly rental rates range from $15 to $45 for meetings, with functions such as receptions charged flat rates. In addition to the base fee, an $8-per-hour charge will be added for a security custodian.

Reservations should be made at least three weeks in advance of the planned event. A deposit will be required at the time of reservation, and the balance of the rental fees must be paid prior to the event.

Further information about rentals may be obtained by calling Garver at the museum at (714) 738-6357.

The Fullerton Museum Center is located at 301 N. Pomona Ave., east of Harbor Boulevard, in downtown Fullerton.

Day of Reader held at school

FULLERTON — Laguna Road School held its third annual Day of the Reader today. The success of this annual celebration of reading encouraged teachers to welcome guest readers who shared a favorite story or poem with students. Adult models demonstrated a love of literature and the pleasure derived from reading.

Many dignitaries from the local, state and national arenas of politics and sports were invited to serve as readers, such as President and Mrs. George George Denmejian, Bill Honig, Fullerton City Council members, Magic Johnson and Tommy Lasorda.
