Brea Chamber of Commerce today exposed a vicious racket—the use of officious “Public Notice” signs to sell so-called “merchandise”.

Metcalfe, Secretary, said that the public headings are similar in legal notices and auctions and bankruptcy announcements. The implication of the merchandise is sacrificed at a fraction of the worth to satisfy the claims of litigants.

Metcalfe said that the signs are merely a ruse to defraud the public.

Chamber Manager, said these “public notices” are a test in a series of appeals sales strategems employed by certain promoters to defraud the public.

Other versions exposed by the Chamber include the sale of a hotel for a few days by hit-men, the disposal of their goods by sacrifice because their families are no longer selling means of home demonstrations,” Metcalfe said.

Metcalfe said, “misuse of a distress appeal in merchandising is a scheme to defraud the public and a betrayal of public confidence in advertising.”

Ms. Clara Etta Winchel, 84, died last night at the Jude Hospital.

She is survived by her husband, Harry Winchel, two daughters, Mrs. Alice Thompson of Brea, and Mrs. Marian of Lynwood and four sons, Harry of Brea, Robert of Los Angeles, Laing of N. Hollywood, Leland Kinsler of Brea. Funeral service will be held today at 2 P.M. at the Spiers Mortuary and interment will be in Loma Vista cemetery.

Construction Co. representatives to discuss the need of school facilities that will be created by the development of the 1,100 acre Union Acre Oil Co. tract.

With the contemplated construction of as many as 4,400 homes it is estimated that the school population could be increased by more than 5,000 students. Of these about 10 per cent would probably be of high school age, it is said.

Master Plan

Several months ago the Brea Elementary School District came up with a master plan that would eventually give Brea three junior high schools and 18 elementary schools, each with 16 classrooms and two kindergartens.

The projected plan is based upon the saturation point with 11,440 homes in Brea. A recent report showed that there are now about 3,500.

The Mobil tract, on which construction started this week, will have 375 homes. There are 1,100 homes in the RCB tract.

High school more time to assist school supt. Vincent Jaster on the new school development program, the trustees recently moved Reed Peterson from Laurel School to take over some of the junior high supervisory work.

Some sound planning and alertness to the imminent growth of the area are given by Supt. Frank Hopkins as major reasons for the Brea-Olinda Union High School's escape from the same type student crush which has happened in other areas.

Golf Course Is Granted Cut In Assessment Hike

Assessment hikes levied against 20 Orange county golf courses were cut in half yesterday in an “across-the-board” reduction ordered by the board of equalization in Santa Ana.

The reduction was ordered after Supervisor William Phillips contended that the increase would drive the golf courses out of business.

A debate that preceded the board action was triggered by the Brea golf course bid for a reduction made by attorney Norman Smedegard. He pointed out that the course was restricted in its use by zoning regulations.

MAY BE NEAR END

More Brea Streets Given Tree Names

What may be the last of streets named for trees in Brea are designated on the map of Mobil tract on which construction has started.

The developers of the tract originally planned to name the streets for areas in the vicinity of the national capital since they intended to call their subdivision Capital Homes. The planning commission, however, imposed the condition that streets be named for trees.

Streets Named

There are eleven streets in the tract and instead of names like Bethesda, as the developers originally planned, they have been given “tree-like” labels such as Driftwood Pl. and Glen Oaks St. Other names of streets in the tract are Arrowwood Dr., Nutwood St., Pineridge St., Evergreen Dr., Mariposa Dr., Orangewood Dr., Tamarack Ave., and Ponderosa Ave., and Hazelwood Pl.

Brea now has 109 named streets. Of these 54 bear the names of trees or names with tree-like connotations. The rest are a mixture of everything.

Present Street Names

Brea streets which currently have tree names or names associated with trees are: Ash, Alder, Almond, Catalpa, Cedar, Chestnut, Cherry, Baywood, Briarwood, Birch, Cottonwood, Berry (streets and way), Cypress, Date, Elm, Eucalyptus, Fir, Firethorne, Fern, Jacaranda, Juniper, Jasmine, Larchwood, Laurel, Lemon, Latana, Lime, Linden, Locust, Magnolia, Maple, Pine Oak, Oleander, Orange, Palm, (street and avenue), Peach, Pecan, Pepperwood, Poplar, Poinsettia, Wildrose, Spruce, Mulberry, Redwood, Sycamore, Walnut, (way and drive), Willow, Valencia, Teak, Tamarack, San Juan, Sequoia and Rutledge.

Other Brea Names

Other Brea streets are: Aroclava, Arovista, Associated, Bernice, Bonnie, Bracken, Brea, Carey, Carlson (drive and circle), Central, De Jur, De Lay, Deanna, Denise, Delphia, Deodara, Dorothy, Eadington, Eastridge, El Encanto, Ethelinda, Etna, Harvey, Havenhurst, Hodsden, Imperial, Joyce, La Canada, Las Lomas, Lockhaven, Los Altos, Madrona, Mauna Loa, McCart (Ave. and circle), Napoli, Puente, Randolph, Sandra, Sievers, Sparr, St. Crispin, Steele, Tobert, Vesuvius, Union, Tracie, Valentia, Walling, Wardman (drive east and west), Westridge, Wickford, Whittier, Worthington.

(Bill) Atkins, now scheduled for Aug. 12, is probably facing a new delay for the same reason.

Robert E. Webb, attorney for Atkins, had hoped to take the long delayed depositions in his office in Santa Ana today, but at press time it appeared doubtful that they would be taken, particularly since City Clerk Constance Young is out of town on vacation.

Needed are the depositions of City Administrator A. W. Studebaker, the city clerk, Atkins and the city councilmen.

Out Since February

Atkins was forced out of office as chief of police by an age limit ordinance in February. He then obtained a writ charging that his retirement resulted from a “plan” concocted in secret session of the council. He further charged that Councilman Thomas O. Speer had threatened to get rid of him.

The first hearing of the writ, scheduled for March 29, was postponed when former city attorney Harold McCabe was suddenly hospitalized. Twice since then the case has been postponed because depositions were not ready.

Richison Acting Chief

Since February Lieut. W. M. Richison has been acting chief of police, appointed by the city council.

A move was made several months ago to have Ernst & Ernst, management consultants, assist in finding a new chief, but it was challenged by the civil service commission.

Councilman Speer appeared before the commission with Councilman Sam Magnus and advised the commission that they would be informed of any arrangement made with Ernst & Ernst in obtaining the help of the management consultants in finding a new chief. The commission has heard no further on the matter, nor has it been advised to set up examinations for a new chief.

The commission is now asking the council to give the acting chief the same pay as Atkins received inasmuch as he has assumed the full duties and responsibilities of chief.

Discharge Of More Police Awaited Here

Brea police waited expectantly over the week-end for the heads to roll, but up to this morning there were no dismissals. Indications are, however, that were to come. Meantime it was reported today that one officer was announcing to resign. The city council will receive a report at its meeting tonight of the dismissal of Edward Soderberg, a probationary officer, and Ruth Hawkins, a police matron, and maybe asked by Acting Chief W. M. Richison to replace them. Both have appealed to the civil service commission, asking for a public hearing. The council could also get a report from the civil service commission on the recent bids for the job of police chief although the final grading in an oral examination may not be complete.

Brea, Drives Off Road, Found Dead

William Parker Wing, 78, Oak Place, Brea, Saturday was pronounced dead on arrival at Whittier Presbyterian Hospital after apparently suffering a heart attack and driving his car off the road. California Highway Patrol officers reported the Wing vehicle was eastbound on Telegraph Road, near Victoria, in South Whittier, when it drifted off the roadway to the right and hit a chain link fence alongside the Candlewood Country Club. Only minor damage was done to the right front fender of the vehicle, according to CHP, and a witness told officers the car was traveling about 30 mph when the mishap occurred.

Ezra Taft Benson: Another 'Not Candidate' For 1964

By ELLIS E. (BILL) REED Managing Editor

Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture in the Eisenhower cabinet, deploras attacks on the free enterprise system, favors indefinite continuance of the bracero program and declares he is not a candidate for either President or vice president of the United States.

In an exclusive interview before making the principal address at the dinner closing the seminars and annual meeting of Region 12 of the Boy Scouts of America at Disneyland Hotel Saturday night Benson said "I have no political ambitions."

Benson, who has been chairman of Region 12 of the Boy Scout organization, said that he was aware that his name had been mentioned as a "dark horse" in the Presidential sweepstakes for both the No. 1 and No. 2 position, but that he was going to Europe for the Mormon Church and was "not running."

"I am anxious to see a good man chosen and elected," Benson declared. "We need someone who will restore confidence in the free enterprise system on which this nation was founded. We need someone with courage to deal with the communistic threat which is now 90 miles off our shores. We need men with mandates higher than the ballot box. We need leaders who not ashamed to say 'In God We Trust' and who will fight to keep atheistic communism from leading us into moral, physical and economic bankruptcy.

"Without God in our government we cannot succeed." The former Secretary of Agriculture said that the bracero program must be continued. He called it a vital link in the chain of sound economic good relations with "our neighbor to the South."

"Southern California is the home of the braceros," Benson declared.

Benson said that he opposed the sale of wheat to Russia. (Please Turn to Page 2 See: "Benson")

Church Group Breaks Ground For Building

Ground was broken yesterday for the second of four proposed buildings of the Randolph Avenue Baptist Church on property at 251 South Randolph Ave. Rev. Emery Collins Missionary of Orange County was the guest speaker.

The new building is planned to increase the Sunday School space to a total capacity of 350 students. The building will be located west of the present building. It will be two stories with approximately 5400 sq. ft.

The building will be financed by the sale of notes which bear the purchaser 6 per cent interest. These will be sold to the membership and friends of the church.

In 1960 the church built the building presently used for worship and Sunday School. In 1962 the church bought additional property which brought their land total to two acres.

Plans call for completion of the new facilities early in 1964.

Badham Addresses G.O.P. Women Here

Assemblyman Robert Badham of the 71st District, which includes Brea, is addressing the Brea Republican Women's Club today at the home of Mrs. H. E. Carver of 426 Jasmine Dr.

Life's little dramas continue day after day, week after week, month after month, year after year without interruption.

"Well, what did you do today?" asked a Brea mother as her little girl came home from Sunday School.

"Our teacher told us about Moses and the pills," the child replied.

"Pills!" exclaimed the mother. "I don't recall anything in the Bible about Moses and pills."

"Oh, yes," the little girl said. "Our teacher told us about Moses and the pills, and she said that Moses went up into the mountains and came down with a bunch of tablets."

Pampered Pet
A Brea woman went to a pet shop and said that she wanted to buy a jacket for her dog.

"How big a dog do you have?" she was asked.
"Oh, about so big," said the woman, indicating with her hands.

"Perhaps if you brought a dog in we could put on it that fit well," the pet shop suggested.

"Oh, I couldn't do that," the woman exclaimed. "That's a surprise present for my husband."

City Heads to 'Wood' for Street Names as the Tree List Runs Low

Brea may be running out of trees for street names and the city planning commission is heading for the "woods."

On two tract maps of the new Heritage Hills development which were conditionally approved last week there were six "wood" names—Cliffwood, Castwood, Candlewood, Bywood, Brookwood and Berrywood — but one, Candlewood, will be changed.

Other street names on the maps are Balsa, Apricot, Cashew, Betil, Bywood, Beryl, Loquat, Lotus and Blossom.

Protest Made

Developers of the Mobil tract, which is called Capitol Homes, objected to naming streets for trees, insisting that they should bear names of places and things in and around the nation's capital, but finally yielded to the planners.

The Heritage Hills developers indicated several months ago that when it came to naming streets they would strongly oppose the continuing practice of naming streets for trees, but no objection was voiced at the time the planners approved the maps last week. This will probably come later since it has been the expressed intention of the developer to name streets for persons, places and things associated with the American heritage.

Defends Position

Questioned about the continuing practice of naming Brea streets for trees Commissioner Robert Clark strongly defended the planners position.

Reminded that both Mobil and Heritage developers had planned names compatible with their respective themes, Clark said:

"We are not concerned about what the developer wants in the way of street names to help him sell houses — we are only concerned in what we think is best for Brea and we like the tree names."

Asked if the multiplicity of tree names and tree-like names was not causing confusion with the general public and creating a real hardship for delivery men, mail carriers, utilities people and others, Clark said "if they are having any difficulty or don't like what we are doing why don't they come to us?"

City Administrator A. W. Studebaker said the original plan in street naming was to provide a different set of names for each area so that all persons concerned could quickly determine what section of the city a particular address was located.

Residents have suggested a wide variety of names for streets. Some have suggested the names of Presidents, some the various states, some minerals, flowers or animals and others have proposed the names of famous persons. Still others have suggested names of American cities, foreign countries and even numbers and letters of the alphabet.

Trustee Areas - It was also agreed that seven trustees would be elected at large with the school boards involved determining how the areas would be bounded. The county committee asked for a report back for approval at its September meeting.

Indications were the proposal would be based on equality of representation using a predetermined ratio of trustees to registered voters as a yardstick.

The election if approved by the state board, would take place sometime before the end of 1965, probably in December.

However, the county committee hopes to have the county superintendent to start election machinery early so filings can begin before the state board meets.

Vernon G. Kroeger, Dean of Students at Brea-Olinda Union High School, yesterday told police of two missing microphones which recently disappeared from the high school auditorium.

"It was a tough town," Harry "Frog Winchel, 532 S. Walnut, chuckled as he recalled Brea of about 50 years ago. "It was largely an oil town, with sheep raising the only other major industry. My father, Harry Winchel, Sr., was Brea's First Chief of police - and the only officer on the staff! Every Saturday night he had to go over to a pool hall located at Brea Blvd. and Ash to try to keep peace among the oilmen on their night off. Plenty of billiard balls and cues went flying around then, and Dad had to break up more fights than I care to remember. Winchel grinned as he reminisced about old-time Brea. "Yes, it was a pretty wild town on Saturday nights!

Planners Break Away From Naming Streets for Trees

A department from the old policy of naming streets for trees has been decided upon by the Brea Planning Commission at their meeting last night.

Chairman Thomas Kowalski proposed the break away while conditions proposed for the huge Heritage condominium developments near the junior high school were being discussed.

"We are going to have to find something else besides trees for the names of new streets," declared Kowalski, and Commissioners Edward Meador, Warren Griffith and Raymond Madsen were quick to agree with him.

Fire Peril Cited - Kowalski said the fire chief had cited the peril of not being able to reach the scene of a fire on time to avoid serious damage because of the confusion caused by tree names, particularly when they were similar.

Commissioner Madsen suggested that the developer propose names that were compatible with the name of his development and that these be submitted to the police and fire chiefs for their approval.

Stores and delivery agencies, have been complaining about their inability to locate residences here because of the tree-named streets confusion.

Suggested Other Names - While he was city administrator A. W. Studebaker proposed that streets in new tracts be given distinctive names so that they could be readily identified with certain parts of the city and easily located, but until last night the planners stuck to the tree naming policy.

Heritage officials are expected to come up with street names other than those of trees when tract application is again considered Sept. 2. A continuance was granted last night to give the city staff and the Heritage engineers an opportunity to iron out the details of 20 conditions imposed by the planners. While there is general agreement on most conditions there are still a few rough spots.

Industrial Park - Also continued to the Sept. 2 meeting was a Heritage request for a zone change from R-1 to C-1 on 8.2 acres located north and south of Deodara Street and east of the route of the new Orange Freeway.

A variance request to allow two-story apartments within 150 feet of R-1 zoned property on the north side of Acacia Street, east of Brea Boulevard, was also continued to Sept. 2.

An addition to a single family residence at 239 S. Randolph Ave. zoned R-3 P.D. was approved as was a variance to enclose a patio at 908 Tracie Dr.

Continued to Sept. 16 was the hearing on a use permit to construct an "Industrial Park" in the M-1 zone 400 feet west of Puente Street, south of Ocean.

The planners by a three to one vote determined to recommend to the city council a zone change from R-4 to R-1 on the Pyron tract on Valencia. Commissioner Madsen cast the negative vote. Chairman Kowalski and Commissioners Meador and Griffith voted "aye" Commissioner Richard Basse was not present.

An application for proposed additional sign copy on a sign on Central Avenue west of N. Brea Boulevard was okayed.

'Barmaid' Taken in Brea Raid

Sandra Jean Santo, 31, of Whittier was arrested at the Brea Inn, 108 S. Brea Blvd., Saturday night by local police and charged with "outraging public decency".

Also cited was Russell Stephen Meyer, 36, of Yorba Linda, owner of the Brea Inn.

According to police, two officers entered the inn wearing the uniforms of gas station attendants. They observed the "topless" barmaid and notified Lt. Arthur Le Blanc.

Accompanying Le Blanc to the Brea Inn were Officers Mann, Skaggs, Everett, Richardson, Edmonds, Watson, Marosy, Yates and Butzbach.

Lt. Le Blanc said he believed this was the first night of the "topless" operation.

The suspects were released on citation and are scheduled to appear Oct. 1 in the Anaheim-Fullerton Municipal Court.

First Streets Without Tree Names Are Awaited in Brea

Giving Brea street names of trees or tree-like names has come to a halt. Several developers submitted street names which would have taken Brea out of the woods long ago but the old tree name policy persisted until recently.

When a new Heritage Construction Co. map was first submitted there was strict compliance with the planning commission policy. Names of streets appearing on the map for the streets east of Brea Blvd. and north of the junior high school are Cliffwood, Buttonwood, Apricot, Brookwood, Balsa and Blossom.

But the last time Heritage submitted a map the planners decided to let the developers do their own street naming, subject to a police and fire departments O.K.

When A.W. Studebaker was city administrator, he suggested that streets in various sections of the city be named for such things as minerals, flowers, famous people or birds or animals so that each could be easily identified with an area and easily located by the fire department, police department, postoffice and delivery people. Instead the old city policy made all streets bear names of trees.

Ned Names Awaited
Names first submitted by Capitol Homes in the Mobil tract were in keeping with names associated with the Nation's Capitol and Heritage originally submitted names suggestive of the American heritage, but these were changed to tree names.

Now the filing of new street names by a half dozen developers is being awaited. If they are okayed by the police and fire departments, they will probably become official.

An experience of the fire department earlier this year focused attention on Brea's street numbering. The firemen got a call to Wardman Place in the Pleasant Hills section only to find the numbers were duplicated on both east and west sections of the street and they had gone to the wrong end.

Duplication
A check at the time of the fire department incident revealed that duplication of tree name streets within the city were causing confusion and bringing protests from delivery services. There were two Palm

WEATHER

The U.S. Weather Bureau five day forecast posted today called for sunny weather and Streets, two Mariposa Streets, two Valencia Streets and at least two Lilac Streets. The fact that some were called Drives or Places did not lessen the confusion. It was evident that Brea was running out of names of trees.

When the furore of naming streets for trees was at its height many citizens joined in making suggestions of names other than trees.

One suggestion was that the streets in one section be named for states, as has been done in several neighboring communities. Another suggestion was that they be named for Presidents. A third suggestion was that streets be named for flowers. Still another, for minerals.

Naming streets for prominent Californians, including Olinda's own Walter Johnson has also been suggested.

Meanwhile the tract maps are being watched to see what names the developers now come up with.

Purpose of the additional dedication, according to Britzian, would be to allow a better flow of traffic in and out of the shopping center, and to prevent bottlenecks from developing at the intersection of Brea Blvd. and Central Ave.

Might Have Obligation

Public Works Director Robert Warnick admitted that the city might have some obligation in the matter because it had not anticipated or planned for the additional right-of-way. He suggested that a compromise between the city and the developers might be possible, through means such as reducing sidewalk width.

All five commission members voted for the recommendations proposed by the city planning staff, although Commissioner Edward Jackson said he objected to the additional dedication requirement.

Planning Commission Chairman Thomas Kowalski said he had "mixed emotions" regarding the recommendation.

Company spokesmen said that adjustment of the conflict might force postponement of construction, which was scheduled to begin about January 1, 1967. Other staff recommendations adopted in connection with the proposed shopping center include:

Increasing landscaping along the parking area;

Plans Board Oks Changes At Schnitzel

A resolution allowing several deviations from original plans submitted by Der Wienerschnitzel drive-in restaurant was adopted Monday by the Planning Commission.

The resolution, if approved by the City Council, would allow used brick to replace slump stone in the wall and change some of the landscaping, including placement of a planter along a future city right-of-way. Most of these changes have already been made.

A request for elimination of a required wall adjacent to the back alley was denied.

It was also brought out at the meeting that Der Wienerschnitzel had not leased the entire area presented in the plan. The company was cautioned that it

Not Aware Of Loans Made In Brea, La Habra

R. C. Wallace, financial vice-president for Prudential Savings and Loan Association, San Gabriel, said today he doesn't know if the concern has any loans in La Habra or Brea but "I would assume so."

Wallace was asked about the possibility in wake of interest rate escalations announced by the company.

"We plan to have a statement later today (Wednesday) but in order to find out how many loans we had in La Habra and Brea we would have to go into special analysis.

"We don't plan to go into any dollar figures," he added.

"We have loans all over Southern California so I assume we would have them in La Habra and Brea."

Homes known to be affected are Ridgeview Homes, Hacienda Heights and Larkwood Homes in Whittier.

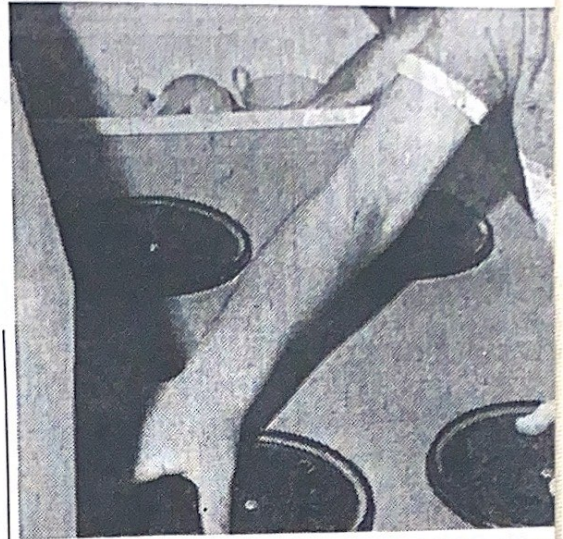

Rowland Heights property owners met this week to incorporate to battle the increases from 6.6 per cent to a high of 7.6 per cent. Tracts in Orange County are also affected.

Assemblyman William E. Dannemeyer told the meeting at Rowland High School gym Tuesday night that he would ask for legislation to regulate interest rate increases.

No Name's The Same To Basse

Following an impassioned burst of oratory by Planning Commissioner Richard Basse opposing changing the name of Deodara Street to Lambert Road, the Planning Commission Monday approved the name change by a vote of 4-1.

Basse, who lives on Deodara Street, inveighed against the new name, even while admitting that he had been forced to spell the word Deodara thousands of times to people who wanted his address.

"Deodara Street stands for something. It's part of Brea's great history and tradition," Basse said. "Even Ocean Avenue stands for something. But I cannot visualize any special meaning for the title Lambert Road."

Madsen Disagrees

Commissioner Raymond Madsen disagreed, saying that the name Lambert stood for something great in the area's development. "I'm sure that the head of the Orange County Street Naming Committee, Mr. Lambert, will be pleased," he added.

The commission recommended that the name change become effective one year after adoption by the City Council.

Renamed Streets Get Mail

There are some people who still have businesses on Pomona Avenue, and there are also still people living on the 400 and 500 block of Magnolia Street.

You didn't know there were such streets in Brea? The post office knows.

Letters are still coming to the office for addresses on Pomona and Magnolia although the streets no longer are called by that name.

Pomona Avenue is now Brea Boulevard, as it has been for more than three years.

The 400 and 500 blocks of Magnolia have been Union Place for more than 10 years.

The survey began Wednesday and will probably be complet- ed sometime next week.

Mrs. Duckworth emphasized that all information supplied by respondents is confidential. Survey team members have report- ed excellent response since the survey began.

New Streets in Brea Tracts Not Named for Trees

A major break through in Brea street naming has started and the new tract maps are showing up with names not as- sociated with trees.

The Brea planning commission abandoned the policy of requir- ing streets to be named for trees after numerous complaints from companies maintaining service and delivery that their units were unable to locate ad- dresses because of the tree names all over town and not restricted to any one area.

Names of streets on a new Macco tract map recently sub- mitted are Devonshire Drive, Ravenscrest Drive, Brittany Lane, Westmoreland Drive, Hill- haven Drive, Heather Circle, Castle Gate Lane, Chevy Chase Drive, Amberwick Lane, Cobble- stone Lane and Windermere Lane.

The planners still require street name approval by the police and fire departments, but no longer are the developers required to stay with the trees.

Developers complained several years ago that they were run- ning out of tree names and at that time George Ellis, who was then fire chief, came up with a new list of trees and tree-like names, but this didn't stop the complaints of the de- velopers although many of them went along with the tree name idea.

Also scheduled for construc- tion this year are two shop- ping centers, one at Central Avenue and Tamarack and Brea Boulevard, as well as sev- eral churches. Some industrial and commercial expansion is also expected to boost building permits during the year.

Audrey Oxandaboure of the building department said today that indications were that June would be another big month in building, perhaps equaling or passing this month.

'Party Unity' Follows Sign-Tearing Episode

Dennis Carpenter of Newport Beach, chairman of the Orange County Republican Central Com- mittee, has announced what he terms is "a step forward in the direction of party unity" after a conference following the recent sign-tearing episode possibly involving adherents of candidates for the 35th district assembly nomination.

The district comprises part of northern Orange County and San Bernardino County.

Prior to the outbreak of sign ripping, two candidates with- drew from the race although their names will be on the bal- lot next Tuesday, June 7, they are Thomas Whaling of Fullerton, who threw his backing to John Cooker of Ontario and Calyton Stanhope of Montclair-Chino who threw his support to Bohn Briggs of Fullerton.

After the Wednesday meeting regarding destruction of signs Carpenter stated that an un- fortunate amount of interference with candidates' signs and public advertising had resulted in the feeling that unfair cam- paign practices might have been used by some candidates.

At the request of the county chairman, the four remaining Republican candidates, John Briggs, John Cooper, Don Mc

This action settles a controversy, so far as Brea is concerned, over which route would be endorsed for the new highway connecting with Yorba Linda and the Placentia districts to the east.

Brea Chamber Will Be

and Placentians

Brea, Yorba Linda and Placentia road committees will meet at the Brea Chamber of Commerce headquarters on Thursday night. This promises to be one of the most interesting meetings yet held concerning the advisability of certain road changes and improvements in northern Orange county. The Carbon Canyon road is due for its share of discussion owing to the fact that this particular stretch of county highway is a connecting link between Orange and San Bernardino counties. It is the popular consensus of opinion that this road should be paved and that such improvement would be of great benefit to all of Orange county. This would be particularly true in event the Orange county harbor is improved.

Placentia is exceedingly anxious that Brea and Yorba Linda consider them in on the new Yorba Linda-Brea highway which is being considered. As was first planned, by Yorba Linda this highway was routed along the Pacific Electric tracks into Yorba Linda and then east to the Santa Ana Canyon highway. Two or three other routes have been discussed in Brea, however, and when Placentia representatives present their idea on the subject still another route may be considered.

TRI-CITY ROAD IS PARLEY CRUX

Several Tentative Routes
Will Be Given
Airing

When the joint committee of the Brea, Yorba Linda and Placentia Chambers of Commerce meet at Brea on Thursday night to discuss road problems pertaining to northern Orange county it is expected that many details regarding the road situation in this section of the county will be worked out.

These three communities are especially interested in the paving of the Carbon canyon road since some activity on the blind end of the thruhighway has been manifested. It is stated that this highway into San Bernardino county is one of the most important leading into the county and one of those which has received little or no consideration up to this time.

The other big problem concerning the tri-city road committee will be the new proposed link in the county highway system, connecting these three communities. Several routes have been suggested but up to the present time not one of the three communities has been able to reach any definite decision as to which is the best for the county and all communities concerned.

Yorba Linda is thought to favor the road proposed to parallel the Pacific Electric right of way, while Brea is prone to consider an extension of the present Ollinda highway. Placentia feels that an extension of Cedar street in Brea to connect with the Golden avenue road would be acceptable.

Not only will this community receive a great deal of publicity through such a stunt but it will give us all a better chance to get acquainted with our fellow man. Life is what you make it. This picnic idea is real stuff. Give it a boost.

Orange County Park, the scene of the gala event will fairly shake with pep when the gang arrive from Brea and the surrounding country, because if you want it done right, "Just leave it to Brea."

Plans now outlined by the entertainment committee of the C. of C. include transportation for those who haven't paid last month's garage bill or who are otherwise inconvenienced. The program calls for departure from the corner of Birch and Pomona, right down town, at 10 o'clock promptly. Every body arrange to bring their own eats. The drinks, (?) well there will be drinks on the grounds. Yes, you and your friends are invited, including the beverages.

Some twenty events have been scheduled by the committee in charge including running and jumping events and various and sundry contests for the old and young, lean and fat. Prizes are being arranged for by the merchants and it looks like there wasn't a dull moment in the proceedings.

When the athletic contests have been pulled off and the champions and D'been discussed in the past game and everybody has done his or her duty, you can either stay over for supper and trip the light fantastic to tantalizing strains from syncopated horns or crank up the old flivver and wend homeward. Goodly number of the members of the Chamber of Commerce met on Monday evening in the Chamber Hall and discussed many important problems relating to the community. While the attendance was not as great in number as some of the past meetings the enthusiasm of the meeting made up for this discrepancy.

Committee reports were received from the various divisions as work and progress in all lines recorded. Improvement of present road and street conditions, new roads, industrial activity, advertising and publicity occupied a great deal of the time of the meeting. Discussion of the plans formulated for the first annual Brea Picnic on Thursday presented much material for good natured bantering and it is expected that the community will turn out in full force for this event.

CEDAR STREET EXTENSION PLANS ENDORSED AT MEET

Members of the Brea Chamber of Commerce at their regular monthly meeting on Monday night enthusiastically endorsed the report of the Road Committee and urged that every effort be extended in the securing of right of way for the proposed Cedar Street Highway.

This particular bit of new highway was brought to the special attention of the local organization when Yorba Linda asked that this community go on record favoring a new highway paralleling the Pacific Electric railway tracks between Brea and Yorba Linda. This new thorough fare was planned to connect with the Santa Ana canyon route on one end and Telegraph Road in Los Angeles county on the other.

The substitute highway, between Cedar Street, will serve two purposes. It will fulfill what the other highway intended to and also bring closer to Brea, through the construction of a new direct route, certain trading area which has heretofore been more or less out of the main line of travel.

The extension of Cedar Street to the West and to the east means that Brea is putting itself on the map so far as the travel between Riverside and Los Angeles is concerned and also gives to Northern Orange-county a route much shorter than the old route to Los Angeles. The Cedar Street extension to the west will also connect with the New River station terminal through.

Return June 19
Tri-City Road Ground Holds Meeting in Brea at C. of C.

PLAN NEW ARTERY TO L. A. COUNTY LINE City Park, Playground Pool Contemplated For Brea

Providing the plans of the Tri-City Road Committee which met at the Brea Chamber of Commerce last evening materialize, Northern Orange County will have at least one new important highway and another highway paved. The committee discussed at length the new road connecting the Santa Ana Canyon highway and the Telegraph road now being completed on the Los Angeles County end.

It was finally decided to refer the various routes proposed back to the individual road committees for further consideration and thence to the individual organizations for their approval. Another meeting of the Tri-City committee will then be called and the route finally decided upon.

The paving of Carbon Canyon, perhaps one of the most important arteries in all of Orange County, was thoroughly considered and the problem will be presented at the next meeting of the Associated Chambers at Placentia.

The Carbon Canyon highway is to be taken care of by the San Bernardino authorities on their end of the route, according to information received, during the present summer.

The supervisors will be asked to give this matter serious consideration* and open through to the north the many possibilities which present themselves in the way of trade with our neighboring county.

That Brea will have a new city park and play ground for the kiddies including a swimming pool and playground apparatus is almost assured fact.

Yesterday at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, the Brea Women's clubs plans were formulated for the undertaking. Negotiations are now under way for a site and committee have been appointed to select estimates on the work to be planned.

cate Which Will Subdivide in 'Lots'

One of the largest oil land deals ever made in the eastern Orange county field was consummated this week when Hartwell Bradford and Warren Bradford entered into a contract by the terms of which they are to transfer to the E. E. McCalla Company, of Los Angeles, 42 acres of oil-bearing land in the Riehfield-Placencia section for a consideration given as approximately $400,000.

The reason why the Los Angeles people were willing to give up the largest price ever paid for a like area of Orange county land is seen in the fact that the location is in proven territory, in one of the most famous oil districts in the state, with three producing wells and contracts let for half a dozen others.

It is announced as the plan of the purchasers to sell the property out in what are known in the oil promotion industry as "oil lots," a substitute for the former "unit" system. By the latter arrangement the purchaser is given a deed to the actual property represented by his investment in the enterprise.

To facilitate the handling of the business, a big barn on the property is to be converted into a sales pavilion, or tract headquarters, giving an area of 60x60 for the accommodation of the office force and customers. The contract for remodeling the building has been given to Ben Cary, Fullerton builder, who will set his men to work on the deal at once.

The property involved is a portion of the ranch holdings of Hartwell and Warren Bradford, the former living in North Spadra Road, Fullerton, and the latter in Placencia. Before it was exploited for oil it was an orange grove.

The Bradfords are the sons of A. H. Bradford, Placencia pioneer and president of the First National Bank at that place.

Funeral For Poison Victim

Funeral services for Fred Clark, who died Monday from blood poisoning at his home in La Habra, were held Wednesday afternoon at McAulay's chapel, with a large number of friends in attendance. There were many beautiful floral offerings presented. Two impressive songs,

A representative from the Engineering Service Company of Los Angeles was present and gave a talk on the paving proposition. The matter was referred to R. W. Phelps, who was instructed to check the proposal with others which have been presented, and report the result of his comparison at the next meeting.

The city engineer was instructed to place the new subdivisions on the map and bring it up to date. Mr. Boxall was asked to look into the street lighting situation in Brea, and will report at the next session.

Splendid Road Opened to Traffic

The Brea-Olinda boulevard was thrown open to traffic again Wednesday after having been closed for about three weeks for re-surfacing. This job is the first done in the northern part of the county in the extensive road repair campaign which will be conducted this year.

The old cement road was first partially "skinned" and the bad holes filled up, after which a two inch surfacing of asphalt-concrete was placed on top. The result is a splendid road which, it is believed, will stand up under the very heavy traffic to which this road is subjected.

The re-surfacing extends from the Olinda boulevard to the city limits of Brea.

Thorough Test At Garden Grove

The Standard Oil Company is not leaving Garden Grove without making a thorough test for oil. The Chaffee well, now the deepest well drilling in Southern California, is at 5,530 feet and not looking any more like an oil well than it did when first spudded in. The Standard's Mitchell No. 1 at Buena Park is making splendid progress drilling, but as yet is not showing any indications of oil. Drilling is now close at 2,500 feet.

Nominate For P. T. A. Offices

The regular business meeting of Brea P. T. A. was held in the Laurel school Tuesday afternoon and a good attendance is reported. A very enjoyable program was given by the children production. The Getty Oil Company's Herwick shut off water at 2,654 and it will only take a few days to drill into the oil sands. The Leonard No. 1, at 3,000 feet, is a completed well, swabbing has started and this well should be producing before the end of the week. The Marine Oil Producing Company struck the oil sand at 2,700 feet and a couple of hundred feet more of hole will mean an oil well. The Prudential got a showing at 2,665 which means the big "pay" is not far away. The Petroleum Midway's Brown is drilling in the oil sand at 3,600 feet and looks like a nice producer. The Shell Company's Bixby No. 1, over on the east side of the Hill, struck the sand at 4,170. This is just the encouragement needed for the east side of the field, as none of the wells drilling has struck anything that looked any ways good. The Tehmescal Oil Company's No. 1 is in the oil sand at 2,845 and has the earmarks of the United Oil Company's Denni 2, the second largest producer on the Hill.

Actual work has commenced at Fairview. The Fairview Oil Company, formerly the Westminster Oil Company, wrecked the rig at Westminster, moved it to Fairview and is now rebuilding it on the Adams property, one of the larger holdings of the company. The Fairview Oil Company is backed by some of the ablest oil men in Southern California and will not be lacking in experience, money or management.

Eighth Grade Elects Officers

The eighth grade of the Brea grammar school has elected the following officers: President, Dorothy Schwitzer; vice president, Richard Jamison; secretary and treasurer, Audrey Bush.

The president appointed the following as chairmen of various committees: Decoration, Thelma Smith; poster, Harold Wadman; program, Bernice Shores; stage manager, Otho Lee McCabe; ticket, Kenneth Thompson; publicity, Helen Henigan.

The class is very busy working on the operetta, "Little Almond Eyes," which will be given for the graduation play.

Kammerer—Latest Chapman, Does 1875 Barrels

Yorba Linda-Richfield section continues to be the old reliable field. The Amalgamated brought in a 600 barrel well on the Wm Kammerer property. This well was completed at 3,242 and some 400 feet of oil sand was drilled through when drilling stopped.

The Merchants Petroleum Company has just completed its third producer. No. 3, drilled to 3,44 feet, is on the pump making 30 barrels.

The Union Oil Company's famous Morse 3 has not declined very much from the initial production. The big well started of two weeks ago at 4,600 and has fallen off only 300 barrels. Chapman No. 11, recently completed at 4,320 feet, is doing 1,875 barrels.

The Ridge Oil Company has succeeded in drilling by all the lost casing and is making new hole now at close to 4,700 feet. The outlook for a well has not changed materially for several hundred feet. The final hop now is to find something at 4,80 feet.

Richfield's deepest well is now being drilled by the Standard Oil Company at Kellogg No. 2. Drilling is now at 5,025 and the outlook for a producer is not very encouraging.

RAPID DRILLING BY LA HABRA MIDWAY

The past month's average for the La Habra Midway was better than any other month in the history of the well, according to a statement of one of the directors, a progress of 500 feet having been made during March which brings the depth past the 2,700 mark to 2,722 feet. Showings of oil and gas, which have been much in evidence in the past 600 feet drilled, still continue to look better and drill is now in sandy shale.

The 8½-inch casing being carried is going freely. Indication point to the possibility of entering an oil sand at any time.

What's in a street name?

Not a fitting item for auction, Brea homeowners say

By Robert Frank
The Register

BREA — Having a street named after the highest bidder seemed like a good idea to the Brea Soroptimists.

The women's service group put that honor on the block as part of its 1986 charity auction. Anaheim resident Ron Hudson was the high bidder with $610.

It took two years for the city to find a residential street to name after Hudson. It took two months to revoke the honor after nearby homeowners complained. To keep its promise, the city said it would require the next housing tract built in Brea to contain a Ronald Hudson Street.

The service group didn't expect such complications when it thought of the idea in 1986, outgoing Soroptimists President Agnes Porter said.

Porter said the idea came about as part of the group's 1986 holiday auction, its main annual fund-raiser.

"Our aim in life is to make money at the auction and give it back to the people of Brea," she said. Auction proceeds pay for scholarships, fire and rescue equipment, and Brea Boys and Girls Club activities, Porter said.

Nevertheless, naming a street after someone is against city policy, Mayor Norma Arias Hicks said. Brea does not name streets, public buildings or parks after anyone, she said.

When the issue first surfaced at the April 5 City Council meeting, Hicks said, "We knew nothing about the street name being auctioned."

City Manager Ed Wohlenberg said he promised the Soroptimists before the auction that they could name a street within a future housing subdivision. Although two housing subdivisions have been built in Brea since then, developers refused to name one of their streets Ronald Hudson Street, he said.

"The idea seemed to make sense at the time," Wohlenberg said. "Developers all have to come up with street names in their subdivisions."

Developers rejected the suggestion because "I guess they just didn't want personal names in there. They're not in vogue now. They're all into (naming streets after) flowers and I don't know what else," Wohlenberg said.

Since the agreement had been made years ago, the City Council decided to authorize Wohlenberg to change the name of an existing street, provided it had no houses on it.

This was intended to make the change less complicated, but, Hicks said, "In everybody's innocence, we wound up with a big mess."

On April 19, the City Council selected Edgemont Lane — a 100-foot long entrance street into the Country Hills Estates neighborhood, at the northwestern corner of Lambert Road and Kraemer Boulevard.

Two street signs were changed in May, costing the Soroptimists about $100 for the new signs and $7.65 for about a half-hour of labor from a city maintenance worker, maintenance services manager Bill Higgins said. The signs have since been removed.

But the city overlooked notifying residents of the tract, Wohlenberg said. "And we apologize for that," he said.

Residents were shocked when they saw the street name had changed, said Scott Thorpe, who lives on Thistle Road about 200 yards from Edgemont Lane.

"I objected to it because I don't want anybody to think that part of the city is for sale," Thorpe said.

Hudson also was shocked when he drove his wife, Yvette, 14-year-old daughter, Crissy, and his parents, Jim and Betty Hudson, to show off the renamed street.

Someone had posted placards asking, "Who the hell is Ronald Hudson?" and others asking if he was related to the late actor Rock Hudson, he said.

"It was a real bitter pill to see all these things about my family name," Hudson said. "My mom started crying."

Hudson said he could understand the neighbors being upset. "This was no joke to them," he said. While he called the placards an "immature reaction," Hudson said he wasn't trying to make anyone angry. He just wanted the city to live up to its promise.

"When you do something nice, it should come back to you nice. I did this ... as a way of making a charitable contribution," he said. But after two years of delays, Hudson said, "I thought this was no way to treat someone who did something nice."

Thorpe, a former Brea administrative employee, said he knew the name change was not allowed under city policy.

"Ronald Hudson was able to receive a benefit no one else has ever been able to get," said Thorpe, who added that he does not know Hudson. "He bought immortality. I don't consider that a philanthropic gesture at all."

Wohlenberg said there are no plans to build a new subdivision within Brea. But he guessed oil company property east of the Orange (57) Freeway might be developed within two to five years.

Water Service Readied for New Industry Area

Looking forward to future industrial expansion in the newly annexed 300 acres west of town, the city council Monday night ordered planning to start on a water system for the area.

At the suggestion of the city administrator, the council told the engineers to start negotiations for rights of way and undertake engineering for the construction of a water vault at Berry St. and Central Ave.

La Habra has its main Metropolitan Water District line running along Central. Brea has a line of 500,000 gallons a day running on this line, and the water vault at Central and Berry will be designed to reduce the pressure at the point where Brea will tie its system into the line.

An eight-inch water main will be laid down Berry from Central at some later date, according to a specification by City Engineer Sid

Negotiations to Start for New Street Rights of Way From Imperial to Birch

Negotiations will be started by the city in the near future to obtain rights of way for a new street which will run from Birch St. to Imperial Hwy., east of Poplar Ave. City Administrator A. W. Studebaker and City Engineer Sid Lowry were ordered to study the possibilities for future street construction.

Primary concern of the council at this time is to obtain the rights of way so that a new sewer can be constructed to serve the area north of Birch St. The city has been notified that a firm is planning to subdivide land on Birch between Randolph Ave. and Poplar Ave.

It is feared that this new subdivision may overload the sewer pumping plant located on Birch and Fir St. In conjunction with the new sewer line, another sewer pumping station will probably be constructed on city property near the east end of Elm St.

About six or eight property owners will be involved in the right of way negotiation, according to the engineers. It is estimated that the length of the new sewer line will be 1300 feet.

New Route Planned

New Road Will Relieve Brea Traffic Congestion

A scenic road over gently rolling hills was viewed by the civic leaders of Brea, Anaheim, and Fullerton who last week toured the route of the proposed new Associated road east of Brea.

The road when finished will connect Brea Canyon with Highway 101 and give a vitally needed north-south highway that will funnel some of the traffic from the congested route that goes through Anaheim, Fullerton, and Pomona avenue in Brea, according to Harold Sprenger, county highway superintendent.

Last week representatives of chambers of commerce, city governments, and newspapers from the three cities were conducted on a tour of the route of the proposed road.

Officials

The group was led by Tom Yellis, chairman of the transportation committee of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce. Accompanying him from Brea were Frank Hall, publisher of The Progress; Councilman Hugh Jones; and Everett Reese, who is reorganizing the Chamber of Commerce.

Fullerton officials were City Engineer Herman Hiltcher; Bill Harmath, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; and Vern Maple, president.

County Supervisor Ralph McFadden was also present.

The group formed at Placentia avenue and Highway 101. From there Highway Superintendent Sprenger showed them the route of the present unimproved road to

Charles McCart Appointed Mayor For New Term

Charles McCart was reappointed to a second four-year term as mayor at a special meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

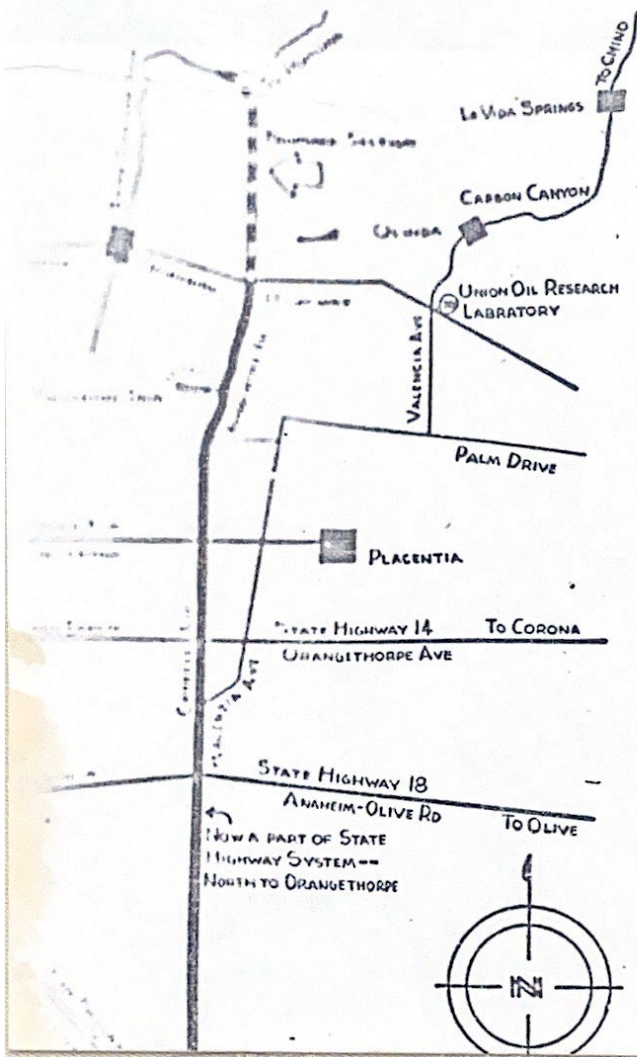

At a meeting held to assess the results of last week's city election and to swear in the new council, McCart was elected unanimously by his fellow councilmen.

William Van Arsdale was sworn in as councilman. Constance Young was sworn in as city clerk, and Claire Bowers took her oath of office as treasurer.

Acceptance of four absentee ballots showed that Van Arsdale received four more votes, and McCart and Weaver each were given two. The council passed a resolution accepting the election returns.

The council also voted to pay for the bonding of the clerk and treasurer for a full four years instead of yearly, thus saving $90.

Senior and Junior divisions winners were named last week for the Hallowe'en window painting contest.

Among the seniors, David Rowe and Walter Wood shared first place for their work on J. W. Burch's window. Janice Spives, high school sophomore, won second place for her Wilkinson Drug Store painting. Third place went to Betty Drake, another sophomore, for Salzer's Department Store.

Junior Winners

Junior division winner was Judy Roberts, who was pictured in last week's Progress while working on Marilyn's Department Store window. Carol Ward, a seventh grader, took second place for her display at Eddie Hopper Chevrolet. Julie Robinson, also pictured in last week's Progress, was named third place winner.

Honorable mention was given to Carole Jordan for her excellent work on the Romar Studio window.

Pomona and Imperial Intersection Gets Long-awaited-for Stoplights

They've come! The people of the California State Highway Department have arrived and begun the installation of four stoplights at Brea's corner of Imperial and Pomona.

Workmen early this week started drilling with pneumatic hammers and digging with non-automatic shovels to sink the posts that will support the lights. Installation is expected to be completed by the end of next week and traffic at the intersection will for the first time be under automatic controls.

Possible Ceremony

As word of activity on the long-lost project got around City Hall, there was talk that there might be an official ceremony of some sort with the initial operation of the lights.

State approval of the stoplight installation in Brea was announced early this year. Thereafter nothing was heard about the project until October of this year, and it was reported that a clerk in the state highway department had somehow lost the order.

Action At Last

"It's a very happy occasion," said a councilman off the record, "and we want to welcome the state highway department back to civilization and the modern age. Hope they'll stay around."

Don McBride is the exclusive sales agent for the builder.

Glee Club Sings for Brea Lions

The Brea-Olinda High School Glee Club of 50 voices will be the stellar attraction at the Thursday night meeting this week of the Brea Lions Club. The singing group, composed of 32 warbling girls and 18 vocal boys, will offer a half-hour choral program under their director, Richard Park. Their accompanist is Mrs. Joan Bassett.

Assisting the choral group will be the trumpet trio of Wayne Wedin, Mike Binney and Tom Walther.

Speaker of the evening will be John McDonough, commissioner of athletics for the Orange and Sunset leagues. He will talk on football officiating.

GET THROUGH OF PAVING WORK FROM P. E.

Wednesday evening's session of the city trustees was finished by 10 o'clock, all members being present with the exception of C. A. Sullivan, who has been having a tussle with a bad cold.

A communication from the P. E. indicated his readiness to finish paving across the right of way on Pomona avenue, and an engineer was in town yesterday to set the stakes. Mr. Mott, of Los Angeles, was here Wednesday to inspect the proposed crossing of the P. E. tracks at North Orange street. He did not get to interview any of the board members as his visit was a day earlier than he had intended coming.

The last analysis of the water well recently completed showed that the sample taken from the bottom of the well was water of a pure and wholesome quantity. An upper vein of water entering the well will be cemented off and the well put on production in a short time. H. E. Harris, of Anaheim, representative of the Chippewa pump, was present and gave a demonstration of a double action continuous stream pump which is capable of lifting the water against a 200 pound pressure. The trustees took no action in regard to purchasing a pump.

Engineer Schwabland presented tentative plans to cover the cost of paving Pomona avenue and East Birch street and grading and oiling other streets. The total amount due the contractor is $132,657.72, to which will be added the engineering costs. Approximately 70 per cent will be charged against the abutting property and the balance against the remaining property throughout the city, if the plans as outlined are adopted.

City Engineer R. W. Phelps was authorized to employ an inspector for the big sidewalk contract which was recently let.

Before the session officially closed the subject of changing the name of Pomona avenue to Brea avenue was discussed and it is quite likely that such action will soon be taken by the board.

The revised plumbing ordinance was passed.

Indicate Growth

The following transfers of real estate indicate the rapid growth being made by the city.

C. W. Morrison, recently from Colorado, has purchased the Dolman Robinson lot on Laurel avenue and will begin the erection of a home shortly. Mr. Morrison and family have been living on South Orange avenue of the Maxwell tract.

The Verne W. Russell lot on Eucalyptus avenue, in the Seivers addition has been purchased by D. O. Stegman. Also a choice lot in Seivers addition was sold to W. H. Fetting. Mr. Fetting will shortly improve his property. Mabel McGee was the agent in these transactions.

Income Tax Man Will Visit Brea

Get ready for the income tax man. A deputy collector from the office of Rex B. Goodcell, collector of internal revenue, sixth district of California, will be in Brea on Feb. 10, 20 and 21 at La Habra Valley National Bank to receive income tax returns for the year 1922 and to assist in their preparation.

It will facilitate matters if taxpayers will have their returns filled out so that they may be checked and acknowledged without unnecessary delay. The deputy will be glad to assist the taxpayer and interpret any part of the regulations that are not thoroughly understood. Taxpayers are urged to "come as early as possible" and bring with them the forms they received by mail.

Any taxpayer in doubt as to his liability for filing a return should consult the deputy, as liability for filing a return may exist even though there is no tax to pay. No fee is required to be paid to the deputy collector for his services to the taxpayer, and Collector Goodcell advises taxpayers to avail themselves of this service.

CRIME WAVE IN COUNTY

O. K. Carr, former motorcycle officer, was Wednesday appointed special investigator for the district attorney, to fill the position just vacated by the board of supervisors. Carr's position on the motorcycle squad will be taken over by Frank Stewart, former Santa Ana motorcycle officer.

The appointment of a special investigator was considered a long step forward in the battle of peace officers of the county to combat crime. His duties will be to investigate complaints, to ascertain, before a warrant is issued, whether there is sufficient basis for a case, and to secure evidence in cases pending.

"This phase alone will prove worth many times the salary," District Attorney A. P. Nelson commented. "But in addition, the investigator will be valuable in other work, such as co-operation with the sheriff's office in apprehending criminals."

The board of supervisors failed to pass the ordinance, proposed by Nelson, to provide that all dogs be immunized with a vaccine which would render them immune from rabies for a period of a year.

"Those who have valuable dogs will do this anyway," Supervisor William Schumacher said. "Others would resent being compelled to expend money for that purpose. We should simply continue the war on all dogs found unconfined."

To Demonstrate Citrus Pruning

The agricultural extension service announces another series of citrus pruning demonstrations for Feb. 13 to 17. The object of these field meetings will be largely to demonstrate the follow-up treatment of trees frosted a year ago, but normal trees will also be handled for the benefit of those who did not attend the previous field demonstrations.

Lemon pruning will be featured at El Modena, Yorba Linda and La Habra; oranges at Tustin, Garden Grove and Anaheim. The following schedule has been arranged. The exact locations of the citizens and especially the property owners of La Habra the need for further steps in this direction in different parts of the town.

In one section of La Habra in particular is there a need for a connecting link of sidewalk from the main part of La Habra to the P. E. depot and the coming shipping district of this town. With the prospect of a great deal of business being transacted in the neighborhood of the P. E. depot with the coming of more railroads more people will have to travel back and forth along this street and it is to be hoped it will not be long before there will be a walk all the way to the depot. A great deal of business is transacted at the La Habra Citrus Association offices and the P.E. depot as well as many passengers to and from Los Angeles have to use this street and wade the mud. It is a poor first impression one gains of La Habra coming in on the P. E. in rainy weather and having to plow through deep mud between the stretches of concreté sidewalk.

It seems to be the general opinion that this is one of the improvement movements that should be not only started but taken to a finish—whether a winning one or not.

IT'S JUST A QUESTION OF BEING AWAKE

In any town, no matter how prosperous, there are always a few merchants who complain of poor business. They make a melancholy report of local business conditions. "Nothing doing," is the burden of their refrain. So far as they are concerned, there is no money in circulation.

Yet the currents of prosperity are flowing by their door. Hundreds or thousands of people pass their stores every day, most of them with money in their pockets, bound either for some other local place of business, or on their way to the nearest big city to buy.

There is plenty of money and plenty of prosperity at this time. If business is dull or if it does not grow, there must be something the matter dispelled by advertising. In a short time a campaign of publicity gives an impression that a merchant has waked up. It makes him look like a live one. People begin to think that after all he may be up to date and they come around to look at what he has for sale.—Santa Ana Register.

BREA LOSES COUNTY HELP FOR HER UNPAID HIGHWAYS

Monday evening the newly elected trustees of Brea met and organized for business. Brea is now a city of the sixth class and entitled to all the rights and privileges of such an organization.

Already the new city has a fight on its hands with the Board of Supervisors of Orange county. That board in a heartless manner ordered all work on the streets of the newly incorporated city stopped by county employees, claiming that since Brea has aspired to new clothes, it may build its own streets. This move on the part of the county supervisors is considered harsh and unkind by the residents of Brea and a vigorous protest has been made. The new city feels that such work as was in the course of construction by the county should have been completed.

The big thing for Brea, however, is that it has moved up from the country village class to the sixth class and the matter of a few unfinished streets will not long be a fly in the ointment. Taxes will come rolling in each year, which can be withheld from the heartless board of supervisors and can be expended upon the streets of the town, and in the long run Brea will grow much faster because of the advanced step which has been taken.—Whittier News.

INTERESTING PROGRAM AT WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

The East Whittier Improvement Club held their regular meeting last Wednesday. The morning was devoted to the Literature Section and the members were hostesses to the Literature Section of the Whittier Woman's Club. The subject under discussion was the life and works of the late Jack London and was most aptly handled.

Miss Elsie Bacon gave a resume of secretaries was one of the best held since organization over a hundred of the captains of boosters gathering for an exchange of ideas on the work of advancing the interests of the counties represented in the association.

Metzgar participated in the program by a talk on the value to a county of the organization and maintenance of a county organization such as the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county.

The association of secretaries has heretofore been limited to representatives of Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties and the name was changed Saturday to the Secretaries' Association of Southern California, with Imperial and San Diego counties added to the district.

The Orange county secretaries took advantage of the banquet incident to the gathering to boost Orange county among the secretaries and visitors by displaying county stickers in various prominent places. Preceding the secretaries to the banquet, the local men placed stickers on the plates and glasses at each cover, and were commended by their co-laborers on their cleverness in putting Orange county before everyone at the table.

The next meeting will be held at Fullerton the last Wednesday in March.

YORBA LINDA TO HAVE LODGE HALL AND STORES

Those interested in the several organizations were present and much enthusiasm shown.

Mr. Mey is to erect the building which will be two stories, with stores on the ground floor and the hall above. The location is next to Stein and Fassels in the main part of town and will satisfy the need of a place to hold meetings of various kinds for both lodges and socials.

WILL CONSIDER SCHOOL BONDS

A meeting of the citizens of the La Habra school district is to be held at the school house at 8 o'clock tonight for the purpose of considering the advisability of a bond issue to provide additional school facilities. The trustees of the district have prepared a general plan of what they propose, and this will be presented to the meeting tonight.

The situation which confronts the district is that the present school building is crowded to its capacity, and the attendance is steadily increasing. With the present rapid growth of La Habra it is certain that next year the present facilities will be totally inadequate, and it is imperative that some measures for relief be taken at once.

County Superintendent of Schools Mitchell is to be present tonight and will give any information desired as to the bond issue. The architect who has prepared plans for the addition of another unit to the present main building, will also be on hand. It is particularly desired by the trustees that there be a large attendance.

APPOINT TELE- PHONE COMMITTEE

BREA PLANNING COMMISSION

February 13, 1957

City Council
City of Brea
City Hall
Brea, California

Gentlemen:

At your request, at our regular meeting on February 5, 1957, the Brea Planning Commission considered the proposal for the uniform name for the highway known in Brea as Pomona Avenue. As the Council well knows, this highway is known as Brea Road inside of the City limits in Fullerton, as Pomona Avenue inside of the City limits of Brea, and as Brea Canyon Road in the County area north of the city of Brea.

The Planning Commission recommends that the City of Brea cooperate in the establishment of a uniform name for such highway.

The Planning Commission further recommends that the name "Brea Boulevard" be proposed for such highway. It should be noted that the Planning Commission feels that the name "Brea" should appear in the street name in any event.

Yours very truly,

Ernest J. Brady Jr., Secretary
Brea Planning Commission

The application for funds for the new 127-bed general hospital was signed by Mother M. Felix, president of the hospital, to be located on Sunny Hills Ranch in Fullerton.

Club Speaker Shows Newspaper Changes

Citing some of the recent improvements in newspaper format, "Sky" Dunlap, former newspaperman and now assistant director of Santa Ana college, told the Brea Kiwanis club Friday that most newspaper readers do not realize the huge amount of money spent by publishers to bring them wire stories, wire photos and colored pictures.

The speaker used various illustrations to explain some of the technical advances in newspaper production.

Roger Nichols Weds Compton Girl at Vegas

Ensign Roger A. Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Nichols, 530 S. Madrona Ave., and Georgette Kronenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kronenberg of Compton, were married Saturday in a double ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Bishop of the First Baptist Church in Las Vegas. Standing with the couple was James Nichols of Brea, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, which was attended by parents of the bride and groom and the groom's brother, the wedding party enjoyed dinner at the famous Sands hotel in Las Vegas.

Mrs. Nichols is a graduate of Los Angeles Roosevelt High school. Roger is a graduate of the Brea-Olinda High school and is now in Marine training at Chula Vista where the couple plan to make their home.

Group to Study New Street Over Tracks

All Brea residents interested in a second crossing over the P. E. tracks being established in the City of Brea are invited to a meeting at the Laurel Grammar school Monday night at 7:30 at which time Sid Lowry, city engineer, will present his findings.

The meeting will be under the direction of Mark Sullivan, safety chairman for the grammar school PTA.

Polio Victim Home

Six-year-old polio victim Rance Allyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Allyn, 419 W. Date St., returned to his home from the Sister Kenny hospital in El Monte where he had been undergoing treatment for several months.

He continues to be under daily treatment by his mother but is allowed out of bed most of the day. Rance will return to the hospital Dec. 16 for a check up.

Moore's Entertain

work, since the start of the job will have to depend upon the end of the rainy season.

Engineer Lowry estimated that the total street improvement cost, to pay for resurfacing of approximately 2.5 miles of streets, will be $87,729.57, including engineering costs, inspections and incidentals. Thirty per cent of this cost may be met from state gasoline tax rebates, bringing the actual cost to the property owners down to $61,410.70.

The costs presented to the council are substantially the same as reported at the public meeting Oct. 25 which the city called to acquaint the property owners with the assessment district, Lowry declared. "It is my personal opinion that the cost will not exceed any of the estimates," the engineer said Monday night.

In drawing up the costs, Lowry said he allowed a margin on each expense item. For example, the lowest bid be higher than the engineer's estimate, thus guaranteeing to property owners that the estimate given will be the maximum.

Between now and the date of the protest hearing, which will probably be held in 60 days, the city clerk will type out a card for each one of the 419 parcel holders, telling him of the hearing date and the amount of his particular assessment. The property owner may either protest in writing or appear in person.

According to present plans, if the assessment district is given a majority vote at the assessment election, each property owner will have 30 days after work is completed in which to pay for his share. If the assessment is not paid in that time, bonds will be issued for the amount of the individual's share. The redemption of the bonds will be over a nine-year period, and they will carry an interest rate of six per cent.

Traffic Lights "Not Warranted" At Brea Intersection, State Reports

Traffic control signal lights at the corner of Imperial Hwy. and Pomona Ave. are "not warranted," according to the State Division of Highways. This information came to the city council Monday night. The city had requested the state to make a traffic study of the intersection with the idea of obtaining signals for it.

Instead of signals, the highway division recommended the elimination of parking near the intersection. It was felt that this would expedite the flow of traffic by making one more lane available. Imperial is currently one lane each direction while Pomona has two lanes each way.

Not Approved

The suggestion of more lanes did not meet a friendly reception from Brea city officials.

"It would not help the condition we have been worried about," Police Chief Bill Atkins stated. Adding lanes would increase congestion at the intersection and he could not give his approval of the state's recommendation, the chief added.

The council expressed itself as still favoring the installation of a signal at the busy intersection. City Engineer Sid Lowry said that traffic volume determined whether or not a signal was needed. He said that he would find out what the volume requirements are through the Division of Highways.

The cost of a four-way controlled signal is about $30,000.

Other Business

Taking up other business, the council received a question from the floor by Cy Clarkson, Brea realtor, concerning the possibility of annexing land west of Brea which has been tied up in a court annexation trial.

City Attorney Harold McCabe said that the litigation between Brea and Fullerton may be concluded this Friday. However, he reminded Clarkson that either side in the trial will have 60 days in which to appeal the court's decision. If no appeal is filed at the end of that time, the territory could then be annexed, McCabe said.

A request by Julius Salzar, owner of Nelson's 5 and 10 store, to play Christmas music through a loudspeaker at the front of his store was granted by council.

Council Voices Opposition to Auto Wrecking Yard Locating in Brea

Councilmen made no secret of their desire to rid the city of an auto wrecking business being operated in the northeast section of Brea when they met Monday night. However, the lawmakers declined to take any overt action on the matter until it received a recommendation from solons by the planning commission.

Councilmen, after deliberation, ruled that his proposed business operation would come under the definition of "junk yard," a land use which is prohibited in the city. That, in effect, was the council's "no" answer.

Meanwhile, it has been reported that Peterson has moved in

PLAN NEW ARTERY TO L. A. COUNTY LINE

City Park, Playground, Pool Contemplated For Brea

Providing the plans of the Tri-City Road Committee which met at the Brea Chamber of Commerce last evening materialize, Northern Orange County will have at least one new important highway and another highway paved. The committee discussed at length the new road connecting the Santa Ana Canyon highway and the Telegraph road now being completed on the Los Angeles County end.

It was finally decided to refer the various routes proposed back to the individual road committees for further consideration and thence to the individual organizations for their approval. Another meeting of the Tri-City committee will then be called and the route finally decided upon.

The paying of Carbon Canyon, perhaps one of the most important arteries in all of Orange County, was thoroughly considered and the problem will be presented at the next meeting of the Associated Chambers at Placentia. The Carbon Canyon highway is to be taken care of by the San Bernardino authorities on their end of the route, according to information received, during the present summer.

The supervisors will be asked to give this matter serious consideration and open through to the north the many possibilities which present themselves in the way of trade with our neighboring county.

That Brea will have a new city park and play ground for the kiddies including a swimming pool and playground apparatus is an almost assured fact.

Yesterday at a meeting of the Playground and Park committees of the Chamber of Commerce and the Brea Women's clubs plans were formulated for the undertaking. Negotiations are now underway for a site and committees have been appointed to secure estimates on the work contemplated.

RECORD OF LOCAL CHAMBER GIVEN

Members of the Brea Chamber of Commerce turned out in full force Monday evening at the Chamber Hall when various committees made their reports on the activity of the organization. Without doubt this meeting of the local booster body is one of the best ever held and activity in the affairs of the organization was keen.

The committee on Roads of which E. H. Peterkin is chairman gave an interesting discussion of the many road projects of the County and especially those of vital interest to this community. Among these was the discussion of the new proposed highway between Brea and Yorba Linda and the extension of Cedar Street.

Charles Sullivan, incidentally mayor of our city as well as chairman of the Zoning committee gave a report on the activity along this particular line and stated that the City council had acted favorably in regard to Zoning and that the committee would give a great deal of thought and time to working out a satisfactory report that the proper zoning ordinance be adopted.

The merchants division was represented by its President J. R. Collins who spoke briefly of the work of this particular division of the Chamber of Commerce and the efforts which they are extending to better conditions.

Forrest Hurst, chairman of the Industrial committee gave an excellent report of the work of this particular section of the chamber which was well received.

The organization adopted two resolutions. One asking the city to use every possible means to better the streets and alleys and another expressing the attitude of the members regarding the future of the C. of C.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce expressed themselves as being well pleased with the effort expended during the past six months and the results accomplished. It was the sentiment of the meeting that every effort should be extended to continue the good work. J. D. Sievers, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided in his genial and pleasing manner.

The harbor from the harbor to Brea will be done by truck.

Communities of Northern Orange County Program at Brea Dinner; Get Fine Welcome

Boundless enthusiasm, revealing the true spirit of co-operation which was the purpose of the tour, met citizens of Fullerton, in their "Friendly Caravan" excursion to the cities of northern Orange county today. Cheering crowds met the procession wherever it stopped, and talks showing their welcome were given by citizens of the communities visited.

At Brea, where the noon luncheon was served, a rousing reception was given the members of the caravan. A most excellent dinner was served by the Women's Club of that city, and a program of talks enjoyed by all present. Bob Phelps of Brea, the toastmaster, introduced J. C. Thamer, president of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce for the first talk given after the dinner.

The local chamber president told of the pleasure of the Fullerton citizens in visiting Brea, and assured the businessmen of the community that it would always remain a pleasure to keep up the friendly relations which have existed between the two cities. He spoke of the ideals of the tour, declaring that the local men were dispensing lasting enthusiasm, attempting to cultivate friends, and to become better acquainted with the residents of the cities surrounding Fullerton.

Louis Plummer, high school principal, was next introduced by the toastmaster, who said that no city could help but develop under such friendship which has made the building up of the surrounding cities possible. He assured the citizens of Brea that they would be able to interpret each other with a much more kindly and friendly feeling as a result of the caravan.

A general good feeling which prevails here, and forecasted the removal of the state capitol to a full force for a town picnic some time during July. The publicity and entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce has set Wednesday July 22nd as the date and Orange County Park as the place. This is the first time that Brea has attempted the town picnic and much enthusiasm over the idea is being expressed. Ted Craig is chairman of the committee in charge.

LET BIG CONTRACT FOR STREET PAVING

Contract For $150,000 Worth Of Work On Pomona Avenue and Many Other Streets Signed

One of the shortest sessions the city trustees have held in several months was the meeting on Wednesday evening. Mayor Sexton opened the meeting promptly at 8 o'clock and by 8:30 the meeting adjourned.

The chief item of business was awarding the contract for paving Pomona Avenue and E. Birch street. The contract also provides for grading and oiling unimproved streets throughout the city.

Geo. H. Oswald of Los Angeles was the successful bidder against a field of seven firms who submitted bids July 19. The figures ranged from $126,255.35 to $149,274.20. The engineer's estimate for the work was $140,508.46.

Mrs. Oswald was present and made the statement that actual work of laying asphalt could be started within thirty days from the time contract is signed, and that grading would start within ten days. City Attorney Albert Launer prepared the contract at once.

Mrs. Davis, who recently located in Brea, sought permission to erect a peanut and popcorn stand on S. Pomona Avenue near the Central Garage. The petition will be acted on at the next meeting of the trustees.

B. N. Hill, representing citizens and property owners on N. Orange street between E. Ash street and the P. E. tracks, who are asking that portion of Orange street be graded and otherwise improved, was informed by Engineer Schwabland that a survey to establish a grade would be made at once.

DEATH OF MAN NEAR DES MOINES HELD UNAVOIDABLE

At the inquest over the body of James Horton, 60, of Whittier, who was killed in a collision between two automobiles near Des Moines station, La Habra, Wednesday, it was found that the accident was unavoidable owing to a defective steering gear, and that death resulted from a basal fracture of the skull.

Horton and a Mr. Taylor of Los Angeles were driving south when they met the other car, driven by Sam Gailbraith of the Standard, which was alleged to have been on the wrong side of the road and the Horton car was turned over on its side when the cars collided, throwing Horton to his death.

Mr. Horton was immediately taken to the office of Dr. E. S. Boice by an employe of the Standard and an ambulance summoned to take him to the Whittier hospital, but he died before they reached Whittier.

As the result of action taken at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Huntington Beach Wednesday night Secretary James C. Metzgar of that body yesterday sent a telegram to the members of the Orange county board of supervisors attending the state supervisors now in session at Eureka, strongly urging them to work for the enactment of a law reducing the maximum weight allowed trucks on the highways, and also a law providing that motor concerns carrying freight or passengers be required to pay a percentage of their gross earnings for the support of the highways used by them.

A resolution was adopted commending the work of the good roads committee of the body, and declaring it to be the sense of the meeting that its work had been eminently constructive and productive of good results.

The meeting was partially in the nature of a midsummer frolic, but the business session was productive of some lively discussion. The delegates and their ladies gathered in the late afternoon and first enjoyed a plunge as guests of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, which was followed by a dinner on the beach.

Good roads matters took up much of the business meeting.

No Capital Names
When the Capital Homes development maps were presented they showed streets named for things and places associated with the national capital such as Georgetown, Chevy Chase and Potomac, but the planners insisted upon tree names.
The Heritage Construction Co.
wanted to name streets associated with national heritage in their Heritage Hills development, but they too, were turned down.

President Homes Might have had Lincoln, Washington, Jefferson and Roosevelt streets.
The streets in the Landmark development might have been named landmarks.
Running out of Trees?
Developers are wondering when the planners are going to run out of tree names and tree-like names.
"Since when is Wedgewood the name of a tree?" one developer asked today. "Knollwood and Hillwood are just as silly. Pretty soon you won't be able to tell the woods from the trees?"
Another developer who saw the list prepared by former Chief Ellis took exception to such names port of their findings was December of 1960. From recommendations submitted to the committee accepted that which calls for the establishment of three separate college districts in Orange County:

1. (Anahelm, Brea-Olinda, Placentia)

2. (Santa Ana, Orange, Fullerton)

3. (Garden Grove, Laguna Hills, Capistrano)

Each Has Nucleus

Each of these already has a nucleus in Fullerton Junior College, Santa Ana, Junior College, and Orange Coast College.

The Trustees of the Anaheim - Olinda, Fullerton, and Placentia High School Districts met as a committee to study a plan for establishing a new Orange County Junior College District.

February election of this district voters decided on the organization to form a seventh Orange County Junior College District.

Members of seven persons as a Board of Trustees of the district.

In the amount of $9,000, the district will acquire a property of interest in the existing Junior College through funds.

Interim Board

The authorization enabled the district of what is, the effect of a district served by an board of trustees as chosen by election. Spencer was a member of this through agreement attached with the present Junior College District.

Members, Brea - Olinda, and groups are now ready with Fullerton to form the North Orange or College District.

URNED

On of 207 S. Orange Street, the police seized his bicycle which had been returned by known.

Brea Girls Sing

President Johnson

Girls, members of the county Honor Choir, sang with Lyndon B. Johnson at the University of California campus on the Irvine campus on California visit.

Members of the choir include Sue Jones, last year's Brea, Margery Berg, Spencer, Vicki Mag, Vanette Wing, and now students at Brea School.

Members of the honor choir are competing with students of other Orange County ...and senior engineering and draftsman aide in the engineering department. Also urged is the hiring of an assistant foreman in the water department and a street and water crewman in the park maintenance and operation as well as a second police lieutenant.

In all Lipsky has recommended 13 new employees, bringing the city personnel total from 57 up to 70.

The addition of a second lieutenant will bring the local police force up to 21. The full time of the fire department would be brought to 16. The appointment of two new captains would provide night and day commands at the new central station on Berry St., when it is built, and at the City Hall station which now serves as fire headquarters.

Brea-Aires Bid for New Band Honors

Seeking their fourth straight trophy of the season, the Brea-aires and Brea - etes will make their last joint appearance of the summer in the 60th annual Orange County Independence Day parade at Huntington Beach.

The parade will start at 11 a.m. and will have, in addition to the band and baton group, Suzette and Cathy Caler who are entered as a junior equestrian matched pair.

The entire Brea group is sponsored by American Legion Post 181 as the Brea School District entry. The Brea-aires, marching in the parade for the second year, look first place in their division last year.

The Brea - etes, with 19 members, will make a fall appearance in the La Habra Corn Festival, August 1.

The Huntington Beach parade, one of the largest in California, with over 200 entries is traditionally directed by William "El Generalissimo" Gallienne, according to Brea-aire director Ben Murphey.

BOUND FOR BREA — Democratic hopeful Paul Carpenter this morning began an on-foot tour of the 35th Congressional district which stretches 210 miles from Harbor Blvd. at the Los Angeles county line to Jacumba, just above the Mexican border, and included Brea. Carpenter, will oppose incumbent James B. Utt, Republican, in November.

Naming Of Streets For Trees Arouses Residents, Developers

"Planner spare that tree!" is the plea that is coming in from home owners, utilities companies, delivery men and developers as the naming of streets for trees continues here.

Daily the police here get calls from out-of-towners trying to locate streets named for trees.

"The situation last year was bad enough, but new tracts with new streets named for trees are driving us crazy", said one delivery man who regularly operates here. "The spelling is difficult enough, but when you try to pronounce the name of the street you are looking for it is sometimes next to impossible."

Developers who have come in with the names of streets that carried out the theme of their area have been forced to abandon their ideas and accept names of trees or tree-like names. It was pointed out today, and one subdivision promoter called it "ridiculous".

"There are some many streets named for trees that you can't tell one street from another, not alone try to locate it", he declared.

When A. W. Studebaker was city administrator he proposed that each new section or development have names for streets that would easily identify them with the area in which they were located. One section might have streets named for minerals, flowers, prominent personages or even vegetables, he suggested, while another could have thoroughfares named for animals, cities, states or Presidents and locating them would be comparatively easy.

The planners rejected his idea and the following list of tree names or tree-like names including existing street names, was presented by George Ellis before he retired as chief of the fire department:

There will be no more cock-a-doodle-doodling from a rooster in the 400 block on W. Imperial. Police were assured by the owner yesterday that she would get rid of the bird whose crowing has brought disturbances reports to the police.

Life's Little

Life's little dramas are enjoying a record summer run with performances going on around the clock.

A little girl of about five showed up at a neighbor's house in search of her little brother's swim trunks and asked if she could go in the pool with her friends.

"What kind of a swim suit do you have?" asked the neighbor. "No top", said the child, "My mommy says little girls don't need tops anymore."

Father Knows Best
Four kids on E. Imperial Highway rigged up a covered wagon by attaching barrel staves to their home made cart and then covering it with an old bed sheet. On it they painted the legend: "Mexico or Bust".

"When are you going to Mexico?" a passerby wanted to know. "We dunno," one of the kids said. "We all got to be home for supper at 7 o'clock every night."

Birth Of The Progress As Told By Founder

By C. A. MEACHAM Brea's First Publisher (Continued From Last Issue)

While commenting on the enter- prise of the town's early residents it would be very appropriate to mention some of the things accom- plished by this infant Chamber of Commerce, improvements which could not have been successfully promoted without concerted action and constant agitation.

The most serious handicap faced by the new town was the problem of an efficient water system, and it was this more than anything else which led to the incorporation of Brea as a city of the sixth class in 1916.

The streets of Brea were first graded and olled at the request of the Brea Chamber of Commerce and a fixed grade first secured for sidewalks and curbs. Also the first street signs were erected at every corner in the town.

At that time there was a cut through the bank on Pomona ave- nue just opposite the Pacific El- ectric station, which was about the smallest and tightest "bottleneck" that a considerable amount of traf- fic was ever forced to pass through. It will probably amuse some of the present day residents to think that a mere cut in the bank could be a serious obstacle to the growth of the town, but it was only through many appeals to the supervisors and later to the county high- way commission that the cut was wid- ened from time to time and finally eliminated.

Credit should be given to the Brea Chamber of Commerce for the establishment of the Brea post- office and also for securing recog- nition as a judicial township. At the time the Progress was started, Brea was in the Fullerton township and both constable and justice of peace resided in the neighboring town. It was only after a long period of agitation that the Brea judicial township was formed with Geo. Bird as the first constable and I. N. Hurst as the first justice of the peace.

The Brea Chamber of Commerce became affiliated with the Associ- ated Chambers of Commerce of Or- ange county which had a powerful "political drag" in those days and was the controlling factor in out- lining the splendid Orange county highway system.

At the time the state highway was built, some of the La Habra people strongly objected to the route selected by the state engi- neers, claiming that it should have been built through Central avenue instead of passing around the town. An appeal was made to people of

Counterfeit 'Evidence' Attacked Suspects Call Search 'Illegal'

Attorneys for a Brea man and a La Habra man facing five counts each in connection five counts each in connection tivities Monday in United States District Court, Los Angeles, will attempt to overturn the case, it was learned this morning in an exclusive inter- view.

A motion to "suppress evi- dence" has been entered on behalf of Frank William Let- cher of 1100 N. Puente, Brea, and Verl Albert Mercer of 530 W. 3rd Ave., La Habra.

Miss Marcia King, attorney for Letcher, said in the exclu- sive interview she and William Dougherty, attorney for Mer- cer, will contend federal ag- ents and local police collected alleged evidence at Mercer's home via "illegal search and seizure."

Secret Service agents "raid- ed" Mercer's home early Wed- nesday morning, Feb. 20. They confiscated more than $100,000 in bogus bills along with some printing and photographic equipment.

Letcher was arrested in Nor- walk earlier in the morning by Secret Service agents and officers of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department, investi- gating a tip concerning the passing of a counterfeit bill.

Officers took him into cus- tody at the Norwalk sheriff's substation. Mercer was implic- ated and the officers later contacted La Habra police and picked up Mercer at his home

Few Tree Names Left For Streets, Planners Told

Developers of two tracts who had their maps condition- ally approved by the City Planning Commission last night were told that the streets should be named for trees, which is traditional in Brea.

Developers of the Mobil tract, which will be called Capitol Homes, said they hop- ed to name streets for places in the vicinity of the nation- al capitol. Besides, they said, Brea has used most of the names of trees and there are not many left, except some long unpronounceable ones that nobody can spell. They will discuss the matter farther next Thursday night.

Use Of Teachers For PE Chores Is Questioned

Because there are not enough personnel to perform the physical education chores at the high school some of the other teachers have to be used in the athletic program, Supt. Frank Hopkins told parents at- tending Wednesday night's school board meeting.

His explanation came when parents, speaking from the floor, questioned the desira- bility of taking teachers from other duties to fill athletic as- signments.

It all started when a mother asked why Victor Retting's contract had not been renewed.

Principal Victor Hassing said that he wondered if a public meeting was the proper place to discuss such a matter.

The mother then asked if Retting's contract had not been renewed because he de- clined to take on physical edu- cation assignments in addi- tion to his other work.

"This was one of the rea- sons," Hassing replied.

Would Eliminate Frills

Another mother said that she felt that the physical edu- cation program should be re- stricted to "the things that are required" and that "the frills should be eliminated. She said that a teacher should not be taken from essential teach- ing to take part in a physical education program.

Dog Stays Two Days in Booth, Refusing to Go

For two days a frightened little brown dog stayed in a telephone booth near a root-beer stand on Imperial Highway, refusing to leave or let anyone enter.

When persons tried to use the telephone the little fellow snarled at them and only one man succeeded in getting into the booth and making a call. The dog growled but did not bite him.

The animal was discovered in the booth on Thursday and was there until Friday afternoon when he was taken out by Roy Navarez of the Orange County Animal Control. During that time Josephine Messina, who works in the root-beer stand, fed the dog scraps that were left by customers. She wanted to take the dog home, but he refused to go with her.

Suggestions Pour In For Street Names

The furor over the Planning Board's condition that streets in the subdivisions be named for trees has focused attention on present street names in Brea and brought a flood of suggestions as to future street naming.

Fire Chief A. G. Ells, who with the police chief is expected to clear the names of streets proposed by developers before they are approved by the city planners, brought in a list of 263 proposed and present streets at the commission's meeting last week.

The list shows that Brea has 109 named streets. Of these 54 bear the names of trees or names with tree-like connotations. The rest are a mixture of everything.

Capitol Names

Developers of the Mobil tract were among those who were told that streets in their subdivision would have to be named for trees, but most of the names they submitted for approval last week were those associated with the nation's capitol since the development will be known as Capitol Homes.

Brea streets which currently have tree names or names associated with trees are: Ash, Alder, Almond, Catalpa, Cedar, Chestnut, Cherry, Baywood, Briarwood, Birch, Cottonwood, Berry (streets and way), Cypress, Date, Elm, Eucalyptus, Fir, Firethorne, Fern, Jacaranda, Juniper, Jasmine, Larchwood, Laurel, Lemon, Latana, Lime, Linden, Locust, Magnolia, Maple, Pine, Oak, Oleander, Orange, Palm, (street and avenue), Peach, Pecan, Pepperwood, Poplar, Poinsettia, Wildrose, Spruce, Mulberry, Redwood, Sycamore, Walnut, (way and drive), Willow, Valencia, Teak, Tamarack, San Juan, Sequoia and Rutledge.

Other Brea Names

Other Brea streets are: Aca- cia, Arovista, Associated, Bere- nice, Bonnie, Bracken, Brea, Carey, Carlson (drive and circle), Central, De Jur, De Lay, Deanna, Denise, Delphia, Deo- dara, Dorothy, Eadington, Eastridge, El Encanto, Ethel- linda, Etna, Harvey, Haven- hurst, Hodsen, Imperial, Joyce, La Canada Las Lomas, Lock- haven, Los Altos, Madrona, Mauna Loa, McCart (Ave. and circle), Napoll, Puente, Ran- dolph, Sandra, Sievers, Sparr, St. Crispin, Steele, Tobert, Vesuvius, Union, Tracie, Val- entia, Walling, Wardman (drive east and west), West- ridge, Wickford, Whittier, Wor- thington.

TREE HUTS AND ORANGES

Life's Little Dramas

The curtain never falls on life's little dramas. The acts and actors change and there are shifts in scenery, but the show goes on.

The Tarzan influence has hit young Brea and kids around town are building tree huts. Usually pieces of old crates make the floors of the huts and ropes are used to hoist the materials aloft. Use of ropes as ladders to get into the hut doesn't work out quite as well.

Last week a kid was seen cutting limbs to build a tree hut on Brea Blvd., and the observer called the police.

Orange Hockey

Dropped oranges have found a new use. Kids in the vicinity of Central Ave. and Palm had a sort of a backyard hockey game going for awhile, but it didn't last long.

The youngsters marked goals and tried to roll the oranges, used as pucks, into the scoring areas with squishy results when opponents used their oranges for interference.

A shy little white mouse squeezed through the opening of a sliding patio door of a home on Cherry St., while the family was watching television and ventured close to a snack tray on the floor.

Story of a House

For a few minutes none of the family seemed aware of the little creature's presence. Then, still intent on the television show, the lady of the house reached down to pick up some potato chips. As she did so her hand came in contact with the wandering mouse.

There was a scream more blood-curdling than had ever come from an TV Indian war party and the woman jumped on to the chair.

The male resident of the place turned around just in time to see a frightened little mouse trying vainly to find the place where he had made his entrance.

The lights were turned on and finally the little fellow found his way out.

While the mouse has not been identified it is assumed that he was the pet of neigh- boring children and wandered away from his home.

regional park. It is said that 320 picnicking units and 240 camping units could be ac- comodated.

Speaking of the Brown with- holding tax plan, he says:

Friday afternoon a telephone collection man came to empty the coin box. The dog wouldn't let him in. It was then that Josephine decided to call the police and the poundmaster was notified.

When Navarez arrived with the Animal Control truck the dog started snarling and barking. Navarez edged his way into the booth with a tough leather glove on one hand. He talked quietly to the little animal and the dog stopped barking. He was finally able to stroke the dog's head, but every time he tried to pick the animal up, the dog snapped at him. Finally Navarez managed to get the dog by the scruff of the neck and lifted him out of the booth.

Still Waiting For Master

Once in Navarez's arms the little animal became docile. He wagged his tail as Navarez put him into a compartment in the Animal Control truck to take him to the animal shelter.

Navarez says that he believes the dog's master put him in the booth and told him to stay there. Obediently, the dog remained, apparently still waiting for his master when Navarez took him away.

ents occur when is wide enough and clearly marked for two or more lanes of traffic in your direction of travel; or upon a highway that is divided into two separate roadways, with "one-way" traffic on each roadway. You may pass on either the left or right in this case but only if it can be done safely. Before moving to the left or right on a highway, give a signal to tell the driver ahead of you and the one behind you that you are changing position. Never make the change until you have looked to the side you wish to move toward, to be sure the lane is clear. (V.C. Sec. 22107.) Do not pass on the right unless it can be done safely, and never by driving off the paved or main traveled portion of the roadway. (V.C. Sec. 21755.)

Passing On Left Restrictions
Whenever you wish to pass a vehicle on the left, you need to consider these rules:
A. Where a highway is divided by two solid white or yellow lines no vehicle shall cross over or drive to the left of the double line. Exceptions are made for turning left across any such marking at an intersection, into or out of a driveway, making a lawfully permitted U-turn, and where signs authorize the use of off-center traffic lanes. (V.C. Sec. 21460.)
B. When there is a solid white or yellow line and a broken white line and the broken line is nearest your side of the road, you may pass over the lines, if it can be done safely. (V.C. Sec. 21460.)
C. Make sure there is time to pass before changing lanes to make the pass. Make sure you have time to get back on the right-hand side of the roadway to avoid getting dangerously close to any car coming from the opposite direction. Never get closer than 100 feet to an oncoming car. (V.C. Sec. 21751.) (Remember that two cars approaching each other at 50 miles per hour are closing at .50 feet per second. This would give the approaching driver only one-third of a second for reacting in such a close pass.)
Safe Distance
D. In passing at a safe distance to the left, do not return to the right lane until you are sure that you are safely out of the way of the vehicle in the right lane. A safe rule is to wait until you can see the car you have passed in your rear-view mirror. Avoid "cutting in."
E. You must not cross to the left side of the highway to pass on hills, or curves, or within 100 feet of intersections, railway crossings, bridges, viaducts, or tunnels. (V.C. Sec. 21752.)

also certain occasions you may pass a vehicle on the right, when it can be done safely: the driver of the vehicle making or is about to make a left turn. In this case you may pass to the left of the vehicle who has signaled to turn. (V.C. Sec. 21754.)

tough, he does not believe that they have been unfair or unreasonable. He said that planners were acting in what they believed to insure the city's future health, safety and appearance. His opinion is shared by Chairman Thomas Kowalski.

Too Costly, He Says
Commenting upon the provision for underground utilities lines, Ellis says:
"Sure it will look nice, but it will cost up to $700 per lot to comply with the condition", Ellis says. "The planners seem to think that it can be done for as little as $100 a lot. Multiply $700 by 400 lots and that's a lot of money."

He calls construction of a road to Brea Canyon from Arlington St., as "a required protective exit for the school location" unnecessary. The planners, in the conditions set up, say: "Should the applicant be unable to dedicate any portion of the extension or Arlington because of non-ownership, then the city will, if legally possible, take condemnation proceedings. Cost of the condemnation and property acquisition will be at the expense of the applicant. The applicant shall deposit with the city the necessary funds as required by the city to cover these proceedings. This shall not affect recordation of the subdivision, however; the improvement shall be included in the bond for improvements."

Street Name Ideas Continue Coming In

New Route Planned

New Road Will Relieve Brea Traffic Congestion

A scenic road over gently rolling hills was viewed by the civic leaders of Brea, Anaheim, and Fullerton who last week toured the route of the proposed new Associated road east of Brea.

The road when finished will connect Brea Canyon with Highway 101 and give a vitally needed north-south highway that will funnel some of the traffic from the congested route that goes through Anaheim, Fullerton, and Pomona avenue in Brea, according to Harold Sprenger, county highway superintendent.

Last week representatives of chambers of commerce, city governments, and newspapers from the three cities were conducted on a tour of the route of the proposed road.

Officials

The group was led by Tom Yellis, chairman of the transportation committee of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce. Accompanying him from Brea were Frank Hall, publisher of The Progress; Councilman Hugh Jones; and Everett Reese, who is reorganizing the Chamber of Commerce.

Fullerton officials were City Engineer Herman Hiltcher; Bill Harmath, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; and Vern Maple, president.

County Supervisor Ralph McFadden was also present. The group formed at Placentia avenue and Highway 101. From there Highway Superintendent Sprenger showed them the route of the present unimproved road to Imperial, and then along the route of the proposed road from there to Brea Canyon.

To Begin Soon

Development of the road as far as Imperial will begin soon. Sprenger said. He could not determine when the remaining distance to Brea Canyon would be complete, he said.

When completed the road will not only relieve Brea of some of the truck and auto traffic between Pomona and Santa Ana and cities farther south, but will give persons who live or work here a faster, more direct route south.

Residents and merchants of Brea, Anaheim, Fullerton, and Placentia are joining in the program to urge completion of the last link in the road.

Brea Canyon Crash Injures Six Persons

Six persons were injured, two of them seriously, in a two-car collision on Brea Canyon road early Sunday morning.

Drivers of the vehicles involved were Donald H. Belding of Pico and William H. Perriguy of Bell Gardens.

Receiving major injuries were Betty Peterson, Virginia Davison, and Stanley Eckenrode, all of Los Angeles, and Mr. Belding. All were holding in the car driven by Belding. They were taken to Fullerton General hospital for treatment.

The accident occurred about 5:00 p.m. south of the county line.

Charles McCart Appointed Mayor For New Term

Charles McCart was reappointed to a second four-year term as mayor at a special meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

At a meeting held to assess the results of last week's city election and to swear in the new council, McCart was elected unanimously by his fellow councilmen.

William Van Arsdale was sworn in as councilman. Constance Young was sworn in as city clerk, and Claire Bowers took her oath of office as treasurer.

Acceptance of four absentee ballots showed that Van Arsdale received four more votes, and McCart and Weaver each were given two. The council passed a resolution accepting the election returns.

The council also voted to pay for the bonding of the clerk and treasurer for a full four years instead of yearly, thus saving $90.

Valuable Oil Land in Brea Canyon To Be Auctioned

Sale of valuable Brea Canyon oil property, which has been under litigation for some time, is scheduled for 10 a.m. tomorrow on the ground, it was disclosed yesterday by Atty. Donald D. Harwood, court-appointed receiver.

To be sold are 20 acres in the Brea oil field with 17 productive oil wells and approximately 778 acres in Brea Canyon at the Los Angeles County line, which are held by a partnership of the Birch Oil Co., which has been ordered dissolved.

Expectations are that bidding on the property will be brisk and may bring as much as a million dollars. In addition to taking bids on the property this week, the bid conceivably could be boosted two weeks later when the sale will be up for approval before Superior Judge Robert Gardner.

Dissolution of the partnership and sale of the assets was ordered after trial of the suit between A. Otis Birch, owner of the Birch Ranch & Oil Co. (corporation), who was partner of his two nieces, Mrs. Ruth Smith Hopkins and Mrs. Louise Smith Hopkins.

Their court dispute arose over disagreement as to ownership rights in the property. Birch claimed his corporation owned 70 to 75 per cent of the partnership, and that each of the nieces owned 14 to 15 per cent. The two nieces claimed each owned

Only 30 Register To Give Blood at Mobile Blood Bank

Persons have indicated they will donate blood at the mobile blood bank Thursday, according to Mrs. C. L. Gibson, doctor in charge for this area.

Persons from Brea can be seen at that day, she said. The blood bank will be at Chapman Avenue. A Women's club is sponsoring the event.

The mobile blood bank will not be open at Brea bank and will be open when the bank is open, she said.

The blood bank will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday.

Persons who have donated previously will be given a special discount.

The blood bank is open to all persons who are over 17 years of age and are in good health.
