VOLUME V. NUMBER 91.

BREA, CALIF.

MODERN HOTEL FOR S. POMONA AVENUE

Plans have been completed for a modern two-story hotel and office building to be erected on the lot which has been owned by the Brea Oil Workers' Union, just south of the Red Lantern theater.

The building is to be erected by the Oil Workers' Building Corporation, incorporation papers for which are now being prepared.

This corporation was formed by members of the Brea Oil Workers' Union, but is to be entirely separate. The union selected five members to whom was delegated the task of securing a building on the lot, with the understanding that the lot was to be turned over to the new corporation. These men are W. D. Casner, C. C. Kinsler, W. H. Swamp, Boyd Smith and J. L. Rhome.

The corporation was organized by the election of Mr. Casner as president, and Mr. Kinsler as secretary and treasurer. The incorporation papers are now about ready to be filed, and in the meantime plans for the proposed building have been drawn by Architect John E. Kunst.

The building, as contemplated, will be of modern brick construction, 60x160 feet in dimensions. On the first floor there are to be two store rooms, with hotel entrance and lobby in the center. This lobby will extend back 40 feet, and behind it the stores will widen out. In the front of the hotel lobby will be an office for the secretary of the oil workers' union.

The second floor will have about 25 rooms, which will be modernly finished in every way, and of commodious size. The first floor entrance to the hotel will be a feature which will add much to the convenience of the hostelry.

The new venture is to be known as the oil men's building, although, of course, only stockholders in the corporation will have any financial interest in it. The stock of the company will first be offered to members of the Oil Workers' Union, and it is considered probable that they will absorb practically all of it. The Brea local probably will take a substantial block of the stock.

The directors of the new corporation already have an offer, which has been tentatively accepted, of a party who agrees to lease the entire building at a figure which will return 10 per cent on the investment. Present estimates are that the building will cost about $20,000.

Second Death In Placentia Cult

For the second time within a few months death has invaded the vegetarian colony at Placentia, taking away in each case the active head of the enterprise which has been a fixture in the neighborhood for more than 30 years.

The latest member of the colony to be called is Daniel William Weiderhold, who passed

STATE OFFICIAL ESTIMATES ON CITRUS LOSS

The Orange county farm advisor's office has just received for publication a summary of the wind and frost damage to citrus during the winter. The report is quite comprehensive and a result of a survey made by E. E. Kaufman, state crop reporter.

"What is more generally conceded to be the most disastrous freeze in the history of citrus production in California occurred Jan. 19-21," says the report. "Although a month has passed it is still impossible to estimate definitely the damage sustained. Official temperatures of 20, 22 and 23 degrees were reported in Los Angeles, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, such low temperatures continuing for hours on one or more nights of the period. Smudging was resorted to in many localities and in most instances accounts for the difference in degree of the damage reported.

"As of Dec. 1, 1921, the preliminary estimate of the bureau of markets and crop estimates indicated a total orange crop of about 92,500,000 boxes. During December some damage resulted from high winds in the southern counties where fruit was not only blown from the trees but was mauled around sufficiently to injure it for shipping, and as high as 20 per cent damage was reported. Estimates on the total crop was reduced by as much as 5,000 cars, or about 10 per cent. This would leave a crop of approximately 20,250,000 boxes of which about 10,000,000 boxes would be navels and the balance valencias and miscellaneous.
