just south of the Pacific Electric Railroad depot seen in the background on N. Pomona. Julian Yriarte, a brother of Augustin Yriarte who owns these three photographs, is shown standing on running board of truck with large single headlight on the hood.

RED LANTERN THEATER — Felix Yriarte, a son of Patrichio Yriarte, one of the early settlers of Brea, was president of this Red Lantern Theater on S. Pomona, which opened March 7, 1922. It had Oriental decorations. A clothing store and confectionery were the first to occupy the two rentals in the building. "The Girl From Porcupine," by J. Oliver Curwood, shown on the marquee was a silent movie known to many theater-goers in 1925 when the photo was taken.

HUALDE RANCH

Charter Legion Member

Edward (Ted) Craig, another of the first City Council elected when Brea was incorporated, was a charter member of Brea American Legion Post 181 when it was organized Jan. 5, 1920. Starting in 1928 he served his district as a state assemblyman for several years. He now lives on E. Elm.

So—Brea has more than a big future and an energetic present; it has a colorful and fascinating past. Senior citizens are still around with plenty of memories to interest the young moderns now thinking in terms of space-ships to the moon rather than wagon-trips down dusty roads.

And it's growing. In a master plan recently drawn up by the Brea Planning Commission it was estimated that the city's 2,476 residential units will within 15 years increase to more than 3,742 inside present city limits.

The Kirkhill Rubber Co., which moved to town in 1951 from Los Angeles, has doubled its working space. Chiksan Co. reports growing world-wide exports and a sales volume that has gone from thousands to millions of dollars since it moved to town in 1948. Shaffer Tool Works has tripled production in a seven-year period, also due to much overseas exporting. It has been in Brea since 1929.

With thousands of people pouring into California every day, the time will come when the city's present facilities and landscape will seem almost bare when compared with the 21st century scene.

Orange County Valencia Crop Breaks Record

Crop This Year Exceeds That Of
Last Year. Expect to Ship
12,000 Carloads

The Valencia orange crop in Orange county is the biggest this year that it has ever been, exceeding last year's record breaking crop, according to reports. It is estimated that the crop this year will total more than 12,000 carloads.

Sizes are small this year in the majority of cases, it is reported, although there is a greater amount of larger sizes this year than usual due to the heavy crop. Early shipments, both from the northern and southern sections of the county, have been of the small sizes and most have been shipped to eastern markets. The small size fruit is used almost exclusively for orange juice and weather in the east has been cool and there has been little demand for orange juice.

During the past week the weather has warmed up in the east, however. The market for oranges has increased and prices are said to be on the upward trend.

More than 215 carloads of oranges were shipped from the southern section of the county last week, it was announced today by L. D. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange, while the northern half of the county shipped approximately 235 carloads according to Dale King, manager of the Northern Orange County Fruit exchange. An average of more than 400 carloads per week have been shipped through the citrus exchange, it is estimated. A number of independent orange houses are also operating in the county.

The market which was dragged during the early part of the Valencia season, is now picking up. May and June are banner months in the orange industry, it is pointed out, as there are no other fruits on the eastern markets during the two months. Prices should take an upward trend at once, it is reported.

There are 20 packing houses operating in the county under the control of the citrus exchange. Ten of the houses are in the northern part of Orange county and 10 in the southern half of the county. The 20 packing plants care for more than 40,000 acres of oranges. All of the plants are operating at full capacity at the present time and probably will continue so for the next two or three months.

Brea K. of P. Host to Visitors

A large delegation of Knights of Pythias from Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton, Tustin, Norwalk and other neighboring cities invaded Brea recently when the rank of esquire was conferred upon two candidates from the Santa Ana lodge.

The rank of esquire was also given at the Brea lodge last evening, many visiting members being present from other lodges. Deputy Grand Chancellor Lewis was present, accompanied by other grand lodge officers and by the past grand chancellor, Frank Merdian, of Long Beach.

The Brea lodge will join with other lodges of the county in observing memorial services which will be held in Fullerton. The Brea delegation will visit at Tustin next Tuesday evening when the rank of Knight will be exemplified. Tustin lodge is making special preparations for the event and a big time is assured.

Garden Grove High School Graduates 41

At the graduating exercises held at the Washington school last Friday evening, 41 seniors of the Garden Grove Union high school were awarded diplomas.

Mae March was valedictorian of the class and Beth Cosmer was salutatorian.

Mabel Jones gave an oration on the topic "Student Adjustment," and Edgar Mack gave a talk upon the "Achievements of the High School This Year."

A double trio composed of Mae March, Ethel Brown, Myra Bragg, Helen Knox, Robert Prior and Rush Bumgardner, sang.

The class song, which was written by Dorelda Kenworthy and Helen Knox, concluded the program.

A. F. Kearns, president of the board of directors, presented diplomas to the following graduates: Lucille Shackelford, Joe Ashford, Robert L. Prior, Mabel Jones, Leslie Fulson, Catherine Cosner, Beth Cosner, Robert C. Chaffee, Alma Shackelford, George W. HILGENFELD AND ROLLINS

Funeral Directors

Brea and Fullerton

No business or profession has climbed higher or more successfully up the commercial ladder and no business has come to be reckoned as more of a modern necessity than has the mastery service rendered by the present day mortician. And in the personality of the men who conduct modern day funeral homes one will find, summed up tersely, all the finer attributes of life at its best.

A few of these principles that may be mentioned and which are very highly developed in this profession, are kindness, tact, diplomacy, warm human sympathy and a constant desire and endeavor to render a far higher plane of service than that ordinarily demanded by the majority of commercial institutions.

That the Hilgenfeld-Rollins Funeral Home is one which embodies the clearly exemplified factors as outlined above is shown by the fact that this institution is recognized over this section as representing one of the most modernly fitted establishments of its kind. Hilgenfeld-Rollins work has always been of such a character as to invariably cause favorable comment.

SULLIVAN MADE MAYOR OF BREA

For the first time since the resignation of Mayor H. E. Becker four months ago, the board of trustees met with a complete membership last Wednesday night. William A. Hall, newly elected councilman, taking his place at the council table for the first time. Only the absence of Mrs. Grace L. May, city clerk, who was unable to appear because of illness, prevented a full-turn-out of city officials.

Trustee Charles Sullivan, who has been acting as chairman of the board pro tem since Becker's withdrawal, was selected permanent chairman during the present administration, which makes him nominally Mayor of the City of Brea. As the council now stands, the board consists of Charles Sullivan, chairman; Isaac Craig, Frank Schweitzer, Forrest Hurst and William A. Hall.

City Engineer Hoy reported on the plans and specifications for the proposed paving of West Cedar street, and a resolution adopting them as outlined passed its first reading. It is expected that at least two months will elapse before actual grading operations are commenced.

After attending to the regular routine of business, the councilmen held a long session, taking up the matter of curtailing expenses, making tentative cuts in some of the salaries attached to appointive city positions.

The matter of reducing expenditures has been recognized as a necessary procedure for some time, because of the shortage of city funds, but changes in the personnel of the board has delayed action until the present time.

MOORE APPOINTED ON SCHOOL BOARD

T. Elwood Moore was named yesterday to succeed A. J. Severson on the Brea Grammar school board, making the second change in the personnel of the local board since the last election.

On the resignation of Mrs. Pearl Huddleston, clerk of the board, Mrs. Florence Anderson was appointed and now that A. J. Severson has moved out of the school district his place will be filled by Mr. Moore, leaving G. R. Merrifield the only originally-elected member.

The present trustees have done much work in the matter of beautifying the grounds at both the Brea and the Laurel schools, and with the appointment of Moore, who is City Building Inspector, it is felt that the board has been considerably strengthened.

STUDENTS SING FOR BREA LIONS

George Henigan, Jr., and Carl Fanning were invited to lunch with the Brea Lions Club last Friday by the club's entertainment committee. The boys sang duets for the Club in a very credible manner. George also rendered a splendid violin solo. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Henigan.

The Lions Club have planned to have some of the students from the Brea schools with them each Friday.

BREA LIONS STAGE BIG PARTY

EDITORIAL—

In every small city like this Brea town scandal is a part of its very life and existence, and when a host of old women and wag-tongued neighbors chance to see a swell looking jane cautiously emerging from the residence of one of the burg's confirmed old bachelors, such as was the case last night, much stimulus is given to this part of community life. Rumor has it this morning that a beautiful woman of tender years and bedecked in good clothes was seen to slip from the residence of one of Brea's popular bachelor business men in the early hours of last evening, and tongues are well awag already without any consideration for the mar of character of the principal. It might be well to investigate a little farther into the matter. It may have been a sister, a cousin or even a wife. Who knew?

The annual guest dinner of the Brea Lions club was observed last night at the club halls in the Scout building with about a hundred Lions and their wives together with a goodly number of invited guests present.

A splendid program had been arranged by the committee in charge and everybody is declaring it the best evening they have spent for ages. The Pythian sisters served a scrumptious chicken-pie dinner ("with all the fixins") and folks were in a good frame of mind for a full enjoyment of the wonderful program which followed the short business session.

Intercepting the luncheon courses the usual amount of frivolity was participated, the interesting feature of which were that of Ed. Peterkin being thrown from the kitchen bodily by the ladies who were serving; the operation by Drs. Steen and Hurst upon Edward Coolidge of the Brea Pharmacy which included the removal of his stomach (a bottle of Gordon ginn), a yellow streak for his backbone and several minor defectors; and then the surprise of the evening, the reading of telegraphic congratulations confirming the rumored and much-in-evidence report of the marriage of Lion Harry Ray. And here hangs a story. Harry was there as was his "bride" with all the effections common to the newly weds, but when the bride was introduced as Mrs. Harry Ray she slipped off her wig and Mr. Raymond Weatherwood of Los Angeles had fooled even the toastmaster, as his makeup and the part played by himself and Harry was a perfect camouflage.

Mrs. Robert Phelps and Mrs. J. E. Rymer rendered two splendid vocal duets. Miss Helen Henigan gave excellent readings, and Miss Julia Culp sang beautifully two vocal solos. Piano solos were given by Mrs. J. D. Seivers, which were greatly enjoyed. Mr. Weatherwood redoned his make-up and sang in feminine tones "Roses of Picardy," as he did his encores. Mrs. Geo. Henigan and Mr. W. D. Shaffer acted as accompanist.

Visiting Lions with their wives who answered to the call were Chairman Clark Reed of the Huntington Beach den, and Jay Sexton of Redlands who is an honorary member of the local den.

Lion Clark Reed gave a wonderful ten-minute address on Lionism which was inspiring and interesting through out.

Out-of-town visitors present were Mr. and Mrs. Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair, Mr. and Mrs. Ruggles, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. McMana and Mr. and Mrs. Whelan. Brea visitors were W. R. Minor and his sister, Mrs. Cuming, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Simons, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Baldwin, and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sayles.

Many valuable prizes were given to ladies holding lucky cards. These prizes were donated by local business firms and were well worth while.

"WALLIE" HURST PASSES SUDDENLY

The numerous Brea friends of J. W. ("Wallie") Hurst were saddened Monday evening when the news reached this city from the Elks Club at Anaheim that he had dropped dead from hardening of the arteries to the heart a short time after he had arrived there for the evening where he was rooming.

"Wallie," as he was affectionately known here, was in apparent fine health when he left for the club a short time before his sudden demise, although he had, on several occasions, spoken to his friends here of pluralic pains in his left side. This was thought, however, to be only from cold and was given no serious consideration neither by himself or his friends.

Mr. Hurst was 39 years old and had been in this city for several years, operating until just recently, the Hurst Taxi service at the Brea Garage. He sold his taxi service business last spring to Mr. Crooke and entered into the insurance business with V. W. Russell, handling New York Life.

Funeral services were conducted this (Friday) morning at 10 o'clock from the McAulay parlors at Fullerton under the direction of the Anaheim Elks and was one of the largest ever attended from Brea.

Mr. Hurst leaves a widow and two children in Kansas to mourn his sudden demise.

RESIGNATION OF MAYOR RESENTED

The resignation of Mayor Harry E. Becker, which he read to the city board of trustees at their regular meeting Wednesday night, came as a surprise to practically the whole town and created a furor of disapproval among the business men of the city.

This disapproval was voiced not as a rebuke to the mayor, it has been stated, but rather the contrary because of the high regard and esteem in which he is held by them, having been the businessmen's candidate at the spring election. He is being earnestly solicited by his numerous friends to reconsider his act of Wednesday night which he stated was offered because the added duties of the Union Oil Company would consume the time now allotted to the city by himself.

There were two other resignations read at the council meeting Wednesday night, that of Chas. D. Shaner as motorcycle officer, and a conditional resignation from Night Marshal George Mabes which together with the others, constituted the bulk of most interest to the public.

Marshal Mabes' letter is being published in full by request and is as follows:

Brea, Calif., Oct. 1, 1924.
To the Honorable Board of Trustees,
City of Brea, Calif.
Gentlemen:

As I have been informed that the board contemplates making certain changes in the police department, namely, relieving Mr. McClure from duty and placing me in his place and thereby reducing the force to two men, they dividing the time between them, I wish to say that such a move will not meet with my sanction and with due respect to the honorable board, I feel it my duty at this time to make it plain that I cannot serve under those conditions.

I wish to state my high appreciation of Mr. McClure as an officer and as city marshal and will be glad to continue my work as night marshal under him. But if such is not agreeable to the board, I am asking you to consider my resignation along with his.

However, I hope you will see fit to continue the force as it now stands, as I feel it is needed in full force, and is functioning efficiently and agreeably at present.

Yours truly,
(Signed) GEORGE MABES.

Oil Activity Looms Up

The Capitol Oil Company's new well, located in the Santa Ana canyon at the extreme north end of the Brea oil field, is making a fine showing at 2,000 feet and if it continues as is expected by the present showing a new and active section of this famous oil field will be the means of a revival of activities which will mean much to Brea and surrounding community. The Capitol has 15,000 acres under lease in that section which will give them ample room for extensive expansion and most likely profitable production.

Renewed activity is practically assured on the Cal-Okla lease since the old Cal-Okla well which has been on steady production for the past number of years at a depth of 3,200 feet is making a wonderful showing in a deep sand test at 4,200 feet. They started Wednesday to drill out the cement and will soon have the well on production.

Union Oil Company's Tuffree No. 1, in the same sand as the above, picked up to a fine showing this week and is standing cemented now.

Beach-goers rally against suit law

A Newport Beach bathing-beauty contest on June 25, 1922, inspired the range of swimming fashions in this photograph. Soon afterward, beach attire inspired a mild controversy.

A city ordinance declared, "The distance between the bottom of a woman's swim skirt and knee cap must not exceed 10 inches." In 1923, Tom Robinson, a wealthy resident, volunteered to enforce the ordinance without pay. But women on the beach were upset by Robinson's reported practice of using his hands instead of a tape measure; they launched a petition drive in 1925 that resulted in the law's repeal.
