because it takes six cylinders to give the smooth, silent power that makes driving really enjoyable

 Drivers of sixes are spoiled for anything less. Drivers of sixes are sold on multiple cylinders. They would no more think of giving up "six" performance than any other real advancement of motoring. For them, the whole cylinder question has been settled.

Slip behind the wheel of a Chevrolet Six, and you'll know why these drivers feel as they do. Step on the starter, let the motor idle—and notice its silence. Throw in the clutch, shift into "low"—and feel that smoothness. Change into "second," hit a faster and faster clip, slip into "high," sweep along at top speed—then throttle down to barely a crawl. The smoothness and flexibility you always get are six-cylinder smoothness, six-cylinder flexibility. Annoying vibration is gone!

Over two million owners have tested and proved this six-cylinder Chevrolet engine. They have found that it costs less for gas and oil than any other. They have found that it actually reduces upkeep costs, by holding vibration to a minimum. They know a six is better in every way—and they would never be satisfied with less!

Twenty beautiful models, at prices ranging from $475 to $675
All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan, special equipment extra. Low delivered prices and easy C. M. A. C. terms.

Pimiento Cheese Spread

8 ounces sharp Cheddar cheese, grated

1 (2-ounce) jar pimientos, undrained, mashed or minced

2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
Dash of salt and pepper

$\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon sugar, depending on the sharpness of the cheese

3 tablespoons evaporated milk
Approximately  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup mayonnaise, see cook's notes

Cook's notes: The amount of mayonnaise required will change with different cheeses. If your cheese is dry, you most probably will need to add additional mayonnaise.

If a smoother mixture is desired, omit the pickle relish and process the mixture in a blender or food processor fitted with the metal blade until desired consistency is reached. Stir in pickle relish.

Procedure: In a medium bowl, combine cheese, pimientos, pickle relish, salt, pepper, sugar and milk. Add enough mayonnaise to make a creamy mixture. The amount of mayonnaise will be determined by the moisture in the cheese. Whip with a fork until smooth. Cover and refrigerate. Will keep about 2 weeks in refrigerator. Bring to room temperature for best flavor.

Presentation: Use to stuff celery or to fill sandwiches. Can be served with crackers or stuffed in a cucumber (Cut cucumber in half, either peeled or unpeeled, and scoop out seeds using the bowl of a teaspoon. Fill with pimiento cheese mixture. Fit halves together snugly and wrap in plastic wrap. Refrigerate until serving time. Slice about  $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch thick and serve as an appetizer).

Yield: Makes about 2 cups.

Jerry M. Reed of Huntington Beach, our second winner, sent us his recipe for Honey Bee Lemonade, along with happy recollections of the first time he tasted it—more than just a few years ago.

"It must have been near the end of World War II and I was about 6 when I went with my mother to the country to buy fresh eggs. I remember a long driveway and a large yellow farm house surrounded by summer flowers and fruit trees. We were met by a gracious lady in a crisp housedress, who offered seats on the porch and left to get the eggs. When she returned, she offered us a glass of lemonade. 'Oh no,' my mother said, 'Thank you, but don't waste your precious sugar.' (Anyone around during those years will remember rationing.) Our hostess replied, 'I don't use sugar, I use honey.' Then I noticed her flowers were covered by bees; in the distance I could see the white hives. I can still remember that warm day, the sounds of the bees, the smell of the flowers and of course the tart sweet taste of her Honey Bee Lemonade."

years, having come to the city with their parents in 1910. They lived all those years on their property near East Street and the Riverside (91) Freeway. They were a fascinating pair who until their final years made their own soap, quilted regularly and raised much of their own food.

"They enjoyed entertaining friends; lunch at their home was likely to include round slices of homemade bread (they baked in coffee cans), homegrown and canned lima beans, and Berry Pudding. I present the recipe for Berry Pudding as Lillie wrote it. I have made it with boysenberries and Santa Rosa plums; I am sure it would be delicious with any fruit. Most people would prefer that the fruit be sweetened; the Johnson sisters liked their pudding rather tart."

Lillie and Viola Johnson's Berry Pudding

1 large egg beaten, then cream with  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar. Cream more with 2 heaping tablespoons shortening (we use bacon grease),  $\frac{1}{2}$  scant cup water and full cup flour with 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

I use a greased 9-inch tin. Pour in a thin layer of batter. Cover with a layer of slightly flowered [sic] berries, slightly rounded. Pour in rest of batter on top. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 45 minutes to 1 hour, or until brown. Eat it crusty warm. Good too with cold half and half."

This portrayal of Orange County life of yesteryear was sent in by Lou-Anne Keith of Anaheim. Her winning Berry Pudding recipe is printed as originally written.

"This recipe was given to me in 1971 by Lillie and Viola Johnson, who lived in Anaheim for over 70

Early Anaheim Streets Bane of Stage Drivers

From "J. A. Graves" book, "My Seventy Years in California," he makes the following observation about Anaheim.

In 1876 work on the Stages had lessened in the North and one old driver, Dave Taylor, had drifted to Los Angeles and was driving the Stage between Los Angeles and San Diego.

Anaheim was built on sand, and in summer the streets were a fright. The three or four stables there, with permission of the authorities, had hauled all the manure from their stables and spread it on the Main Street.

Taylor threw up the job, stating he would not drive a stage that passed through a town that paved its streets with horse manure.

He opened a fare game in Los Angeles and ran it successfully until his death.

Brea's Past History Told In Newspapers

Fifty years ago Brea residents were reading newspaper advertisements of the latest thirty-five horsepower automobile, a set of teeth for $6, and the latest record player.

The 1917 Overland, selling at $895, would be considered an excellent buy even today. It boasted an economical thirty-five horses, and unlimited comfort. A. H. Sitton of Fullerton distributed the auto in the area.

Dr. A. Zimmerman "A reliable painless dentist," offered residents false teeth for $6, porcelain and gold fillings for $1.50 and up, all with a 12-year protective guarantee.

For $5 down, Finch's Drug Store would outfit a home with a record player. Twenty of the latest records were included in the price of $92.50.

Also in 1917, the White Bus Line advertised that their cars were leaving Brea every 30 minutes to Los Angeles. Their office in Brea was located at Ford's Confectionery.

George L. Casey, Brea agent for the Pacific Electric Railway, advertised that the railway offered excursions to Mt. Lowe for $2 round trip fare. "Save gasoline and help win the war by using Pacific Electric Red Cars" the ads read.

Classified advertisements 50 years ago read something like this: Lost — one fountain pen. Lost — Tail light to automobile, reward. For Sale — Gentle driving horse, good harness and buggy. For Sale — Kohler piano, good as new, also Plymouth Rock hens, 45 cents a pound.

Food prices a half century ago in Brea were moderate. One dollar would buy 13 pounds of sugar or nine pounds of pink beans. Soups were going for 12 cent a can, as was canned milk. Coffee was selling for 97 cents for a three pound can, salt was 18 cents for a 10 pound sack, and tooth picks were four cents per box.

Twenty-eight cents bought a ticket to the Rialto Theater where William S. Hart was starring in "The Narrow Trail." Children saw the show for a nominal 11 cents.

In those good old days, newspapers were selling for one cent. The Star, in combination with the Los Angeles Express, offered subscribers both papers for 30 cents a month — delivered by carrier of course.

Since 1917, the year that the Brea Star ran these advertisements, Brea has increased its population many times and will celebrate its Golden Jubilee July 8-15.

7 MEN CAUGHT IN OIL FLOOD

Caught in a flood of oil as an 80,000 barrel tank collapsed on the Union Oil Company tank farm near Fullerton, two men are believed to have been killed and five were injured late yesterday afternoon.

The two men were inside the fire walls when the tank collapsed and could not be found after the accident. They are Newton Wells and Mr. Eller. The injured are L. C. Gordon, Murray Gordon, J. F. Jones, Buck Pyles and an unidentified man who recovered enough to proceed to his home. The four men, all of whom swallowed oil, were taken to the company hospital.

The fact that the tank contained only 50,000 barrels at the time is believed by Union Oil officials to have saved the lives of the five men. The oil swept across the field in a flood covering the men before they could scramble over the fire wall.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES MAY RESIGN JOBS

BREA, May 2.—Possibility of the necessity of several members of the Brea-Olinda Union High school board and of the Brea grammar school board having to resign their positions is creating no little speculation here.

The question arises from the fact that these particular members are employes of firms that regularly supply the school board with a variety of materials. An opinion on certain such sales regulations is being awaited from Attorney General Webb.

The men affected by the ruling will be W. W. Hay, of the Union Oil company; E. W. Curtis, of the Associated Oil company; Harvey Moore, of the lumber firm of Brown-Dauser, all members of the high school board, and J. Howard Robinson, Union Oil company, a member of the grammar school board. All have signified their intention of resigning from the board if, in the opinion of the attorney general, their remaining there would compromise their respective firms in a sales capacity.

Ed Peterkin On High School Board

SUCCEEDS HARVEY MOORE WHO RESIGNED

Ed H. Peterkin has succeeded Harvey Moore as a member of the Brea-Olinda high school board. This announcement came yesterday from the office of the county superintendent of schools, Ray Adkinson, who made the appointment, effective at once.

Mr. Moore, who has been associated here for a long time with the Brown-Dauser Lumber company, resigned recently because of the ruling of County Auditor Lambert that the schools cannot purchase material from any company whose representative is a member of the board of education. The lumber company did not ask Mr. Moore to resign, because of this ruling, but he believed he owed it to his company to do so.

It is known that Mr. Moore has had this resignation under consideration for some time, or since last spring when Lambert made the ruling. It will be remembered also that Howard Robinson did not "choose to run" for the grammar school board, several months ago, because of this same ruling, and Mr. Moore was considering his resignation even at that time.

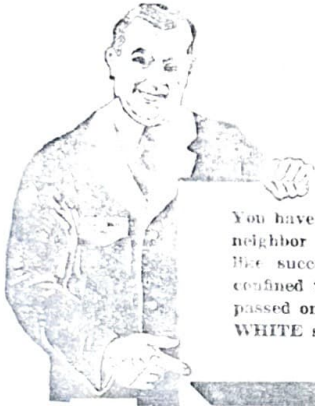

With the leaving of Mr. Moore, the matter of his successor went to the county superintendent, and almost immediately he named Mr. Peterkin.

Christian Sc. Church

Gratefully acknowledging the infinitude of God's beneficent works the Psalmist says "Many O Lord my God, are thy wonders, and thy which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered." This verse from the Bible is included in the Lesson-Sermon on "Mind" which will be presented Sunday in all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Mass.

Another Scriptural passage in the Lesson-Sermon is cited from the Proverbs: "For the Lord giveth wisdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding. He layeth up sound wisdom for the righteous: he is a buckler to them that walk uprightly."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are quoted correlative words: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas. . . . Everything in God's universe expresses Him."

BREA RODEO

What will be christened as the Brea Rodeo and become an annual midsummer event, having its inception in 1930, will be staged under the rules of the Rodeo Association of America with the features of frontier days, skilled horsemanship, etc.

Visitors will be drawn from all parts of the country through the events of this colorful outdoor show that is sponsored by the American Legion, Brea Post 181.

This rodeo and old-timers get-together celebration will be an occasion for special gathering of farmers, business men, stockmen and others, besides the invariable home coming of former residents.

This two-day spectacle furnishes unique and varied entertainment and is of such championship class as to invite the best artists in competition for valuable prizes, distributed to the winners.

Desirable camping and parking facilities are provided for during the rodeo and ample hotel and room accommodations are to be had at reasonable rates.

Comfortable grandstands and a well arranged arena assure patrons and performers every advantage in the production and pleasure of the show.

The celebration is a community event and weeks are spent in preparation with active committees of careful selection. Entertainers and all attractions are investigated before contracts are signed.

Morning parades form a pleasing feature and portray the industries and resources of Orange County.

The rodeo is free from cruelty to animals. Any resort to brutality disqualifies the contestant. All efforts are directed towards making the show clean and clear-cut, and judging is placed in hands of men eminently fitted for the task.

Professional horsemen and riders, and local talent will join in the sports.

Making this spectacle interesting and larger each season is the committee's desire.

A cordial welcome from the host city awaits all at this celebration with every assurance of a pleasant visit and lasting memories.

Aged Mother Visits Here With Children

Mrs. Katrina Bergman, 84-year young mother of Mrs. W. D. Casner and J. F. Bergman, is visiting at their homes here and thoroughly enjoying her stay. She is accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Blanch Littlepage, from their home in Ramona, San Diego county. Mrs. Bergman is one of the genuine old-timers of the state and can tell of some interesting events in connection with the history of early California.

The Bergman family ranch, near Aguanga, in Riverside county, comprising several hundred acres, is one of the oldest homesteads in the state, historic in having been for a time the abode of Helen Hunt Jackson as she gathered material for her famous novel of the life of California Indians. Mrs. Bergman's husband, Jacob Bergman, deceased for many years, himself acted as escort to Mrs. Jackson on many of her excursions among the Indians, and over country which she later described with such precision and enticing interest in her book "Ramona."

Another contact of historical importance for the Bergman ranch is that of the old Butterfield stage route, conducted during the early days of the state's traffic and traversing the homestead for many miles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Casner are moving from their home, 207 South Madrona Avenue, to another property which they own on North Orange street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Harvey, Don Harvey, and their house guest Guy Clow, spent Wednesday at Newport Beach swimming.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Hirth and Roger and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Tower and children of Buena Park, motored to Deer Lake, Highlands, Sunday.

"Warp" Names His Venture In Oil

A. H. "Warp" Brown, who recently leased what for years has been known as the Olinda Land Company holdings near Olinda, has given his personal venture into the salvaging of this property the name of the Brea-Olinda Oil Company, with headquarters in his own home on East Elm street.

For more than twenty years "Warp" had charge of the drilling operations of the Union Oil Company in what is known in oil circles as the Brea-Olinda field and he knows every foot of land in that district like the palm of his hand. He is personally acquainted with the logs of all wells drilled in that time by the Union and with those of important wells drilled by neighboring companies.

Still active and energetic, with the advantage of years of experience in this line and with the urge of the game like a flame in his heart, "Warp" has undertaken the salvaging of the shallow wells on the Olinda Land Company holdings. Old-timers see him again about town in the garb of the "oil worker," bustling and busy and happy as a youngster that has retrieved a favorite toy. We venture to say that he knows what he is doing and also that if success is to be achieved in the venture "Warp" is the man for the job.

Bert Phegley Dies After Long Illness

Wary and worn with an illness of five years duration, Bert Phegley passed quietly to rest, early Wednesday morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jarvis, 112 S. 10th street. Mr. Phegley was not unwell as his father and friends would be during the past year, have known him for

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow at the funeral home of the Rev. Charles Mathis, pastor of the Episcopalian church of Fullerton. Mr. Phegley will have charge of the services.

Bert Phegley has lived in Brea for the past sixteen years, with the exception of the past five years most of which time has been spent in districts where he could have the advantage of desert climate. Had he lived until the 25th of this month, he would have been twenty four years of age. He graduated from the Fullerton high school and later attended the Fullerton Junior College. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. C. C. Jarvis, a sister, Mrs. Scott Tremaine one brother, Oliver Phegley, of Los Angeles and his devoted step-father, Dr. C. C. Jarvis, as his immediate family. An aunt, Mrs. Blanch Zink, lives in Los Angeles.

A host of sorrowing and sympathetic friends mourn with the family in the loss of this splendid boy, friends who have watched for several years his brave battle to recover his health and who have done everything possible to assist him and to brighten and lighten the dreariness and burden of his confinement. To the sorrowing family these many friends extend their deepest and most sincere sympathy.
