Thanksgiving Day In Brea's Early History

OBSERVANCES WERE HEARTFELT IN PIONEER DAYS OF BREA

First day Thanksgiving Day observances here in Brea, while heartfelt and typical to the greatest degree possible, were far different than they exist today, this develops from a review, made by The Progress, to learn, if possible, from several first day citizens here, just what happened on those first Thanksgivings.

There were no football games to speak of, to distract the attention of the first citizens, but there was opportunity for family gatherings, turkey dinners and a genuine celebration of the occasion. The Progress herewith presents several views of that period.

"Our first Thanksgiving Day in Brea was in 1913," Mrs. Eda Hurst remembers. "At that time we were making our home at the Brea hotel, which was then operated by Charles Kinsler.

"It was some time after that we built our residence on its present location. the Christian and Congregational churches had been organized, with the latter's building located where the Oilfield's national Bank is now.

"Pomona avenue was nothing but a dirt road, which made travel and traffic bad and very difficult during bad weather periods. Ed Peterkin owned the meat market, and the Salveson grocery was at the corner of Ash and Pomona.

"We didn't have guests at dinner that first Thanksgiving Day in 1913, but instead we went into Los Angeles, where instead we were the guests of friends at a regular turkey dinner.

Was A Santa Ana

A stiff santa ana was blowing on Thanksgiving day in 1912, Harry Ray remembers. He was here at the time in a general store and went to Fullerton on that day to eat a turkey dinner with some friends.

"I think that was about the stiffest santa ana I have seen in this country," Ray remembers. "And it was so deucedly hot that it was almost unbearable, when I remember that the strong wind was mixing a lot of sand and dirt with the heat.

"There wasn't much in Brea at that time and the wind had a clean sweep everywhere and in all directions. That's twenty-six years ago, remember.

"The whole town of Brea, or what there was of it, closed down tight for Thanksgiving, including even 'Doc' Hogg's drug store. There were only four business buildings between Ash and Birch streets on Pomona avenue then. One of these was a big, wide frame structure where the Sewell block now stands. There were four rooms in it, but only one was then occupied. In that Enoch & Cowden had a pool hall. In that hall I recall also that there was a turkey raffle that Thanksgiving eve.

"All the oil leases, round about here, closed down as tightly as they could for the observance of the day. Of course, it was necessary to leave a few men in charge, but the most of them were given the day off.

"South from Birch street there were five business buildings then, one of them being Ed Peterkin's meat market. Across the street from the pool hall, which I mentioned above, was the Brea garage, a frame building. The next year a Mr. Long came here and built the rooming house, now owned by J.N. Stanger.

"There are not many people here now, who were in Brea on that 1912 Thanksgiving Day, but I do remember Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yates, and Ed Peterkins, Bill Culp, who had just arrived, the Kinslers, the T.E. Moores and the Yriartes. Of course, going to Fullerton that day to eat Thanksgiving dinner, I drove down in horse and buggy style.

FIRST CHURCH MEETINGS WERE IN A TENT ON ORANGE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Yates, who are given credit with building the first residence in Brea, came in the late autumn of 1911 but observed their first Thanksgiving Day here a year later.

"The first church meetings here," said Mrs. Yates, "were held in a tent that was placed on Orange avenue across the street from where our house was built. Although the tent was there for several months prior to Thanksgiving, there were no services held there on that occasion.

"The majority of the people here at that time not only went to church in that tent, but most of the homes also were tents, placed here in various localities. Our home was built on Orange avenue in 1912.

"We had a genuine Thanksgiving dinner in our home in 1912, and we had guests, too. they includes Mrs. and Mrs. N.B. Wheeler, Miss Ruth Wheeler, Miss Annie Yates and Ray Wheeler. Turkey for the dinner was furnished by Miss Yates, who had won it on a raffle that was conducted at the local pool hall.'

Living in Tent -

Ed Peterkin remembers well that he and Mrs. Peterkin and 3-year old Ralph were living in a tent, back of where the Progress offices is now located (205 S. Pomona), on their first Thanksgiving Day here in 1911.

"We had come to Brea on September 17, 1911," says Mr. Peterkin. "Of course there was no house as yet, in which to live, so we put up a tent. We were then building a barn on the back of the lot, where the Oilfields National bank is now located. After the barn was completed, we lived in it until a house was completed also, on the site of the present Progress office.

"We didn't eat dinner on that first Thanksgiving Day in Brea, but we went down to Fullerton to have such a dinner with friends. We had been living three years in Fullerton, prior to coming here. Prior to that I had a meat market in Orange.

"We cooked in the tent also, where we had a wood stove. On thing I remember well was that the fogs were unusually heavy that autumn, and every morning when we got up, everything around the tent was wet with heavy fog."

The tent living is still impressed on Mrs. Peterkin because of an incident that occurred there. The meat market building had been completed on the site of the Oilfield National, and a telephone had been installed.

One day Mrs. Peterkin was called to the telephone, leaving Ralph alone in the tent; he was playing with the fire and got some coals out on the wood and a sack of coal beside the stove. He ran into the market and called to his mother that "The barn's on fire."

Ed Peterkin ran to the tent, grabbed the sack of coal, which was on fire, and dragged it outside. There was no water, with which to fight a fire, so he took the quilt off the bed to smother out the flames and save the other tent contents.

The La Habra water company had run a pipeline to the lot, where Paul Barber's agency is now located, and it was necessary to carry all water across the street from there.

Had A Family Dinner

Mrs. A. B. Bowie recalls that their first Thanksgiving Day in Brea was not until 1920, but she does remember that the Nazarene church had then been built five years earlier. In July of the ensuing year the church will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary here.

On that first Thanksgiving Day for the Bowies, however, they had a genuine Thanksgiving dinner and the others present being Miss Della Bowie, Herman Bowie, Harry Rogers and Willard Moss.

Christmas Observances In Brea's Early Day History

MRS. MITCHELL, MRS. KINSLER AND MRS. HARKEY WERE EARLY BREANS

There were no Christmas observances to speak of, when Brea was really young, according to Mrs. Stella Mitchell, Mrs. Lena Kinsler, Mrs. Mittie Harkey and T. E. Moore, first-day citizens, who are still living here. They date back, as a rule, to 1911, when everything was very new, with the oil development starting in full blast, with streets of dust or mud, according to the weather, and with numerous homes being built.

The experience of living in such a new town were (sic) new to the most of the first-day families, too, although some of them had lived in other oil producing areas, prior to coming here.

The story is told that had the citizens of Fullerton not been so set against any industry coming into their city, there would have been no Brea. To make a place for their men to live, the oil producers established Brea as an industrial center, and today it is one of the outstanding industrial centers of all Southern California. It is said that Fullerton people wanted to be a high-hat town, without industries.

It has now been thirty-six years (sic) since Stella Mitchell of 133 South Madrona avenue came to Brea and with her family observed their first Christmas in this city. The Mitchells had arrived in Brea on November 10 of that year and consequently had been here only about six weeks when Christmas arrived also for that year.

The Town Was

Known as Randolph

"Our first Christmas in Brea was in 1911," says T.E. Moore, one of the fine citizens of Brea continuously since those first days. "At that time the town was known as Randolph. My brother-in-law, A.R. Bradshaw, and I started to work for the Birch Oil company in May, 1911. Birch's Well No. 5 had just some in and was the largest producing well thus far in this district.

"At that time there were no houses in town. The only buildings being the school house, now the Union Oil company office building, the Pacific Electric station, and the power house. So we lived in a tent house on the Birch lease until the middle of November. The lots on the townsite were offered for sale in the summer. We bought a lot and built a small house at 208 South Madrona avenue, which we enlarged later.

"As soon as the walls were up and part of the roof on, we moved in as it was rather cold living in a tent. The first night we could look up and see the stars, where the roof was not all on. A few days later we had a santa ana. As the doors and windows were only tacked in, when I came home from the work, the wife had braced them up with boxes and boards to keep them from blowing in.

"We had several santa anas that season, and they usually lasted two or three days,

Only One Grocery

"The only grocery store in town was Sig. Salveson's on the corner of Ash and Pomona, now a vacant lot. J.P. Huffman had a grocery store about a qurter of a mile north of Central avenue on Brea canyon road.

"That first Christmas there wasn't any church in Brea, the Nazarenes were the first to hold services in Randolph or Brea. Their services were held in the school building. The Congregationalists started later, having Sunday school in the south room of the old Sewell building, which later burned. The Catholics held mass there early in the morning, then the Congregationalists Sunday school later in the morning, and frequently a dance would be held in the same room in the evening.

"That first Christmas there were hardly a dozen families in Randolph. Ed Peterkin had a butcher shop where the Oilfields National Bank now stands. His house and shop were the only buildings in that block. We had only vacant lots his place and ours on Madrona. Mrs. Mittie Harkey lived in the same place she does today. Roy Mitchell and wife, James Tallman and family, and Frank buell and wife lived in the one hundred block on Madrona. Charles Kinsler and family, Walter Yates and family, and the Yriarties were some of the early settlers of Randolph.

"That first Christmas there wasn't a postoffice in town. If we wanted to send any mail, we had to sit on the curb on Pomona and wait until the postman came from Fullerton. At that time we didn't have any paved roads only a dirt road to Fullerton, and sometimes the roads were pretty bad. If we wanted to get to town, we had to get a horse and buggy at Huffman's livery stable up Brea canyon, or else walk. In fact, it was easier to get to Los Angeles then than to Fullerton. The only sidewalks in town were on Pomona avenue."

- 32. Lena Kinsler died May 26, 1976. Burial was at Loma Vista Cemetery.

- He was born in Otto, Cattaraugus County, N. Y. on January 4, 1878, the son of James and Ada (Deming) Kinsler.
- 2. His childhood was spent in the town of Bradford, McLean County, Pa. There he worked for the J. T. Jones Oil Company, of Bradford.
- 3. As a result of the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, Charles enlisted in the army, joining the Thirteenth Infantry Regiment. Fightimg alongside Teddy Roosevelt on San Juan Hill, he was wounded in the left leg above the knee in July 1898 and was forced to spend the night on the battlefield. The consequent exposure and loss of blood is said to have affected his heart.
- 4. After discharge from the army, he came to California in approximately December 1899 and worked for about a year in the employ of the Olinda Oil and Land Company.
- He then moved to Whittier and was employed by the Home Oil Company.
- 6. In 1901 Charles went to work at the State Reform School in Whittier. There he remained until May 1906. During that period he served as major and drillmaster.
- 7. In 1903 he was selected to drive a ceremonial spike during the festivities when the Pacific Electric Railway (the Red Cars) reached Whittier from Los Angeles.
- 8. On June 10, 1904 in Barre, Vt. he married Lena Morse of that town.
- 9. In May 1906 he moved with his wife Lena to the Puente Oil Lease in the Puente Hills where they lived and he worked.
- Their first child, Thelma, was born on Oct. 19, 1906. Arlene Kinsler was born May 18, 1907 and Mildred on Sept. 25, 1910.

OILWORKERS' FLOAT MADE HIT IN PARADE

While the float entered by the Brea Oilworkers' Local did not win a prize it made a decided hit in the Los Angeles Labor Day Parade, The novelty and effectiveness of the float, displaying an oil well actually on the pump, quickly caught the crowd and the float was frequently cheered. Brea people who were in the parade were C. C. Kinsler and family, William Cameron, B. R. Smith, William Corbit, Body Smith and Harry Love.

BREA STAR - Sept. 3, 1919

Miss Loyd, the capable secretary of Chas. Kinsler, spent the weekend visiting in Los Angeles.

To San Fernando---

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kinsler of Brea and the latter's father, A. D. Morse of Venice, motored to San Fernando Valley Sunday.

BREA STAR - Mon., Sept. 22, 1919

Brea has a new resident. Charley Kinsler, who has been everywhere in California but home for the past few months, will now stick around for a while. And he feels pretty well satisfied with the work accomplished.

"BLUES" TO FEAST WHILE "REDS" SERVE

A meeting of the "Reds," losers in the resent membership contest (of the Chamber of Commerce), was held Thursday night, and it was decided that since they must be the goats they would be the best goats. They decided that they would entertain the blues with a barbecue on Friday night, October 3.

The affair will be held in the lot where the tent is now located and the good time will start at 7 p.m. The big feature of the evening will be the big feed, but a fine program is to be arranged which will be made up of local talent. Announcements will be sent to all new members.

The following committees have been appointed to arrange for the affair:

72 HISTORY OF ORANGE COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

On June 10, 1904, in Barry, Vermont, Mr. Kinsler was married to Miss Lena Morse, a native of Vermont and a daughter of A. D. Morse and Laura (Lovering) Morse. Mr. and Mrs. Kinsler are the parents of the following children: Thelma, the wife of Everett Henderson, of Compton, California, and the mother of a son, Richard; Arlene, who died on March 24, 1925, at the age of sixteen years; Mildred, and Leland C., an adopted son.

In his political views Mr. Kinsler is a Republican and has always evinced a deep interest in matters relating to the welfare of the community. He attends the Congregational church. He belongs to Citrol Lodge, F. & A. M., at Brea; Fullerton Chapter, R. A. M.; Fullerton Commandery, K. T.; Al Malaikah Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., at Los Angeles; Brea Lodge, K. P.; Anaheim Lodge, B. P. O. E.; Ontario Lodge, D. O. O. K., at Ontario, California; the Modern Woodmen of America; the United Spanish War Veterans at Fullerton and Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots at Fullerton. He is a man of earnest purposes, is sincere and straightforward in all things and is one of Brea's most highly respected citizens.

CHARLES C. KINSLER.

Charles C. Kinsler, who has served in an able and acceptable manner for the past seven years as city judge of Brea, is one of that city's representative men, having long been prominent in business and official life, while as a private citizen he has done his full share in promoting the welfare of the community, of which he is one of the real pioneers. He was born at Otto, Cattaraugus county, New York, on the 4th of January, 1878, and is a son of James and Ada (Deming) Kinsler. The father, who was a native of Pennsylvania, came to Orange county in 1900 and engaged in the oil business, operating in the old Puente field. His death occurred here in 1919. His widow, who is a native of New York, now lives in Brea. To these parents were born two children, Charles C., and Mary, who is the wife of Harry Thayer, of Costa Mesa, California.

Charles C. Kinsler was reared in Bradford, McKean county, Pennsylvania, and he received his education in the public schools of that city. While still a boy, he went to work for the J. T. Jones Oil Company, of Bradford. At the outbreak of war between the United States and Spain, Mr. Kinsler enlisted in the regular army, joining the Thirteenth Infantry Regiment. He was one of the heroes of San Juan hill, Cuba, in which engagement he served alongside the late Theodore Roosevelt, and received a leg wound during his service. After his discharge from the army, in December, 1899, he came to Olinda, Orange county, California, and entered the employ of the Olinda Oil and Land Company, with which concern he remained about a year. He then moved to Whittier and entered the employ of the Home Oil Company. Afterwards he became major and drillmaster at the State Reform School at Whittier, which position he retained three years. He then went to the Puente oil district and went to work for the Birch Oil Company. In 1912 he bought land in Brea, buying the third lot that was sold in the town and building one of the first homes on the townsite. He filled the office of city clerk of Brea and was the first secretary of the Chamber of Commerce after the organization of that body, but resigned the position in 1920, and engaged in the real estate and insurance business, in which he has continued to the present time. He also served as secretary of the Brea Oil Workers Union. On May 9, 1924, Mr. Kinsler was appointed city judge of Brea and has held that position continuously since. He has shown himself in every respect qualified for this judicial position and his conduct of the court has been very satisfactory.

HISTORY OF ORANGE COUNTY

CHARLES C. KINSLER.—A pioneer of Brea and one of the first men who settled there, Charles C. Kinsler is well known as a prominent citizen who always takes an active lead in the advancement of the interests of his home town.

He is a native of the Empire State, and was born January 4, 1878, at Otto, N. Y., but was reared at Bradford, Pa., where his education was acquired in the public schools of that place, and as a boy he was in the employ of the J. T. Jones Oil Company of Bradford. He is a veteran of the Spanish War, having enlisted as a regular in the Thirteenth United States Infantry when the trouble with Spain arose. One of the heroes of San Juan Hill, Cuba, he served alongside the late Theodore Roosevelt and was wounded in the leg during service. After his discharge from the army he came to Olinda, Orange County, Cal., December, 1899, where he worked for the Olinda Oil and Land Company for one year. He then located at Whittier, and was in the employ of the Home Oil Company at that place. Afterward he became major and drill master at the Whittier State Reform School, retaining the position three years. He then went to the Puente oil district, where he was engaged with the Birch Oil Company. In 1912 he purchased land at Brea, buying the third lot that was sold in the town, and he built one of the first homes on the townsite. He held the office of city clerk of Brea and was the first secretary of the Chamber of Commerce after its inauguration, resigning the position in 1920. At present he is engaged in the real estate and insurance business and is also secretary of the Brea Oil Workers' Union.

Mr. Kinsler's marriage united him with Miss Lena Morse, a native of Vermont, and they are the parents of three daughters: Thelma, Arlene, and Mildred. Fraternally Mr. Kinsler is very prominent in Masonic circles. He is a member of the Blue Lodge and Chapter at Fullerton, the Whittier Commandery, and the Shrine at Los Angeles. He is further affiliated with the Knights of Pythias at Brea, the D. O. O. K. at Los Angeles, the B. P. O. Elks at Anaheim, and is a Modern Woodman. He takes a keen interest in the welfare of Brea, is a dominant factor in its business life, ever on the alert to advance its best interests, and justly enjoys the comforts worthily earned by his labors, and the esteem and respect of his fellow-citizens.

On June 10, 1904, in Barry, Vermont, Mr. Kinsler was married to Miss Lena Morse, a native of Vermont and a daughter of A. D. Morse and Laura (Lovering) Morse. Mr. and Mrs. Kinsler are the parents of the following children: Thelma, the wife of Everett Henderson, of Compton, California, and the mother of a son, Richard; Arlene, who died on March 24, 1925, at the age of sixteen years; Mildred, and Leland C., an adopted son.

In his political views Mr. Kinsler is a Republican and has always evinced a deep interest in matters relating to the welfare of the community. He attends the Congregational church. He belongs to Citrol Lodge, F. & A. M., at Brea; Fullerton Chapter, R. A. M.; Fullerton Commandery, K. T.; Al Malaikah Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., at Los Angeles; Brea Lodge, K. P.; Anaheim Lodge, B. P. O. E.; Ontario Lodge, D. O. O. K., at Ontario, California; the Modern Woodmen of America; the United Spanish War Veterans at Fullerton and Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots at Fullerton. He is a man of earnest purposes, is sincere and straightforward in all things and is one of Brea's most highly respected citizens.

CHARLES C. KINSLER.

Charles C. Kinsler, who has served in an able and acceptable manner for the past seven years as city judge of Brea, is one of that city's representative men, having long been prominent in business and official life, while as a private citizen he has done his full share in promoting the welfare of the community, of which he is one of the real pioneers. He was born at Otto, Cattaraugus county, New York, on the 4th of January, 1878, and is a son of James and Ada (Deming) Kinsler. The father, who was a native of Pennsylvania, came to Orange county in 1900 and engaged in the oil business, operating in the old Puente field. His death occurred here in 1919. His widow, who is a native of New York, now lives in Brea. To these parents were born two children, Charles C., and Mary, who is the wife of Harry Thayer, of Costa Mesa, California.

Charles C. Kinsler was reared in Bradford, McKean county, Pennsylvania, and he received his education in the public schools of that city. While still a boy, he went to work for the J. T. Jones Oil Company, of Bradford. At the outbreak of war between the United States and Spain, Mr. Kinsler enlisted in the regular army, joining the Thirteenth Infantry Regiment. He was one of the heroes of San Juan hill, Cuba, in which engagement he served alongside the late Theodore Roosevelt, and received a leg wound during his service. After his discharge from the army, in December, 1899, he came to Olinda, Orange county, California, and entered the employ of the Olinda Oil and Land Company, with which concern he remained about a year. He then moved to Whittier and entered the employ of the Home Oil Company. Afterwards he became major and drillmaster at the State Reform School at Whittier, which position he retained three years. He then went to the Puente oil district and went to work for the Birch Oil Company. In 1912 he bought land in Brea, buying the third lot that was sold in the town and building one of the first homes on the townsite. He filled the office of city clerk of Brea and was the first secretary of the Chamber of Commerce after the organization of that body, but resigned the position in 1920, and engaged in the real estate and insurance business, in which he has continued to the present time. He also served as secretary of the Brea Oil Workers Union. On May 9, 1924, Mr. Kinsler was appointed city judge of Brea and has held that position continuously since. He has shown himself in every respect qualified for this judicial position and his conduct of the court has been very satisfactory.

BREA — If members of the Brea Historical Society were willing to lie in front of the bulldozers to save any historical house downtown, it would be the Kinsler House on Orange Avenue.

Nothing about the haggard, single-story beige house with brown trim grabs the attention of passages trim grabs the attention of passersby, except perhaps the gleaming tin foil that lines the three front windows for warmth. But its modest appearance is deceptive, society vice president Brian Saul said.

"There's so much of Brea's history in that house," Saul said. "We want to make sure people of Brea have a chance to learn it."

The single-story, two-bedroom wood-frame house, built in 1912, was the home of the city's first census taker and city clerk, Charles Kinsler, who took the city's first population count in 1916. A year later, residents voted 204-45 to incorporate.

Kinsler was a major in the Army and a drill instructor at the Whittier State Reform School in 1901-05. He drove the golden spike into the last rail of the Pacific Electric Railway in 1903, at Philadelphia Street and Greenleaf Avenue in Whittier.

Kinsler also managed the Brea Hotel, then called the Kinsler Hotel. He ran a restaurant in the same building on South Brea Boulevard during the 1920s. He was appointed the city's judge in 1924 and was a volunteer firefighter. He died in 1934.

Leland Kinsler stands in front of his childhood home, slated for demolition. He sold the Brea house years ago.

The historical society has asked the city to restore the house and move it to the city's historic residential row on Redwood Avenue. The house is typical of other Brea pioneer houses in that it is of simple design and served as a combination home-office.

Kinsler added a shacklike office to the front of his house in 1931, when he was too weak from a heart condition to walk to his office in the in the Oilfields National Bank (now the Gobar building) at 201 S. Brea Blvd.

Half the front porch was enclosed in the early 1920s to serve as a beauty salon for Kinsler's daughter Thelma, a hairdresser.

Charles and Lena Kinsler had two other daughters, Mildred and Arlene, and a son, Leland. Arlene Kinsler died when she was 16; the other three remain alive.

Leland Kinsler, 71, lived in the house on Orange Avenue until he sold the property 10 years ago. It now is rented.

He said the house might be less important to the city than the history behind the man who lived in it.

"I don't like the thought of them tearing the house down at all, but the house is immaterial to me," the retired machinist for La Habrabased Chevron Oil Co. said.

"I have my own museum here, in my house" on Magnolia Avenue, Kinsler said.

Two large walls are covered with photos of his father and of old Brea. His bookshelves are stacked high with old telephone registries and notebooks that belong to his father.

One of his most guarded possessions is a scrapbook his father put together in the early 1920s. Tattered family snapshots are pasted on brown butcher paper, next to tales of downtown Brea in his father's handwriting.

One of Brea's First Families Arrived From East in Steam Car

BREA-Since there were no airplanes in those days, or very few, newly weds, Mrs. and Mrs. C.C. Kinsler came to Brea from Connecticut 54 years ago. via Steam Cars.

Steam cars? "Sure," says 86year-old Mrs. Kinsler, "Made the trip in six days. But steam cars? "Yes," she said, "Course they did break down quite frequently."

Steam car like in Stanley Steamer? "No," says Mrs. Kinsler, "Steam car like in railroad train." Oh.

The Kinsler's were one of the first families to settle in Brea. They purchased two lots of land from a real estate office which was housed in a tent.

There first home was built in 1911. It still stands next to the present home which was built a year later at 129 S. Orange Ave.

CAN'T TALK

She has a neighbor who lives next door. They have been living next door for over 50 years but rarely speak to one another. The neighbor is Spanish-American and Mrs. Kinsler says the only reason they don't speak to one another is because they can't understand each other. "Must be the difference between my Yankee accent and her spanish accent," she muses.

Mrs. Kinsler remembers the days of 1912-1915 when nearly the entire town used to go into Los Angeles to watch the burlesque Saturday night, "We used to make the trip in an hour," she remembers. An hour? "Yes, we all went by street car and it would always wait until the show was over to bring us back."

Los Angeles in those days could claim a population of a half-a-million persons.

- SHOPPED ELSEWHERE

Most of the shopping was done in the two large neighboring cities to the south, Anaheim, 5,000 and Fullerton, 4,000 persons. The grocery shopping was done at Stearns-Goodman in Fullerton.

Mr. Kinsler, who died in 1933, was the city's first city clerk. He also served as fire chief and for 10 years was recording; judge. He was a member of the elementary school district board of trustees.

Both he and Mrs. Kinsler circulated petitions for Brea's incorporation. There were 732 inhabitants of the city at that time, Nov. 27, 1916.

Today Mrs. Kinsler is recovering from an ear infection which has disturbed her equilibrium. As a result she can not get around too well and spends most of her time watching television.

"I like all the programs," she says, "But things are not nuite the way they used to beeveryone I've known is gone

Prior to coming to this city the Mitchells had lived back in Pennsylvania until 1910, when they made the trek to California and located to start with in Coalinga. Then they came to Brea, stopping in Fullerton, however, for a three months residence until arrangements could be made here.

House Being Built

Mrs. Mitchell remembers today that there were many houses in course of construcction and they had built their own home on Madrona avenue, where she and her daughter, Miss Kathryn Mitchell, are still living.

Mrs. Mitchell does not recall any observance whatever of Christmas day, excepting that each family did the best it could to provide some celebration for itself. That is what the Mitchells did.

"At that time," says Mrs. Mitchell, "there were no paved streets and dust storms were bad. The first big asset to the community was the paving of Pomona avenue. During the winters, prior to the streets being paved, the muddy streets were almost impassable."

Charles Kinslers

Came From Olinda

Some of the families, who came to Brea in those days—back in 1911—had lived in the Olinda community, and among those were the Charles Kinslers. Olinda has seen the first oil production in this locality and the settlement there was the first to spring up. And many families, where the men were employed in the oil fields, located in Olinda. Some of them of course are still there. Some came into Brea or went to other points.

Among the first day Olindans to come were the Charles Kinslers. They had lived there for six months and then decided to move here. They had the Brea hotel, which was a prominent institution throughout this oil area and the center of much of the social activities of the community. The most of the first day folks here had meals with the Kinslers.

Mrs. Lena Kinsler, who with her family is still living at 129 South Orange avenue, says they spent their first Christmas here in 1911. She also has now lived here for twenty-six years. She remembers also there were only six homes completed here when they arrived although others were building. The Kinsler's home, where she continues to live, was one of only two in that locality."

"There was not much Christmas observance that year," says Mrs. Kinsler, "mostly because of there being such a limited population. We did not have any guests at dinner that day, just the family.

"There was no Christmas observance in the churches, for the reason there were as yet no churches – no place to hold a Christmas program However, church meetings or religious gatherings were just beginning to be organized."

The Harkeys Had A

Family Dinner

Mrs. Mittie Harkey, who with her husband came to Brea on October 11, 1911, says there were but two finished houses that she remembers, when they arrived here. One was the Kaufamn home on Walnut avenue and the other that of W.B. Yates, who has been given the distinction of having built the first residence here.

"I do remember also," says Mrs. Harkey, "that the while the Kausman home was painted red, the Yates residence had been given a green color." This made the two stand out particularly in the community.

Mrs. Harkey, living here at 219 West Birch lane, says there were other houses being built here at that time, and they continued being built right along thereafter.

"We had a Christmas observance all of our own in our house here," remembers Mrs. Harkey. "We lived then in a house directly across from the lumber yard on East Ash street. We lived there for two months, prior to having our own house completed, and we spent that Christmas there.

"We had a nice Christmas day, with a dinner and gifts, of course, but only my husband and our daughter, Hortense, were present. I mean we had no outside guests."

From Indian Territory

Mrs. Harkey is a native of Oklahoma or what was Indian territory at that time, and she came directly to California from that state. A resident here now for over thirty-six years (sic), she recalls the first days' experience with much pleasure. The pioneering did not bother her, for she had been accustomed to that type of life in the Territory.

Mrs. Harkey has been a widow for seventeen years, but has a daughter living in Huntington Park and another in the old home town of Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Harkey says she came to California with her husband and children in 1906 from Ardmore, not long after the San Francisco earthquake had happened. They came directly to Orange county, and she had lived in the county ever since. She remembers that, not long after locating in this county, the family drove overland to Imperial valley and that the roads were so rough, following a trail, that it required eleven days to make the trip one way.
