To: Cultural Arts Commission
From: Wade A. Mansur, Commissioner
Subject: Facility Naming Policy

After perusing the memo from the city council dated January 12, 1981, thought was given to some of the individual points and the need to expand and clearly define some of them. The following items represents a refinement of the general topic of the naming policy.

I. A group or person presenting a name for recognition must demonstrate the seriousness of their intentions through their efforts. This may be exhibited in terms of the groups attempt to acquire signatures, supporters, and evidences testifying to their intent.

II. Monetary contributions: A group or individual proposing a name for recognition must be willing to underwrite any costs associated with the naming of the facility. This does not preclude the requirement of the individual or group making a financial pledge or contribution to the facility.

III. Candidates for recognition will be presented for initial screening to the Cultural Arts Commission. Once approved, the sponsoring individual or group must present a plan to the Commission which includes a pledge to raise a specific amount of money and within a specific period of time.

GENERAL ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA

A candidate for recognition ~~must~~^{*} be:

- * 1. An individual of good character.
- * 2. A major contributor to Brea, in terms of time, talent and self.
- * 3. An individual who contributed in a selfless, altruistic, unpretentious manner.
4. Due special consideration as deserving of early pioneers or settlers who made an "historically significant" contribution, such as the "first teacher" in Brea, or the "first minister", etc.
- * 5. Supported by an individual or group which accepts the cost pertaining to the naming of the facility.
- * 6. Represented by a financial contribution from the sponsoring group. The amount of the contribution may be determined by the scope of the sponsoring group. For example, a group of Olinda students submitting the name of Olinda's first teacher would be less likely to raise $100,000 as compared to a group of industrialists who submitted a name.

Subject: Naming of City Facilities
in Honor of Various
Individuals and Establishing
Procedure For Same

Date: December 11, 1980

Recently there has been a lot of discussion relating to the naming of the theatre or other City facilities in honor of certain individuals, who it is felt have contributed greatly to the betterment of Brea in the past. I am basically in favor of this idea, however, I feel some basic guidelines need to be established to provide a uniform method for achieving the desired results.

First of all, I believe that the Cultural Arts Commission should be given the task of providing an inventory of the various City facilities which could be named in honor of deserving individuals. This would have to be done in a practical way so that only recognizable and utilized facilities would be included in the inventory. These would include facilities such as some of our City parks, theatre, gallery, etc.

Second, I believe the inventory of available facilities would provide the City with a means of raising money for improving the facilities or providing additional equipment within these facilities on a one-time basis. I, therefore, recommend that in addition to an inventory of facilities, that the Cultural Arts Commission recommend to the City Council a schedule of fees to be charged for the subsequent naming of any particular facility. This fee schedule should reflect the importance and widespread use of the facility, as well as an amount which could reasonably be within the expectations of organizations or groups of individuals in the City of Brea to raise.

Third, that upon adoption of this policy it be made public and copies of the schedule and the inventory of facilities be made available to the various organizations in town such as the Historical Society, so that when a group of individuals is desirous of naming a facility for someone they would have the project of raising the fee and will have the vehicle to implement the program.

In summary, we need to establish this or a similar policy. Each of us have individuals in mind who we feel are deserving of such an honor. If enough people in the Community feel strongly about this individual, then raising the fee would be a worthwhile Community project and would serve to honor the individual, provide the City with funds for its enhancement, and remove personal consideration from the naming procedure. I would be happy to discuss this with you at any time, but I feel we need to come to some decision, since there is considerable discussion on the topic at this time.

Council not heard

Next month, the Brea City Council may work out plans for implementing four citizen councils, possibly beginning Jan. 20, it was indicated last week.

The council agreed to one-year trial periods for the councils covering the areas of "family preparedness," senior citizens, energy and youth. Reports will be made next month.

A report was given to the council at its meeting last Tuesday during a study session prior to the formal council session, a round-table discussion on "Communion 80s."

Although the council eventually moved closer to the audience, for a time the microphones were not turned on which made some comments difficult to hear.

It was indicated that the proposals were placed on the table by Council Member

Norma Hicks, who said her information, which was not made public, came from "interaction with the staff."

Councilman Ron Isles said he was "amazed at the activities of the (city) staff which take place already," in cooperation with volunteers. But Mayor Pro Tem Dr. Melvin LeBaron described such organizations as Active Christians Today (ACT) and Brea Welfare Council as Three public hearings by the Brea City Council drew no comment from the audience.

As a result, one ordinance was given first reading and two resolutions were passed quickly.

The ordinance was on off-street parking and load and general requirements on location of required parking spaces. The resolutions covered two lot splits—one five parcels at the southeast corner of Apollo and Berry and the other at the southwest corner of Puente and Pioneer. Councilman Ron Isles abstained since he had been approached by a bank in the area to be a director.

By a 3-2 vote the council approved forwarding of $3,375 for solid waste (litter) control to the county.

Mayor Pro Tem Dr. Melvin LeBaron and Council Member

Norma Hicks voted against the proposal, wanting to keep the money in the community, but the other three council members, Mayor Don Fox, Isles, and Sal Gamba, wanted to pool it with other money. The city would get better service, based on a report of how the money was used previously, the three council members noted.

Nevell questions answered

Mayor Pro Tem Dr. Melvin LeBaron gave Brea resident Bill Nevell, answers at a recent city council meeting in Brea but perhaps not those he wanted.

Nevell stepped to the podium when time came for concerns from the audience at the council session, and was told by LeBaron to investigate those items himself.

Nevell questioned county authorization to fund research and the publishing of the history of Brea. One Orange County newspaper editorial called the project "Paradise Lost."

"This project is tailor made for the local historical society," he said.

LeBaron suggested Nevell contact the local historical society to see what it had to do with the project and to contact the county about how it was involved.

Nevell also suggested that the practice of public speaking on items not on the agenda at the beginning of the meeting be amended to include "non-public hearing matters."

He also wondered about $587 funded for an International City Management Association meeting. LeBaron replied that he would examine the expenses

Opinion

The peculiar evil of silencing the expression of an opinion is, that it is robbing the human race; posterity as well as the existing generation; those who dissent from the opinion, still more who hold it. If the opinion is right, they are deprived of the opportunity of exchanging error for truth; if wrong, they lose, what is almost as great a benefit, the clearer perception and livelier impression of truth, produced by its collision with error.

Editor's Note: There are many sentiments which come to mind during the Christmas season, and we would like to share them all with you on this Christmas day.

Nothing we could write could approach the simple, heart-felt sentiment expressed by the children who wrote the letters we have saved to share with you today.

They are, after all, what Christmas is really all about.

Included in the seekers were neighbors, Brea police, who also serve Yorba Linda, Placentia police, an Anaheim police helicopter and dogs from the Huntington Beach police. The suspect was arrested at a residence on Rose Drive.
Officers reportedly followed a trail of blood from a field through a flood control channel to the home. Police reports indicated the girl's assailant was surprised by her mother, jumped through a second story window while fleeing and cut himself.

Name chosen for theater

The 200-seat theater in the Brea Civic-Cultural Center was named last week when the city council accepted a modified version of a name submitted to it by the Cultural Arts Commission.

In a 4-1 vote, the council approved naming the theater the Dr. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theater and gave the sponsors of the name time to gather funds to dedicate the theater with an identifying marker.

Mayor Melvin J. LeBaron voted against the name because he objected to naming a public building after a person.

The name the commission submitted was "The C. Glenn Curtis Theater of Performing Arts."

Council member Norma Hicks shortened the name.

Notes from the sponsoring committee state that "naming the theater after Dr. Curtis will give the community identification and an appropriate connection with the past."

Curtis practiced medicine in Brea for more than 30 years before his death in 1959.

Described by his friends as being a doctor "of the old school," his general practice included surgery, internal and external medicine, hospital calls, office or home calls and according to one source, "even sidewalk consultations."

Curtis was a charter member and patron of the Los Angeles Music Center, president of the Brea Lions Club, President and organizer of the Orange County Coin Club among other achievements.

A collection of letters from those who knew Curtis was gathered by Dean Millen when Millen started the effort to name the theater after Curtis last year.

The letters indicate those who knew Curtis remember him as a man of compassion and humor as well as medical skill.

He served as an expert medical witness in courts of law, and lived in Ecuador for awhile.

Lois Auer, a friend of Curtis, wrote of a time when Curtis was asked to take medicine to the natives of a jungle of South America while living in Ecuador.

Curtis did, but was met by a group of warriors in full native dress.

Auer related that without panic, Curtis took out his camera, one of the first polaroids, looked for the native with the most feathers and paint, figured he was the chief, and snapped his picture.

The natives were impressed with the man who, to their minds, worked magic, and they protected him through the night from other tribes.

Curtis distributed the medicine and returned to the city unharmed, but took with him two shrunken heads as gifts from the chief.

He later took charge of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

Curtis died Nov. 16, 1959, at the age of 65.

His wife Bernice died last year. The couple had no children.

It's not easy to name theater

BREA — Picking a name for the Civic-Cultural Center theater wasn't a simple matter for the City Council when it met this week.

After some discussion the council approved on a 4-1 vote naming the facility the Dr. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theater, which was not the exact name recommended to them by the Cultural Arts Commission.

Mayor Mel LeBaron objected to the name because there is nothing in it that identifies it as Brea's theater.

LeBaron said he respected the talents of Curtis, who was a well-known country doctor in Brea during the 1930s, but he believed calling the site the Brea Performing Arts Theater would be more appropriate.

Although the rest of the council chose to name the building after a person, LeBaron said, "I will tell people that it's Brea's theater."

The commission had recommended naming it the Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Theater of Performing Arts, but Councilwoman Norma Hicks said she thought the name was too long and shortened it.

Resident Bill Nevell also disliked the name, he said, because philosophically he is opposed to naming public buildings after people.

The name was recommended to the Cultural Arts Commission by a group headed by local historian Dean Millen. The group will now work with the city to determine how much money needs to be raised to appropriately designate the theater after Curtis.

Millen told the commission during a public hearing the supporters could raise between $5,000 and $10,000 through donations.

FROM: Committee for Identification of Theater: Terry Belanger,
Kathy Conroy, Mary McGuire and Dean Millen
SUBJECT: Curtis Theater Identification

A number of meetings with Terry Belanger, City Administrator, Kathy Conroy of the Cultural Arts Department, Dean Millen, a supporter of the project, and Mary McGuire of the Cultural Arts Commission and also a supporter of the project, took place. They have agreed on the following by way of identification of the Glenn Curtis Theater of the Performing Arts:

In arriving at a decision, much consideration was given to the style of the building and the other identifications for areas and departments in the building. They also wanted to capture as much as possible the personality of the person honored, Dr. Curtis. Also, consideration had to be given to the amount of space available.

1. A bronze marker, 18x18, to be put outside the theater, perhaps to the left of the entrance, simply stating "Dedicated to Dr. C. Glenn Curtis". This is the same size as the one for the library, Council Chambers, etc. Cost - $400.00.

2. Oil portrait of Dr. Curtis, head and shoulders, 24x30, plus frame. This is to be done by Pamela Mason of Taos, New Mexico. Pamela Mason lived in Brea with her family in the late 50's and early 60's. She had a studio here and was an award-winning artist at that time. She had attempted to do a portrait of Dr. Curtis then, but said she could not get him to sit still long enough. Since then she has lived and had a studio in Boulder, Colorado, and won much recognition in artists' circles in Colorado. In recent years she and her husband, Hubert, who is also an artist, have moved on to the art colony in Taos, New Mexico.

Today her portraits bring up to $850.00. When contacted about doing a portrait of Dr. Curtis, she said she could do it if she had a good photograph because she had known him. It is difficult, she said, and takes longer, but it can be done. A photograph is available. For us she will do this size for $400.00 including frame. It will take about two months not counting shipping time. This would be placed on the wall of the foyer to the left as you enter the theater.

3. A Plexiglas sheet giving information about Dr. Durtis will be placed on this wall. These sheets are used at different points about the building, and this one would be about the size of the one to the left of the counter in the Planning Department. This would be 36x36, costing $333.00. This cost will vary some according to the number of letters used.

4. Lettering on the glass front of the theater giving the name of the theater. This could run $100.00.

Including the cost of shipping the portrait, this complete project would run about $1500.00.

SUBJECT: THEATRE SIGNAGE

I would like to state my own choice as to what is done in the way of identification for the theater.

1. A bronze marker, 18" x 18", in keeping with the others about the building. This would be placed on the outside of the theatre to the left of the entrance. It would bear the following inscription:
"Dedicated to the People of Brea in Memory of C. Glenn Curtis, M.D., Brea's County Doctor, Humanitarian, Patron of the Arts, 1894 - 1959"
(See drawing attached)
2. An oil portrait of Dr. Curtis, ^{24" x 30"} 18" x 24", plus frame. It would be a head and shoulders portrait to be done by Pamela Mason of Taos, New Mexico. The frame would be an appropriate gold leaf in keeping with the contemporary gold leaf mirror. The portrait would be placed in the center of the wall to left, in the foyer. It would be facing the mirror. A name place would be placed under the portrait bearing only the inscription -- "C. Glenn Curtis, M.D. 1894-1959" (See drawing attached)
3. Upgraded, perhaps gold letters on the glass front of the theatre to the left of the entrance, giving the name of the theatre: "Dr. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theatre."

It seems to me that the above is in the best of taste and quite adequate. My concerns are getting it done tastefully and getting it done.

FOX'S F.Y.I.

Tuesday night, October 27, the Brea City Council took the first step toward recognizing Brea's past and bringing it into the future for us all to share. The Council, acting on a recommendation of the Cultural Arts Commission, moved to honor one of Brea's pioneers by naming the theatre in the new Cultural Center the 'Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theatre.'¹ You should rightfully inquire, "Who's Dr. Curtis?" Since I had the pleasure of knowing this dynamic man, I'd like to try to describe him to you as I knew him. Perhaps you will then understand why I supported the Commission in honoring this most deserving humanitarian.

Doc enjoyed being referred to as Brea's Country Doctor. If you were to line up the babies delivered by him you could fill the theatre and have a standing room only crowd. Doc Curtis early on recognized the need for a regional hospital in North Orange County and so it only stood to reason that he would jump in with both feet and help in the formation and founding of St. Jude Hospital, where he later served on the staff. Doc was President and long-time member of the Orange County Medical Association, and a member of the American Medical Association. He was asked by the State Department to serve on the Institute of Inter-American Affairs. He served his country and humanity for two years in Ecuador as an advisor in the construction of hospitals, sanitary facilities, and establishment of modern medical procedures for that backward country. While in Ecuador, the country was struck by a devastating earthquake. He was flown into the center of the quake area, the jungles of Quito, which was a very primitive area inhabited by headhunters. Upon landing, Doc and his bush pilot were met by Indian headhunters emerging from the jungle. Never a man to be without a plan, Doc brought out his new Polaroid camera and took a picture of the Chief. That did it. He was fed and guarded during the night while he slept by men bearing spears. Now Doc says he slept like a baby, but I often wondered. For his action during this period in preventing the spread of bubonic plague and typhoid, he received international acclaim and was honored by Galo Plaza, the President of Ecuador.

Dr. Curtis was a man of many facets; one of these was his love of the arts. He was one of the first guarantors of the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Series. This group guaranteed the financial support of this endeavor years before it moved from the old Philharmonic Theatre to the Los Angeles Music Center. Doc and his wife, Bernice, herself an accomplished pianist, were charter members and patrons. Please bear in mind that this torch of enthusiasm for theatre, culture, and music was being carried by this young couple when Brea was emerging from being a small oil field town of just a few thousand. A goodly number of Brea residents were introduced to the theatre by Doc Curtis. He was very generous with his personal block of theatre tickets, often times giving them to a patient who was in need of a lift, or to a young married couple for their anniversary. This Indiana farm boy and his wife, who was one of Doc's many R. N.'s, saw their first light opera performance because of Doc--"My Fair Lady."

Sister Jane Francis, President of St. Jude Hospital, recently wrote regarding the theatre dedication, "He was a truly dedicated physician and very loyal and a dynamic citizen of Brea. His concern and caring for his patients were very evident -- from the men working in the oil fields to the most elderly bedridden person. If he had a fault, it was being too generous, for his very wiry physical stamina many times was challenged beyond ordinary human endurance. I can think of no better tribute than to so honor this physician who was not only proud of his city, but contributed actively to its progress."

Former United States Senator Thomas H. Kuchel probably best described Doc when he stated, "He was more than the trustworthy Brea doctor and confidant. He had an active interest in his community. He deeply desired to serve the needs of people generally, perhaps in following the teaching of the Christian faith he early learned. He wanted to improve the quality of life of people, whether they lived across the street, in the next town, or half way around the world.

For a small community, Brea has produced a relatively large number of outstanding people who have contributed greatly in government and private life to bettering the human condition. Glenn Curtis--gone now almost a quarter century--lives on in the fond and respectful memories of those who knew him as a fellow citizen who gave unstintingly of himself "for people's needs" -- That's Dr. C. Glenn Curtis, Brea's Country Doctor.

Doc would have been overjoyed at having this beautiful theatre in our city. He would have been humbled to have it named for him. I was proud to cast an aye vote on this motion. Now it will be up to the people to come forth with the funds necessary to provide a suitable plaque or other designation for the theatre. In accordance with city policy, this must be done within one year.

RESOLUTION NO- 17 (1981)

November 12, 1981

You will be interested in knowing that the Brea City Council, October 27, 1981, took positive action naming the theater at the Brea Civic Cultural Center the "Dr. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theater". This action came after many months of hearing before the Cultural Arts Commission.

Those of us who have been working on this project are greatly pleased to have had a part in honoring such a deserving person who gave so much to this community as did Dr. Curtis. Doc's friends feel that he has never been duly honored. Although Brea has had monumental growth during the last few years, we feel that recognition should be given to one who added so much to our civic and cultural life in the past.

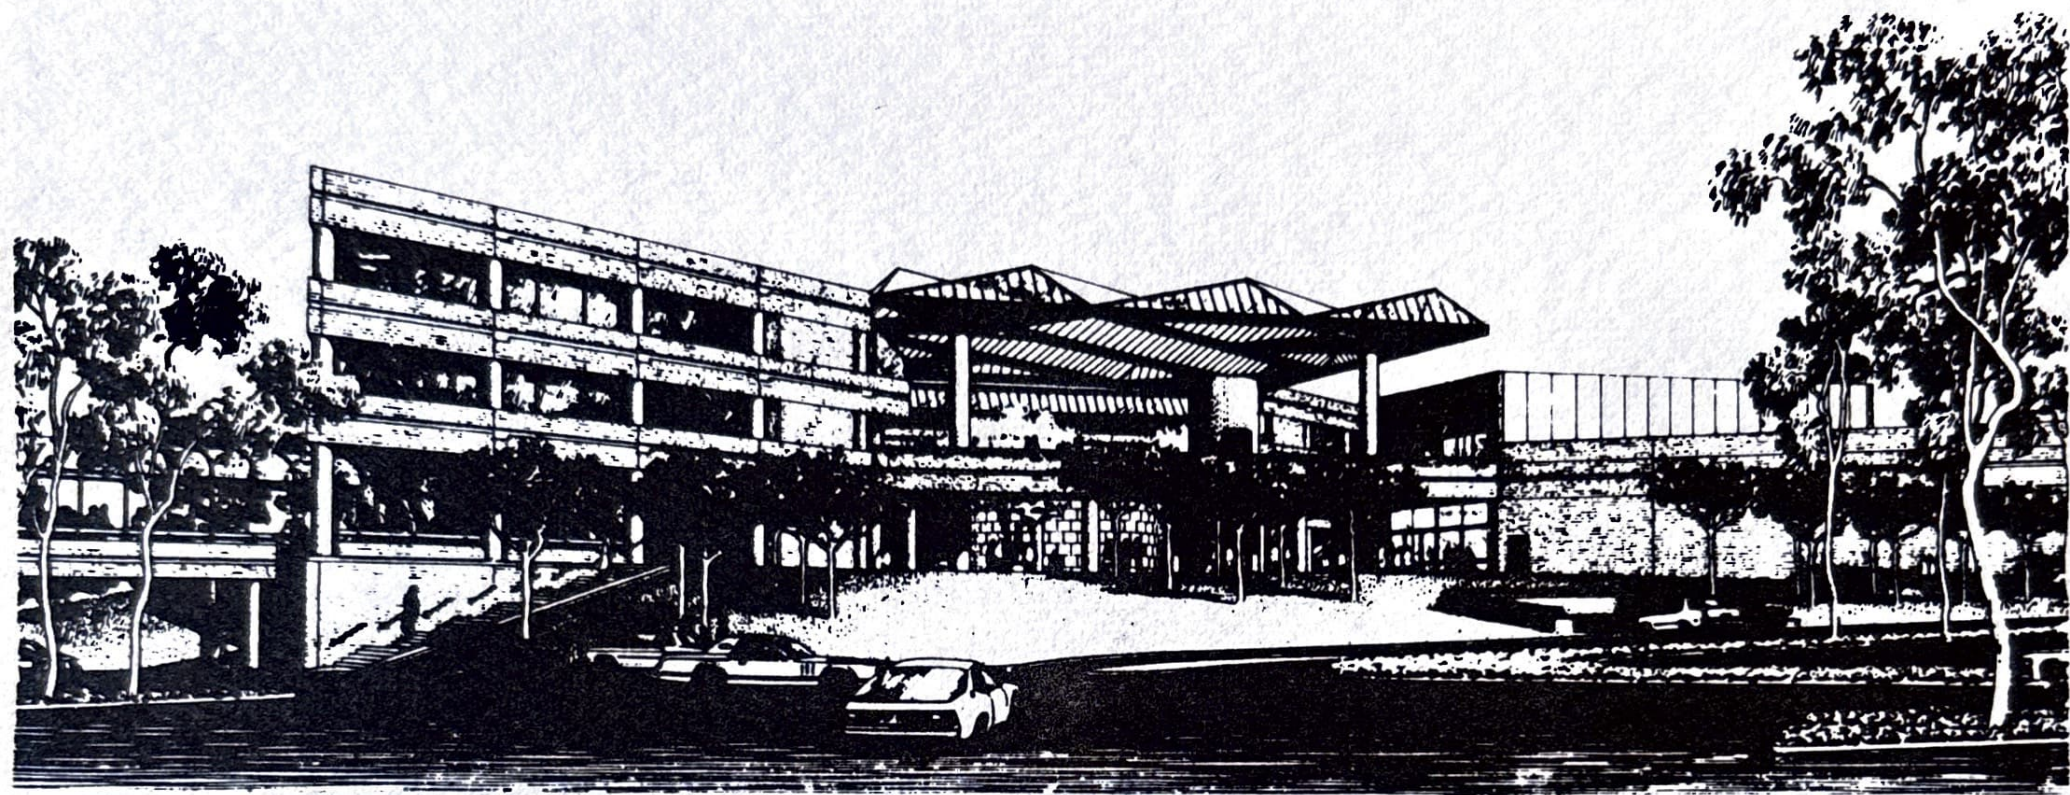

One of the requirements of the City Council is that we raise funds to properly identify the building. At this time we do not know exactly what will be required by the City Staff. However, we are now contacting friends who knew him and who wish to be a part of this honor to Dr. Curtis by making a financial contribution. A bank account has been established at Founders National Bank Brea to receive contributions which are tax deductible. Using the postage free enclosed envelope, checks should be made out to "Dr. Curtis Performing Arts Theater".

Sincerely,

Mary Quandt McGuire

Acknowledgements are long overdue for your contribution to the Dr. Curtis Theatre. The delay has been with the City Staff working on the proper identification of the building. Our agreement with the City Council was that we would properly identify the building without cost to the City.

It appears now that we will present to the City Council in March the following for approval:

1. A bronze marker, 18" x 18", in keeping with the others about the building. This would be placed on the outside of the theatre to the left of the entrance. It would bear the following inscription:

"Dedicated to the People of Brea in Memory of C. Glenn Curtis, M.D., Brea's Country Doctor, Humanitarian, Patron of the Arts, 1894 - 1959".

2. An oil portrait of Dr. Curtis, 24" x 30", plus frame. It would be a head and shoulders portrait to be done by Pamela Mason of Taos, New Mexico. The frame would be an appropriate gold leaf in keeping with the contemporary gold leaf mirror. The portrait would be placed in the center of the wall to left, in the foyer. It would be facing the mirror. A name place would be placed under the portrait bearing only the inscription - "C. Glenn Curtis, M.D. 1894 - 1959".
3. Upgraded, perhaps gold letters on the glass front of the theatre to the left of the entrance, giving the name of the theatre: "Dr. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theatre".

If adequate funds can be arranged our hope is to establish a scholarship fund in the name of Dr. Curtis to be awarded annually to a deserving Brea student.

Sincerely,

SUBJECT: C. Glenn Curtis Theater

There is a group of Brea residents who would like to see the new theater in the Brea Cultural Center named the "C. Glenn Curtis Theater". It is our feeling that the theater should have a community identification.

Dr. Curtis, along with his wife Bernice, lived and practiced medicine in Brea for 33 years. He started his practice here in 1926, continuing until his death November 15, 1959. Dr. Curtis was a medical doctor of the old school with a general practice that included surgery, internal and external medicine, hospital calls, office calls, home calls or wherever a patient needed help. He was often referred to as "Brea's Country Doctor", a title he was proud of. His patients came from many areas and a healthy recovery was always foremost in his mind, regardless of financial status. Many bills were marked "Paid in Full" when patients fell on hard times. He was truly a very generous person with his professional services, along with civic and community affairs, and always an ambassador of goodwill for Brea.

He was a member of the American Medical Association, Orange County Medical Association, organizer of the Orange County Coin Club, President of the Brea Lions Club, patron of the Los Angeles Music Center. He was well known in Sacramento and Washington, D.C. where he represented his profession on medical matters.

In addition to his medical profession, Dr. Curtis enjoyed other pursuits. He participated in local, State and National politics. He was campaign manager for Ted Craig when he was first elected to the State Assembly. Some of the old timers of Brea will remember a political wager he won from Howard Bowers, then owner and editor of the Brea Progress. Howard, dressed as a Chinese coolie, pulling Dr. Curtis, dressed as an overlord, down Brea Boulevard in a rickshaw. A similar wager was made with Tom Gowan, former Mayor of Fullerton, with Dr. Curtis the loser in this wager.

On a more humorous note, Doc and Mike Hogue, Brea Postmaster, organized the Brea Coffee Club, later to be known as the International Coffee Clubs. Dr. Curtis was in the habit of pulling up in front of Granny's Coffee Shop, leaving the keys in his car. The car was stolen on several occasions and his medicine case taken. The Chief of Police many times scolded Doc for his carelessness. One morning Doc pulled up to the front of the Cafe, noticing the Chief's car parked with the keys in it. Always eager to get even, he got in the car, thinking he would pull it around the block and hide it. What he did not know was that the key operated the siren which immediately gave his joke away.

The story that best describes the humility and empathy of Dr. Curtis was of a Brea couple who brought their five year old daughter to him for treatment. The child had been badly burned when her night gown caught on fire. Doc got the Fullerton Hospital to donate a room and he took care of the rest. For many days Dr. Curtis and the nurses struggled with the child, - love and care finally won out and skin grafting was begun taking days, but progress was made. As soon as she could have visitors, Doc would call his friends and they, with gifts, would visit the child. No excuse was accepted for not going to see her and the child finally made a complete recovery. This could possibly be one of the first cases of the Orange County Childrens' Hospital.

The inscription on Doctor Curtis' crypt in Memory Gardens reads:
"A Life Dedicated to Humanity",

Excerpt of Cultural Arts Commission Meeting of October 13, 1981

PUBLIC HEARING FOR NAMING OF THEATER

Chairwoman Shapiro stated that the Cultural Arts Commission has called a public hearing for the purpose of considering any and all names submitted for the naming of the Civic Cultural Center Theater. She stated that all potential names must conform to the criteria as established in the Facility Naming Policy, which she read, indicating also the monetary guidelines which are flexible enough to enable all worthy donors to be considered but which require that sponsor groups pay for all costs of signs or plaques identifying the name/donors.

She explained that a group of citizens have requested that the Theater be named after Dr. C. Glenn Curtis and they have presented extensive information as to why they feel his contributions to the community are deserving of this honor. She asked if there were any questions from the Commission.

Commissioner Scott asked if the name chosen for the theater were not that of a person, who would pay the costs. Chairwoman Shapiro stated she felt that unless there were a sponsoring group to pay for those costs the name would not conform to the guidelines so it could not be recommended. Vice Chairman Mansur suggested that if a name other than that of a person were recommended to and approved by City Council, the Council would assume the responsibility for costs. The Commission felt that in the event such a name were chosen, the recommendation to the Council would provide that the City would assume the responsibility for costs.

Chairwoman Shapiro opened the public hearing to the floor. Mr. Dean Millen, 420 Poplar Avenue, Brea, again resubmitted the name of Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Theater for the Commission's recommendation. It was pointed out that the name meets all the criteria and that they have substantial support which includes some very prominent people. He stated that this group probably could commit at this time to raising $5,000 to $10,000 for costs but could assure that an appropriate plaque, lettering, etc. which would determine costs

Commissioner MacKain requested that all information which has been submitted to the Commission be included with the recommendation that may be made to the City Council, if this name is selected for approval by the Commission. Mr. Millen will provide any subsequent material which he has received.

Mr. Joe Falco, 1037 Steele Drive, addressed the Commission to ask if any other names had been submitted to the Commission. Chairwoman Shapiro stated none had been received at this time.

Wade Mansur, 180 Olinda Drive, addressed the Commission to state that one of the responsibilities of the Cultural Arts Commission is to make recommendations to the City Council for the name of various facilities within this structure. Guidelines have been established and approved calling for the names of individuals, locations of the facility or other historical events. He proposed the name, "The Brea Performing Arts Theater," for the following reasons. One of the major concerns of the Commission is to develop community awareness and participation in this facility. One of the sub-committees reported that a major problem is identification and location of the facility for people in the area. The name, "The Brea Performing Arts Theater," would help resolve that problem. The Commission has been charged with the responsibility for making this a major cultural arts center and to set high standards. To do this we must use those means at our disposal to direct Brea to this center and to have its name uniquely express its location and what it represents. The name, "The Brea Performing Arts Theater." connotes the full cultural spectrum of music, art, dance and drama. The name also would serve as a guide to its location.

Public Hearing for Naming of Theater
Cultural Arts Commission
October 13, 1981

He respectfully submitted the name "The Brea Performing Arts Theater" to be submitted to the Brea City Council for their consideration.

Chairwoman Shapiro asked if this name were being submitted by him alone or if he represented a group. Mr. Mansur stated that he represents those who have called him and those he has queried on his own and it has been the consensus that this name would be the most likely to identify the structure as a place in Brea. He gave the Muckenthaler Center, Bowers Museum and the La Mirada Theater as examples, stating that although many people do not know where the first two are located, everyone knows where the La Mirada Theater is.

Mr. Joe Falco stated it is his understanding that the facility is already called the Brea Civic Cultural Center Theater. Mr. Mansur pointed out that whether or not this is being done, the legitimate future name of the theater is to be determined as a result of these hearings and recommendations.

Commissioner McGuire stated that although the name might tell that the La Mirada Theater is in that city, she would not know where to go to get to it.

Commissioner MacKain asked whether Mr. Mansur has checked regarding his position on voting on this recommendation. Mr. Mansur indicated he would abstain. Chairwoman Shapiro stated she has talked with the Assistant City Attorney regarding Mrs. McGuire's position in voting on the recommendation for Dr. C. Glenn Curtis, since she is a member of the sponsoring group. The Attorney indicated it is legal for her to vote on the issue, although it might be construed as improper action by some people.

Commissioner Scott indicated that since there are now two names suggested, and since she knows that there is at least one Council member who is opposed to the Curtis name proposal, the Commission might submit both names to Council for their selection.

Chairwoman Shapiro closed the public hearing to the floor and opened it to discussion by the Commission. Commissioner MacKain suggested the name, "The Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theater," incorporates something of each of the proposed names and could be a compromise. Commissioner Scott suggested "The Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Performing Arts Theater of Brea." Vice Chairman Mansur could see no reason why both names could not be submitted to Council. Commissioner McGuire felt that would be no decision. After further discussion it was felt that the City Council would not like the Commission to recommend two separate names for consideration.

Commissioner MacKain moved that the Commission submit the name, "The Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Theater of Performing Arts," for Council approval. Commissioner McGuire seconded the motion. At that time, Commissioner McGuire stated that she had also talked with the City Attorney and has been told that she can vote on the matter. Motion passed by the following roll call vote:

AYES: Commissioners Scott, McGuire, Mansur, MacKain, Shapiro
NOES: None
ABSTAIN: None
ABSENT: None

Staff was asked to forward the recommendation to the City Council at the earliest possible time, with appropriate background material.

There is an epitaph on a crypt at Memory Gardens, Brea that reads: "A LIFE DEDICATED TO HUMANITY". That crypt contains the remains of "Brea's Country Doctor", DR. CHARLES GLENN CURTIS. Dr. Curtis practiced medicine in Brea for over 30 years and it was a very comforting feeling to know that if you needed help, Dr. Curtis was there. He was a medical doctor of the old school with a general practice that included surgery, internal and external medicine, hospital calls, office calls, home calls, even sidewalk consultations, or wherever a patient needed help.

The naming of public facilities is not entirely new to this City or County. We have Cullen Field at Brea Olinda High School, Fanning School, Dale Hinshaw Athletic Field. For the County we have Ted Craig Park, Cy Featherly Park, William Mason Park and James Musick Honor Farm.

After many months our own Cultural Arts Commission has established guide lines for naming various facilities. ^{The 1st} One of these is:

1. DEVOTION OF TIME AND EFFORT TO THE BETTERMENT OF THE COMMUNITY AND ITS RESIDENTS.

Our mission tonight is to propose ^a ~~the~~ ^{for} name of our 199 seat theater, here in this building, ^{Dr} the C. GLENN CURTIS THEATER FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS. Born in Atlanta, G. June 29, 1894 - died Nov. 15, 1959 age 65. early schooling in Atlanta; Later Union College, Lincoln, Nebr. Loma Linda/ There is little doubt in the minds of those of us who knew Dr. '2

Curtis that his devotion to this community was real. Whether rich or poor, to Dr. Curtis you were a sick person needing help. Many bills for his servises were marked "Paid in Full" when patients were unable to meet their obligation. He was truly a very generous man with his time and talent.

2. ACHIEVEMENT OF RECOGNITION THROUGH PUBLIC SERVICE.

We, the committee, feel that naming the theater after Dr. Curtis will give the community identification and an appropriate connection with the past. He was President of Brea Lions Club.

President and long time member of Orange County Medical Association.

3. A PLACE OF HIGH ESTEEM BY THE COMMUNITY AT LARGE.

*Lions Club
letter*

Unfortunately the measure of a persons' popularity is sometimes judged by the number attending a funeral service. That tribute of service for Dr. Curtis was one of the largest. Dr. Arthur L. Bietz, well known minister, lecturer and psychologist of Los Angeles, conducted the services.

Sister Jane Francis, President of St. Jude Hospital, Fullerton said in a letter of commendation for Dr. Curtis, -"I first knew Dr. Curtis in 1941 when I was assigned to the Fullerton General Hospital. I cannot think of a better tribute than to so honor this physician who was not only proud of his city, but contributed actively to its progress. I encourage you to carry forward this plan and if I can give any further information regarding Dr. Curtis, I will be glad to do so."

Among his former nurses, employees and friends, one, some see tonite Elsie Bergman wrote: "I remember him as being so impulsively generous to everyone, with a delightful sense of humor".

Mary Ruth and Alex Forkus: Now that Brea is experiencing a rapid growth let's not forget those who played a vital part in making Brea what it is today."

Inez C. Fanning, Pres. Brea Woman's Club: "Dr. Curtis was my personal physician during my early teenage years, when life often seemed difficult. He treated me during a long siege with pneumonia before antibiotics were available. A skilled physician, he was also a friend, and always a cheerful person, interested in all people about him.

J. W. Burch, Burch Ford, La Habra

"I know of no one more deserving of this honor".

Mrs. Sharon Alexander Dean: "It's difficult to realize in this day of specialized medicine that a doctor such as Doc Curtis ever existed. He, of course, did everything. He will be remembered by all who he delivered as a man always in a hurry with plenty of time to stop and listen when one of his patients had a problem."

Vi Alexander: "I have very kind memories of Dr. Curtis as I worked in his office for several years and I've never known a more generous and kind person. He always gave of himself."

Grace Westerhout: "Dr. Curtis was one of the most wonderful men I ever knew. No doctor was ever more dedicated to his profession. He was on call 24 hours a day, sometimes 7 days a week.

Dr. Gerald Mitchell, a friend since 1912 in Atlanta, Ga. and a member of the staff of Loma Linda School of Dentistry:

"He was a natural born "Doctor" and even in prep school was called "Doc". He was also the son of a physician. I am sure he is lovingly remembered by many in Brea, in Southern California and throughout and even beyond the borders of this country, for he served in Equador in South America at one time."

Harold McCabe: "He was my physician and friend."

Frank Hall, owner of the Brea Progress from 1947-1956:

Practical jokes and humor. Political jokes. Arrest Howard Bowers.

Mrs. Mable Harden, R/N: I began working for Dr. Curtis in 1937, as his office nurse, and continued as such for over 10 years. To really know Dr. C. Glenn Curtis was to love him. Never a day goes, by that I don't wish he were still living."

Howard Robinson: Granddaughter badly burned.

Chief of Police; Doc and Mike Hogue and Earl Templeman

"Dr. Curtis was a man's man and in the eyes of his many friends a real Christian gentleman."

Thomas H. Kuchel:

Lois Muzzell Smith, former City Clerk: As a resident of this community for 70 years and having been employed for many years in offices within Brea, Fullerton and Whittier, I know that Dr. Charles Glenn Curtis was held in high esteem by these communities. He was my personal friend, our family doctor through births and through deaths and at times when I needed someone I trusted to talk with. I'm sure there were many in his day that felt as I did.

Lois Auer: Director of Santa Ana Community Players; gave private speech lessons. Her husband, Leland Auer, was director of the Brea Olinda High School Band for many years; also Director of Santa Ana Cantando Club, a Mens choral group.

Lois tells of a panic call to the office of Dr. Curtis when her son, Victor, became suddenly violently ill. Dr. Curtis came to the house, sensing the seriousness of the situation, picked up the young boy, rushed him to his office and pumped his stomach out. The child had gotten into some highly potent prescription pills, an overdose of which would be fatal. Thus, was saved a young man who in later years won the silver medal for the United States in the 1972 Olympics in Munich with his 22 small-bore rifle.

Mr. Mayor: You have from time to time encouraged community participation. This presentation is offered to this Council for consideration. I hope we will get unanimous approval such as we received from the Cultural Arts Commission.

Would you like to join the Brea Lions Club in honoring the memory of a former member and president by naming the 199 seat theater in the new Brea Civic Cultural Center the DR. C. GLENN CURTIS THEATER? The City Council, through the Cultural Arts Commission, has established certain guide lines as follows:

1. Devotion of time and effort to the betterment of the community and its residents.
2. Achievement of recognition through public services.
3. A placement of high esteem by the community-at-large.
4. Donations in memoriam by family or friends.
5. The individual should not be currently serving in public office.

We feel that Dr. Curtis meets all these criteria. Our work now is convincing the Cultural Arts Commission as well as the City Council. We are asking friends and persons who knew Dr. Curtis to help by sending a letter stating that they knew Dr. Curtis, perhaps including a story or incident relating to the man, and that they feel this is an appropriate honor. Any response can be mailed to Mrs. Mary Quandt McGuire, 537 S. Palm Drive, Brea, or Dean F. Millen, 420 S. Poplar Avenue, Brea. There is a degree of urgency.

If you feel keenly enough about this, would you be willing to contribute to a fund, raising enough money to identify the theater building with a plaque or whatever the City Council will require? If so, please indicate by one of the suggested amounts listed below:
$1.00-$10.-- (); $10.00-$25.00 (); $25.00-$50.00 (); $50.00-$100 ().
A financial consideration must accompany our final proposal. No money will be collected now. You will be contacted later. We do need a commitment or estimate now, however.

Dear Bernice:

I hope your trip to Brea a few weeks ago did not produce any ill effects. It was great to see so many familiar faces and to reminisce a little about days as they used to be.

I am enclosing several pictures taken that day. As I accumulate information about Doc, pictures, letters, etc., they will all be put in a proper file and given to the Park Department for safe keeping.

It would be appreciated if you could relate some of the facts or experiences of your years in Ecuador. For instance, the Department in which Doc worked, dates he was in Quito, or any interesting experiences you both might have had. Life goes by so fast the facts about people are soon lost. It would also be interesting to know more about you prior to coming to Brea.

Betty and I are leaving soon for a short vacation of several weeks, but we will surely come to see you when you return.

Best regards,

Dear Dr. Bietz:

The Brea Lions Club, along with friends, has planted 21 flowering pear trees along the entrance drive leading to the headquarters of the new Orange County Ted Craig Regional Park just east of Brea. These trees were planted in memory of "Brea's Country Doctor", C. Glenn Curtis, M.D.

Remembering that you conducted services for Dr. Curtis when he passed away in 1959, I am again asking if you would participate in a very short dedication service Sunday, June 1st or Sunday, June 8th, probably at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

There will be Lions Club members and friends as well as City and County officials represented. Mrs. Curtis, who is in a convalescent hospital at Loma Linda, probably will be well enough to be brought down for the dedication. Dr. Curtis' sister, who is also in a rest home, feels she will also be able to come.

Dr. Curtis was Ted Craig's campaign manager in 1928 when he was elected to represent this area in the State Assembly. Mr. Craig was subsequently elected Speaker of the Assembly for several sessions and, when he retired from the Assembly, remained as a professional lobbyist. He retired a few years ago but still, at 80 years of age, goes to Sacramento each week representing Orange County in the State Legislature. Because of the close relationship and friendship of these two gentlemen, it is proper that they both should be remembered. A bronze plaque has been prepared and will be in place.

Knowing your very full schedule I am hopeful you will find one of these dates agreeable. We are anxious to establish a date so that others can be notified. A collect call to me at (714)529-3289 would be the quickest way to inform us.

Yours very truly,

SUBJECT: NAMING OF THEATER

Attached for your review is a packet of information prepared by Dean Millen in re-submittal of their request for the naming of the theater for Dr. C. Glen Curtis. This includes several letters of support from the community.

As discussed at the July Commission meeting, this recommended name meets the criteria established in the facility-naming policy for the naming of a facility for an individual:

- 1) devotion of time and effort to the betterment of the community and its residents;
- 2) achievement of recognition through public service;
- 3) placement of high esteem by community-at-large;
- 4) donations in memoriam by family or friends;
- 5) not currently serving in public office.

The group has indicated that they have been assured of donations for this effort from many people in the community; however, until more information is available regarding the type of plaque or signing which the City Council would want on this facility, they do not feel they have sufficient information with which to determine the costs involved. Therefore, they cannot make a firm commitment regarding this financial responsibility at this time. Once they have the information necessary to obtain the cost figures they need, they will move quickly to assess the resources available to them.

It might be appropriate for the Commission to forward their recommendation regarding this request to the City Council with the condition that approval of the naming of the theater for Dr. C. Glen Curtis be subject to the group's being able to raise the funds necessary to pay for the costs of a plaque or sign designated by the City Council within a specified period of time.

Dear Mr. Kuchel:

A group of friends who knew and remember Dr. Curtis are recommending to the Brea City Council that Dr. Curtis be honored by naming the new theater in the Brea Civic Cultural Center the Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Theater. The City Council, through the Cultural Arts Commission, has established certain guide lines as follows:

1. Devotion of time and effort to the betterment of the community and its residents.
2. Achievement of recognition through public services.
3. A placement of high esteem by the community-at-large.
4. Donations in memoriam by family or friends.
5. The individual should not be currently serving in public office.

We feel that Dr. Curtis meets all these criteria. Our work now is convincing the Cultural Arts Commission as well as the City Council. We are asking friends and persons who knew Dr. Curtis to help by sending a letter stating that they knew Dr. Curtis, perhaps including a story or incident relating to the man, and that they feel this is an appropriate honor.

Dr. Curtis has been gone for 22 years and our community has changed so that very few persons living in Brea knew him. We are attempting to contact people who had personal knowledge either medically, politically or socially. As a United States Senator I believe you helped him cut through the red tape to get serum flown to Quito, Ecuador to combat an epidemic of bubonic and typhoid plague following a very severe earthquake in that country. At the time Dr. Curtis was relieving a doctor who was identified with the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

If you are willing to participate in this effort your response can be mailed to Mrs. Mary Quandt McGuire, 537 S. Palm Drive, Brea, 92621 or to Dean F. Millen, 420 S. Poplar Avenue, Brea, 92621. There is a degree of urgency.

Yours very truly,

Dear Mr. Kuchel:

The Brea Cultural Arts Commission met September 8, 1981. Under old business (naming of facilities), continued discussion was had regarding our proposal that the new theater be named the C. Glenn Curtis Theater.

This item has been an agenda item for almost a year, and now they want to publicize it and see if the community has other persons they wish to consider.

While disappointing and discouraging, it will ultimately be decided and I feel confident we will succeed. No one has had a greater influence on this City than Dr. Curtis, and this has been attested to by his many friends who have responded by their letters such as yours.

It will probably be another 60 to 90 days before this will be resolved. The Commission meets once a month and then the matter will require Council approval. Your interest and help in this matter is greatly appreciated. I will keep you informed of further developments.

Yours very truly,

DEAN F. MILLEN

Malathion Spilled In Cupertino Yard

CUPERTINO (AP) — Aspill termed the "first big accident" in the pesticide war against the Mediterranean fruit fly caused no major problems, eradication officials say.
 About 1,000 gallons of a sticky medfly bait, 20 percent of it malathion, spilled in a Cupertino storage yard for the California Department of Transportation on Thursday.

Project spokesman Roger Blake said the liquid was mopped up before it could seep into the ground or cause injuries.
 Three medflies found in a cargo area at Los Angeles International Airport were "no big deal," said project spokesman Irv Pass.

All were confirmed as sterile and were believed to have escaped from two cartons of sterile medflies being shipped from Hawaii to Guatemala.
 "If we had to have a spill this was the best place to have it," said assistant project manager Isi Siddiqui. "Fortunately, it happened not on the freeway but in our yard."
 The bait is sprayed from helicopters and airplanes over about 1,200 square miles of California in hopes of poisoning any medflies that might emerge from larvae.
 Officials said a truck backed into another truck loaded with the liquid, breaking a spigot and spilling the contents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor has won two Academy Awards and recently had a starring role on Broadway, but all along she's had a weakness for the TV soap opera "General Hospital."

Miss Taylor told ABC she had long been a fan of the series and wanted to appear on it, so producer Gloria Monty created a new character for her, the network announced Monday.

The role is that of Helena Cassidine, the beautiful, exotic widow of Mikos Cassidine, who tried to take over the universe but was felled by the hero of the series, Luke Spencer.

Miss Taylor's appearances in the top-rated soap, which has taken on a science-fiction tone, will be taped in Los Angeles in October for broadcast later, ABC said.

SEATTLE (AP) — In an effort to woo a generation that has tuned opera out, the Seattle Opera has borrowed a few stars from the world of television, where the operas are soapier and the salaries are a lot higher.

In the opera company season-opener, "Die Fledermaus," which opens tonight, comedian Buddy Hackett plays Forsch, the jailer, and ex-"Hogan's Heroes" commandant Werner Klemperer plays the bon vivant Count Orlovsky.

"None of these people is doing it for the money," said opera general director Glynn Rose. "It's more of a gesture."

Of course there will be real operatic performers too, but stars such as Susan Powell, Miss America 1981, will be in there to spice things up.

"It all happened by degrees," Ross says. "I'd always wanted to have Buddy play Forsch, a non-singing role that's perfect for him. One by one, the cast members I wanted fell into place."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Before it lost 28 teachers to federal budget cuts in the spring, Barry Stahl's literary program had 300 students. Now it has about 50, and Stahl says volunteers just can't replace the paid staff.

But Barbara Bush, wife of Vice President George Bush, took a more optimistic approach Thursday when she toured Baltimore with cookie king Wally Amos. Mrs. Bush said she thought Stahl would find enough recruits.

"You've got a great city and he can do it," Mrs. Bush said during an appearance that was part of a nationwide literacy campaign.

"We think we had a better program with the aid of federal programs and our program is seriously compromised now," Stahl said to a reporter.

Amos, chairman of Famous Amos Cookies Inc., is the honorary chairman of the Baltimore Literacy Commission.

Lowell Search Begins For Trustee

LA HABRA — Applications for the Lowell Joint School District Trustee position being vacated by George Lindenau are now being accepted at the district offices, 11019 S. Valley Home Ave., Whittier.

Lindenau chose not to run for reelection in November, and because no other candidates filed for the position, it will be filled by board appointment before election day, Nov. 3.

Bees Killed

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The misapplication of the pesticide Pennac-M resulted in the killing of millions of honey bees in New Hampshire, according to the product's manufacturer.

Ivan Gard, a Pennwalt Corp. executive told the state pesticide control board Thursday the company was aware of the product's hazard to bees.

District residents who are eligible to vote may serve as trustees. Persons interested should be prepared to devote ample time for board meetings, workshops, in-service meetings and district, county and state functions for a four-year period.

Republicans Launch Petition Drive

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Republican activists are launching a recall drive against Chief Justice Rose Bird, declaring that judges should "do what the people want."

"Californians cannot accept six more years of her consistently opposing the will of the people in usurping legislative power," John Horn, a real estate developer and Northern California chairman of the Committee Advocating Legal Limitations, said in a statement Thursday.

But at a news conference billed as the kickoff of the petition drive, Horn failed to substantiate several of the group's charges against Ms. Bird, the first woman ever on the state Supreme Court.

He had to backtrack on a claim that Ms. Bird had overturned rape convictions, and offered no evidence that she had opposed immediate implementation of Proposition 1, the anti-busing initiative passed by state voters in 1979.

Ms. Bird was the only Supreme Court justice to vote to grant a hearing on civil-rights groups' challenge to an appeals court's ruling that Proposition 1 was constitutional. She did not vote on its constitutionality, since the court majority refused to grant a hearing.

The hearings are required under new legislation calling for the designation of "border

State Law Creates Toxic Waste Superfund

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. signed into law Thursday a bill by Sen. Paul Carpenter, D-Cypress, to create a $100 million state "superfund" to clean up toxic waste sites.

Brown said the bill would provide immediate funds to begin cleanup at the McColl dumpsite in Fullerton, a repository for toxic wastes produced by the petrochemical industry during World War II.

The bill provides that the fund be financed over a 10-year period by taxes on industries that generate toxic wastes. It also makes the state eligible for $900 million in federal "superfund" money.

Brown said that although the industry taxes will not be available until July 1982, a special appropriation of $2 million will allow work to begin immediately at the McColl site, as well as at the Stringfellow Quarry dump site in Riverside County and at the Capria Pumping Service in East Los Angeles, the source of recent toxic leaks into surrounding homes.

In all, Brown said, the state has identified 67 toxic dump sites that could affect the health of nearby residents. The operators of 19 of those dumps do not have the money to clean them up, Brown said.

He estimated the cost of cleaning up those sites at $57 million.

Chris Meyer, a Fullerton city administrative aide, said the McColl dump should be a top priority for "superfund" money because another bill that would allocate $400,000 to clean up the site has stalled in the Legislature.

Reagan Welfare Figures Disputed

SACRAMENTO, (AP) — When President Reagan was governor of California, he launched an 84-point overhaul of welfare which is still viewed as the major accomplishment.

The effect of his efforts during the last three years of his eight years in office was to cut welfare rolls by about 350,000 persons. He also raised grants an average of 43 percent for the "truly needy," as Reagan described the recipients who remained.

William Jopling, assistant chief of the hazardous waste management section of the Health Services, said, "I don't know of any other dump that I've seen analyses on with levels of sulfur dioxide so high. It seems to me there may be other such acid refinery wastes deposited elsewhere, but they haven't turned up."

Elks mark 25th anniversary

By GIESLA MEIER
News Tribune Writer

FULLERTON — Twenty-five years of friendship, sociability and service to others will be commemorated by the Fullerton Elks Lodge 1993 during a three-day anniversary celebration this weekend.

German food, a variety show and a performance by the 180-piece La Habra High School Band.

The celebration marks the 25th anniversary of the Fullerton Elks Lodge, which was chartered on March 17, 1956, in the basketball gymnasium at Fullerton College. The lodge had 1,173 charter members — the largest charter class in the state at that time — including 400 members who transferred from the mother lodge in Anaheim.

In 1959, the Elks built their hilltop lodge near the intersection of Harbor and Brea boulevards. According to charter member Bill Compton, two of the lodge brothers — Judge Lloyd Verry and Glenn "Bucky" Walters — had a bet as to whether the lodge would be finished for the first event planned there on New Year's Eve. The lodge was finished in time and the loser, Walters, had to push Verry up the hill to the lodge in a wheelbarrow, Compton said.

Very proudly earned the ride, since he put up the $60,000 to buy the land for the lodge. He was repaid later by the Elks.

In 1974 the lodge was expanded by about 5,500 square feet to make room for more office space, a new clubroom, a family billiard room and a library sitting room. However, most of the club's efforts have been spent not on itself but on projects that benefit others.

Elks try to be charitable, thoughtful and kind, and have a motto that states "A good deed honestly and properly performed will continue forever," said Compton.

On the local level, the lodge sponsors Youth in Government Day, a Boy Scout troop, Little League and Pop Warner teams and fire departments. The club participates in national Elks hoop and scholarship contests and shoot and scholarship contests and loans its facility at no cost to various community groups.

The Elks also have pledged that as long as there is a disabled veteran in a hospital, the Elks will never forget him. The Elks have provided various programs and entertainment for disabled veterans.

The Fullerton lodge, with 1,632 members, belongs to the California-Hawaii State Association, which represents 200,000 Elks.

The association has two major projects. One provides 40 physical therapists operating out of fully-equipped mobile station wagons, providing physical therapy for remote areas. There is no charge for this service to the children or their families.

The second project is a pre-school eye-screening program which checks youngsters for eye defects that can be corrected if detected early enough.

To help support those projects, the Fullerton lodge last year donated $15,000. The entire state association raised $1.5 million for its programs.

Elks throughout the country also contribute to the Elks National Foundation — "The Great Heart of Elkdom." The interest from a $30 million principle that is never spent helps support various national and state level projects.

The Elks Lodge is a non-sectarian organization open to men of any race, creed or color, Compton said. Members must be American citizens, must believe in God and must be willing to pledge allegiance to the American flag.

"The Elks give all American citizens the opportunity to be of service to others," said Compton.

PAGANIT CONTASTANT — Lani Lynn Weltmer, of Fullerton, will compete for the title Miss Hawaii of California during a pageant at the Pasadena Hilton tomorrow.

The cosmology student at Fullerton College is sponsored by the Beverly Hills Law Offices of John H. Wolf. If selected for the title, Miss Weltmer will represent 100,000 Hawaiian Californians at luaus, festivals, parades and other events here and in Hawaii.

Tree report on Brea's city agenda

BREA — A report on the city's policy for replacing damaged or stolen trees on parkways will be given to the City Council when it meets at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

The trees initially are installed by developers building in the area, but become the responsibility of the city once developers' bonds are released.

There have been reports that about 25 sycamore trees in the Country Hills area are missing and the council has to decide whether to replace them.

In other matters, the council will hold a public hearing on a parcel map application that would divide 9.94 acres on Berry Street and Imperial Highway into 10 parcels.

Michael Anderson, the applicant for the project, also will be asked to participate in installing a traffic signal his development will require.

The meeting will be held in council chambers on the third level of the Civic-Cultural Center.

Placentia Passages

By BOB RHEIN

PLACENTIA — How many times has someone come up to you and wanted to know the breeding cycle of a pygmy marmoset?

The answer was on the tip of your tongue, but you couldn't quite remember it.

Embarrassing, to say the least. Well, friend, your days of shame are over. Everything you ever wanted to know (and then some) on the animal world is now on file in the Placentia Library.

The 11-volume "Encyclopedia of the Animal World" is the library's latest acquisition, said DAVE SNOW, library director.

It includes 3,000 entries on mammals with thousands of color pictures designed to bring African veldts, burning deserts and dusty prairies right into your study carrel at the library.

From a nine-page entry about the naming of the animals to a one-paragraph entry about the Springbok, a fawn gazelle found in the Kalahari Desert, the "Encyclopedia of the Animal World" will make those school reports due on Mondays a lot easier to write.

HALF-TIMERS — If you are going to the Rams-Browns game Sunday at Anaheim Stadium, don't go out for the suets and hot dogs at half-time before you see the El Dorado High School marching band in action.

The award-winning music ensemble will perform at half-time, featuring its new rifle squad complete with tendor outfits.

Under the direction of RICH WATSON, the band will be playing and marching to a special arrangement of "You're A Grand Old Flag," a "Sesame Street" medley, a couple of Kenny Rogers hits and the evergreen "Blues Brothers' Theme."

Go get 'em, troops. ***

PERSONALS — A big thank you goes out to BILL JOHNSTON, a vehicle mechanic for the Placentia Unified School District, who helped a beleaguered reporter with a flat tire last week. Bill has been with the district for eight months now, and can really wield an air gun and hydraulic floor jack.

Thanks, Bill. ***

Performance audit for Public Works Department may be due

BUENA PARK — A performance audit of the city's Public Works Department — the first of its kind here — could be in the offing in the near future.

The purpose of the audit would be to find ways to cut costs and improve areas of budgeting, work scheduling and job assignments within the department, said Mary Clark, administrative assistant.

The Public Works Department, whose budget comprises 17.7 percent of the city's total budget, is responsible for repairing and maintaining city equipment and landscaping parks, streets and water and sewage systems.

An audit of the department could cost between $20,000 and $40,000, but would be expected to have a significant cost-saving impact on next year's fiscal budget, Ms. Clark said.

Consultants have pinpointed goals such as decreasing costs as well as improving the department's response time and work standards as potential outcomes of the proposed audit.

The department's 1981-1982 budget of $5,333,996 is the second-highest in the city, with the police department ranking highest and comprising 25 percent of the budget. The Fire Department ranks third at 14.5 percent.

The city is considering similar audits of both the police and fire departments in the years proceeding next year, Ms. Clark said.

Meanwhile, two consulting firms submitted proposals last week for the public works audit. Those will be considered by a consultant selection committee consisting of City Manager Ron Bates and Director of Public Works Norm Rubel.

If approved by the City Council, the audit would take four to five months to complete — in time for the preparation of the 1982-83 budget, Ms. Clark said.

The two firms the selection committee will choose are Arthur Young Co. of Santa Ana, which has prepared a 17-week, $20,965 study, and Los Angeles-based Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., which submitted a 13-week, $32,500 work plan.

The former firm projected a 10 to 15 percent return to the city in public works personnel costs, or $140,000 to $200,000 a year, once quest for consultants' proposals, however.

A third consulting firm was eliminated from bid competition, the audit results are implemented.

Funding for the audit would come out of the city's general fund, Ms. Clark said. So far, the council has approved only a request for consultant's proposals, however.

'Beef boycott' a burr in cattlemen's saddle

Orange County Home Advisor
U.C. Cooperative Extension

California cattlemen are wringing their hands over the falling consumption of beef — a situation that affects their profits adversely.

Per capita beef consumption has dropped 23 percent since 1977, or about 30 pounds per year per person.

Reasons are obvious: (1) Escalating prices, not only of beef, but also of all food and other consumer items, causing consumers to trim spending for a perceived "luxury" food.

(2) Strong price competition from poultry resulting in a switch from beef to chicken — not only in retail consumption but also in food service establishments, for example fast food "hamburger" chains.

(3) Health concerns and publicity about dietary guidelines that recommend reduced consumption of saturated fats and cholesterol — both found in abundance in beef — and use of more grains and vegetables in place of animal foods.

(4) Changing lifestyles with more homemakers being employed and needing to be able to prepare quick meals which can be done more easily with pre-cut poultry products rather than with the lower price, less tender beef roasts and other cuts requiring long, slow cooking. High prices for the best known quick-cooking beef — ground beef — also are involved in the decision.

The cattlemen obviously want to take action to increase beef consumption. But, from the consumer standpoint, are you better off nutritionally if you eat steak? "rather than more?"

The answer isn't clear cut. Millions of people in the world survive without eating beef or other red meats.

These include vegetarians. So beef isn't an essential food.

Beef is high in saturated fat, which could have the effect of causing elevated blood cholesterol levels in some people. Beef also contains iron, which some scientists believe can offset the elevated blood cholesterol problem. Other scientists disagree with this theory.

All animal foods contain pre-formed cholesterol. Beef is no higher in pre-formed cholesterol than lean such as poultry or fish. Beef fat is more saturated than that of poultry and fish, however.

One nutrient that red meats have in appreciably larger amounts than fish and poultry is iron. And the iron in animal foods is in a form that is much more available to the body than that found in plant foods.

Much of the iron in animal foods is in a form called "heme" iron. Heme iron is an organic, ferrous (non-oxidized) form of iron that is attached to two proteins, hemoglobin and myoglobin. Our bodies absorb heme iron five to ten times better than "nonheme" iron found in plants. (About 35 percent of heme iron is absorbed, compared to only 5 percent nonheme iron.)

Additionally, the presence of heme iron helps our bodies use nonheme iron more efficiently. Thus, eating meat improves our iron absorption two ways: It provides heme iron and it enhances our absorption of nonheme iron.

Iron deficiency anemia is one of the three most prevalent nutritionally related health problems in the United States. It would seem that eliminating beef and other red meats from our diets — or drastically reducing our intake — as a way to cut down on saturated fat and cholesterol (and/or save some money) could make anemia problems more acute for some people.

Ms. Wenck answers some homemaker and consumer questions.

Question: Long ago in a nutrition class I see in a newspaper being told that including a food high in Vitamin C in a meal would help prevent anemia. Is this true, and if so, why?

Answer: Yes, vitamin C in food will help prevent iron deficiency anemia. This is because ascorbic acid (vitamin C) improves the body's absorption of iron. Vitamin C is an antioxidant and it protects the ferrous form of iron — heme iron — from being oxidized into a form of iron that is less well absorbed. Vitamin C also makes the nonheme, ferric form of iron more soluble and absorbable.

Because of this fact, drinking orange juice, which is a good Vitamin C source, along with an iron supplement, should do you good. Another type of anemia that is caused by a protein is B-vitamin (folacin). Orange juice is a good source of folacin — in fact, ½ cup supplies over one-fourth your day's requirement.

Question: I'm growing horseradish in my garden and I want to make horseradish relish. After I grind it, how long should I let it sit before I use it? Should I peel the horseradish?

Answer: To make horseradish relish add 1 c. white vinegar and ½ tsp. salt to 2 c. grated horseradish. (The vinegar is the preservative.) Peel thoroughly washed horseradish roots with a vegetable peeler to remove the brown outer skin. Grate horseradish in a remove the brown outer skin. Grate mixing with vinegar food processor or blender. After mixing with vinegar seal tightly and store in the refrigerator.

Question: I have a favorite jam recipe that calls for how can I convert my recipe from liquid to powdered pectin?

Answer: Make liquid powdered pectin following the recipe of the jar in place of liquid pectin. Empty a package of powdered pectin into a saucepan. Add ½ c. water. Bring the mixture to a boil and boil 1 min., stirring constantly. Pour this into a 1-c. measuring cup. Fill to the 1-c. mark with cold liquid and mix. This will be equivalent to 1 oz. or 1 c. liquid pectin.

Buried treasure? It's in the bag

By ALLISON DEERER
News Tribune Writer

It's madness, pure and simple. A search for buried treasure.

A bargain-basement scramble with overtones of literary greatness.

The Friends of the Fullerton Library call it the Buck-a-Bag sale. It's the last hour of a three-day dispersal of half a year's worth of donated books.

I know, too well, what can happen at the library on a sunny afternoon in October (and the equally balmy one in April).

I'm a buck-a-bag junkie.

I am an elite group. And, we all have our motives.

We're from the kid-in-the-candy-store school of buck-a-bagging. I, my two little non-readers (and once even my mother-in-law) buy our supermarket bags and saunter into the recesses of the library's lower level as if we had all the time in the world.

Then, and only then, does the madness strike. The kids once came home with such treasures as a dog-eared Cub Scout Handbook, a leaflet on teen drug abuse, and Spanish-Scottish children's stories to be read in Mom's rusty espanol (sort of) and translated (also sort of).

I fill my shopping bag with paperback (you get more that way, you know) and a love of fiction (regular and science).

Other literature purchasers don't have the pure motivation I can claim.

One time, in the tense moments before the half-price floors were ushered out and the $1-a-bag people were allowed in, I talked with a man who had brought along three cohorts to buy books — any books, as long as they were hardback and had interesting jackets or bindings. He had just moved into a new condominium and had acres of empty shelves to fill.

Would he read them? Probably not. (A shame. I hoped then he would be locked in by a blizzard and forced to turn some pages. Not read? A sacrilege!)

Interior decorators send their minions, too. Where else do those cozy restaurants and model homes get their decorative volumes? (Has anyone else been tempted to pull a book from a restaurant shelf, just to make it feel appreciated?)

There usually are bargain hunters (like me) who figure that one "good" book out of a bagful is worth the dollar invested.

My children, the first time, merrily tossed book after book into their bags. The next, they picked one, handed me the empty bag and sat under a table, reading.

Book-sale frequenters are the curious, the selective, the grabbers and the shoppers. Generally, however, the real readers seem less likely to take everything and leave you sans new words to conquer.

Later, there always is the joy of discovering what you've bought.

Reading done, the books are donated again — for next year's sale.

See you Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Tatum-Hurdle

PLACENTIA — Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy E. Tatum have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dana Charise Tatum, to Donald Norman Hurdle II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Hurdle of Fullerton.

Mrs. Tatum, a graduate of Whitler Christian High School, is employed by Metz Johnson Stress and Larson, a Fullerton law firm.

Her fiancé also is a WCSHS graduate. He is a first science major at Santa Ana College and is employed by Precision Plating Co. in Orange.

A Nov. 21 wedding at Faith Baptist Church in Yorba Linda is planned.

Her fiancé, a graduate of El Dorado High School, Placentia, and Fullerton College, is a senior at Santa Ana College, majoring in business administration. He is employed by Pacific Telephone, Santa Ana.

Coalition hosts education events

SANTA ANA — The Coalition Concerned With Adolescent Pregnancy will mark National Family Sexuality Education Week Oct. 5 through Oct. 11 with a series of events throughout the county. CCAP will place displays of suggested reading material in bookstores and libraries in the county and at workshops scheduled for 7 p.m. Oct. 8 at the Tustin Library, 345 Main St., Tustin.

Featured workshop speaker will be Dr. John Ricks, a Methodist minister. Additional workshops will be staged later in the fall for parents and educators. CCAP also offers educational pamphlets and bibliographies to interested parents.

The message of the education week, explained a spokesman, is that parents are primary sexuality educators for their children and that parents cannot be effective "in a vacuum."

"They need help in nurturing today's youth. Community groups, schools and religious organizations can work as partners with parents to support them in their efforts."

"Parents sometimes find it difficult to talk to their children about sexuality and issues related to it," said Elizabeth Todd, CCAP chairperson. "Not discussing these issues has proven hazardous."

Last year one out of every 10 teenage girls became pregnant, and teen-agers accounted for more than 28 percent of sexually-transmitted diseases. In Orange County, nearly 3,500 births last year were to teen-age mothers, another 6,000 to 10,000 had spontaneous abortions.

Further information may be obtained by calling 973-4859.

FORMS ARE AVAILABLE FOR ANNOUNCEMENTS

As a community newspaper, the News Tribune is pleased to publish engagement and wedding announcements — but timeliness is important.

Engagement announcements, with photo if desired, must be received AT LEAST seven weeks prior to the wedding date. Those received later will not be used.

Wedding stories should be in our hands several days before the wedding if it is desirable that they be published within the week following the wedding. Those received later will be condensed accordingly and a photo will not be used after one month.

The high school entrance test will be administered at 8:30 a.m. Feb. 6, 1982. The testing fee is $20 and pre-registration is not required.

Ann Landers

Clean hands compulsion

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For years I have been wondering what some people call "crazy clean." Every time I touch a doorknob I must wash my hands. I have told myself, "It's not necessary — you DON'T HAVE TO DO IT!" But I become so uncomfortable after a few minutes. I give in to the urge in order to get some peace of mind.

It's a nuisance to wash my hands 15 or 20 times a day, but I MUST do it!

I am going on a trip soon, and dread checking into a motel. The thought of touching the TV dial, the handles of the wash basin and shower sickness me. Please say something to put me at ease. I don't want to be miserable on my vacation. — Too Fussy In Tascosa

DEAR TOO FUSSY: You are not alone. A few moments ago I read a similar letter from Wisconsin. Here it is:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in a small office with five other women. We share a power room.

One of our habits is touching clean hands. Every half hour she ties up the bathroom for at least 10 minutes washing her hands. She sudses and rinses, sudses and rinses until she is sure that they are perfectly clean.

When questioned about this, her only comment is that she simply cannot stand to have dirty hands. We do the same type of work and our hands do not get dirty.

The other girls and myself have tried to kid her out of it, but no luck. We have also knocked on the door of John and asked her to please hurry up, but it doesn't help.

Any suggestions? She's a nice person otherwise — Five in Chippewa Falls, Wis.

DEAR SUFFERERS: A compulsion is an uncontrollable impulse to perform an irrational act. Many of us have compulsions, such as touching various pieces of furniture before we leave the house, or checking the lights and gas stove or the front and back doors before retiring. These rituals can be annoying, but we continue to perform them because we will feel uncomfortable if we don't.

A woman who spends 10 minutes washing her hands 15 times a day is more than overly neat or "crazy clean." She has what the professionals call an obsessive-compulsive neurosis.

I consulted with Dr. Francis J. Braceland, a distinguished psychiatrist in Hartford, Conn., and editor emeritus of the American Journal of Psychiatry. According to Dr. Braceland, if the compulsion is so severe as to time-consuming that it interferes with one's life, professional help should be sought.

A competent psychiatrist may be able to get to the root of the compulsion and rid the patient of the incessant demands. Dr. Braceland said the problem of being a slave to a ritual may be a substitute for other needs that are not met. Or — feelings of fear and guilt related to something in the past. Also, the obsessive, neurotic personality may feel that by performing certain acts, he will be protected against bad luck. The longing for feeling of being safe is realized when he acts out his compulsion.

Dr. Braceland urges people with this problem not to give up on trying to get well. He said, "Research is going on all the time and perhaps some drug will be discovered soon that will be helpful."

Odds and Ends

Numerous experts still contend that colors greatly influence people. Item #44C in our Love and War man's file hangs on this belief. It cites one color expert as saying that a young woman who wishes to inspire a matrimonial proposal should choose her clothing in accordance with the nature of the man. If he is shy, wear red, says this expert. If he is aggressive, wear white.

A municipal ordinance of Pueblo, Colo., requires all bicycles there to carry gongs.

QUESTION: Where and when did men wear bells all over their clothing? ANSWER: In Germany about 700 years ago. The costume was popular with just about everybody but burglars.

Can you think of any word besides "in, divisibility" — that contains one vowel repeated six times?

Some snoring is blamed on allergies. No, telephone records show one case wherein snoring quieted, remarkably, after the snorer stopped eating tomatoes.

No blaring bells signal class starts and ends at the high school in Elizabeth, Colo. Instead, currently popular music does so over the school's public address system. So nothing important, maybe. But even after all these years, if I close my eyes, I can hear those jangling bells rattle the hallways. Can't you?

The British traditional ly quite regarded as quite conservative, yet researchers claim there's a higher percentage of them in Great Britain than in any other country. Maybe so, don't know. Do know the Germans, too, in bygone years were considered extremely straight in most matters, and it was the German who started the first nudist colonies.

Heavy in the middle

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been noticing some ads about belts you can wear to get rid of that big middle. According to these ads, you can wear them and you will lose inches off your waist and develop a new figure. I have also seen ads for garments you could wear. I am a little heavy in the middle and have been exercising but just can't seem to get my waistline down where it used to be. I have been doing situps and walking a lot but nothing changes. Any recommendations you would be appreciated.

DEAR READER — There are lots of ads about things you can wear for such reasons. Most of the things advertised are not helpful. Neither are the shaking and rolling machines recommended by some exercise facilities.

There are several types of belts that have been advertised at different times. Some simply cause you to sweat off some water from the area and may cause some better definition of the underlying muscles but don't really help eliminate the big middle. Some of these are also sold with a diet and exercise program. It is the weight loss of fat inside and outside the abdomen for the exercises and diets that helps, not the belt.

The types of exercises a person can do to shrink his or her waistline are discussed in The Health Letter number 17-12, Winning the Battle of the Bulge, which I am sending you. It requires the types of exercises these only exercise

Walking on level ground will not use your abdominal muscles, but it is helpful as part of a body fat reduction program because it helps you use calories in a good walking and sensible diet program are part of the overall plan to lose fat. You can't decrease the waist measurements unless you get rid of the fat inside and outside the abdomen.

Granddad sells and smokes pot

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A 70-year-old great-grandfather says he is expecting a jail term for selling marijuana to support his large family.

"Whatever happens, happens," said Thursday. "I'm not going to be around very long anyway."

Abernathy, described as one of the oldest suspects ever arrested by the Cleveland police narcotics unit, was freed on $500 bond after an appearance in Municipal Court for drug trafficking.

Roosevelt Cox, his attorney, said Abernathy was innocent and that the marijuana seized at his home was in a daughter's bedroom, not in Abernathy's possession.

Abernathy told a reporter he hardly made enough money from the pot sales to get by.

"I mostly smoked it," Abernathy said. "I just made a little bit of it now and then. I just try to make ends meet. I wasn't making it on Social Security. Social Security — you don't get nothing."

Abernathy, who had no previous criminal record, said he received $410 per month in Social Security and had five sons and five daughters, some of whom still lived with him. He also said he had 15 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

"I be support most of them at one time or another," he said. "You know how it is."

Detectives said Abernathy, who walks with a cane, sold the drugs from his home, where he was arrested Tuesday. At the time, police said, he had a half-pound of marijuana in his possession.

"Abernathy was selling to everybody," Detective Gloria Gates said. "He claimed he was supplementing his Social Security payments by selling marijuana and pills."

Billy Graham

My Answer

QUESTION: Do you think it is possible to be a Christian and be a good businessman also? It seems like I see so much corruption in business that I really wonder if I can serve Christ and remain in business.

ANSWER: Yes, it certainly is possible. In fact, I know many individuals who are strongly committed Christians and who have also been successful in business. They believe that it is God's will for them to be in business, just as it may be His will for someone else to be a minister or missionary.

That does not mean, of course, that there are no problems and challenges. I am sure there is much that goes on in the business world that is wrong and dishonest, but that does not mean you have to take part in such things. In fact, I find people today are often seeking businessmen who can be trusted to keep their word.

Your stand for Christ may mean you lose some business because you will not be dishonest — but God will honor your stand for Him. The Bible says, "Honor the Lord with your wealth, with the first fruits of all your crops; then your barns will be filled to overflowing" (Proverbs 3:9-10).

Remember that it is often difficult to be a Christian in this world, because our world is twisted and bent by sin.

The Christian is always living in a spiritual battleground as long as he is on this earth, and often our standards and values will be different from those of people around us who do not know Christ and follow Him. But we are to be faithful to Christ wherever he puts us, and are not to withdraw from the battle.

Remember also that God may want to use you in the lives of others who are in the business world, should He lead you there. Jesus was a carpenter; Paul was a tentmaker; Peter was a fisherman. As the Bible says, "Live such good lives among the pagans that, though they accuse you of doing wrong, they may see your good deeds and glorify God" (1 Peter 2:12).

Dr. Francis Mackey

From: [unclear]
Dept: [unclear]
Date: December 1981

Dear Dr. Mackey:

A group of friends who knew and remember Dr. Curtis are recommending to the Brea City Council that Dr. Curtis be honored by naming the new theater in the Brea Civic Cultural Center the Dr. C. Glenn Curtis Theater. The City Council, through the Cultural Arts Commission, has established certain guide lines as follows:

1. Devotion of time and effort to the betterment of the community and its residents.
2. Achievement of recognition through public services.
3. A placement of high esteem by the community-at-large.
4. Donations in memoriam by family or friends.
5. The individual should not be currently serving in public office.

We feel that Dr. Curtis meets all these criteria. Our work now is convincing the Cultural Arts Commission as well as the City Council. We are asking friends and persons who knew Dr. Curtis to help by sending a letter stating that they knew Dr. Curtis, perhaps including a story or incident relating to the man, and that they feel this is an appropriate honor.

Dr. Curtis has been gone for 22 years and our community has changed so it is hard to contact numbers of persons. I am hoping that you will be able to help. Any response can be mailed to Mrs. Mary Quandt McGuire, 537 S. Palm Drive, Brea, or Dean F. Millen, 420 S. Poplar Avenue, Brea. There is a degree of urgency.

Yours very truly,

in Honor of Various
Individuals and Establishing
Procedure For Same
Date: December 11, 1980

Recently there has been a lot of discussion relating to the naming of the theatre or other City facilities in honor of certain individuals, who it is felt have contributed greatly to the betterment of Brea in the past. I am basically in favor of this idea, however, I feel some basic guidelines need to be established to provide a uniform method for achieving the desired results.

First of all, I believe that the Cultural Arts Commission should be given the task of providing an inventory of the various City facilities which could be named in honor of deserving individuals. This would have to be done in a practical way so that only recognizable and utilized facilities would be included in the inventory. These would include facilities such as some of our City parks, theatre, gallery, etc.

Second, I believe the inventory of available facilities would provide the City with a means of raising money for improving the facilities or providing additional equipment within these facilities on a one-time basis. I, therefore, recommend that in addition to an inventory of facilities, that the Cultural Arts Commission recommend to the City Council a schedule of fees to be charged for the subsequent naming of any particular facility. This fee schedule should reflect the importance and widespread use of the facility, as well as an amount which could reasonably be within the expectations of organizations or groups of individuals in the City of Brea to raise.

Third, that upon adoption of this policy it be made public and copies of the schedule and the inventory of facilities be made available to the various organizations in town such as the Historical Society, so that when a group of individuals is desirous of naming a facility for someone they would have the project of raising the fee and will have the vehicle to implement the program.

In summary, we need to establish this or a similar policy. Each of us have individuals in mind who we feel are deserving of such an honor. If enough people in the Community feel strongly about this individual, then raising the fee would be a worthwhile Community project and would serve to honor the individual, provide the City with funds for its enhancement, and remove personal consideration from the naming procedure. I would be happy to discuss this with you at any time, but I feel we need to come to some decision, since there is considerable discussion on the topic at this time.

Re: Glen Curtis, M.D.

Dear Mayor Fox:

I understand that there is consideration being given to dedicate the theatre in the new Brea Cultural Center to the memory of Doctor Glen Curtis.

I knew Doctor Curtis back in 1941 when I was assigned to the Fullerton General Hospital and he was a member of the Medical Staff. My knowledge continued of him until his death.

From that knowledge, we were aware that he was truly a dedicated physician and a very loyal and dynamic citizen of Brea. His concern and caring for his patients was very evident from the men working in the oil fields to the most elderly bed ridden person. If he had a fault, it was being too generous for his very wiry physical stamina many times was challenged beyond ordinary human endurance. I am sure that many of the citizens of Brea remember him fondly and were indeed delivered into this world by him.

I can not think of a better tribute than to so honor this physician who was not only proud of his city but contributed actively to its progress. I encourage you to carry forward this plan and if I can give any further information regarding Doctor Curtis, I will be glad to do so.

Sincerely,

Sister Jane Frances

BREA THEATER WILL BE RENAMED FOR DOCTOR

350

The City of Brea will hold ceremonies for the renaming of its civic-cultural center performing arts theater in honor of the late Glenn Curtis, known as "Brea's Country Doctor," at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the facility.

Dr. Curtis, a Brea physician for 31 years, died in 1959. He had served as president of the Orange County Medical Assn. and of the California Public Health League.

He was active in supporting the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera and, when it was later built, the Los Angeles Music Center. Other community activities included American Legion Lions Club, Orange County Coin Club and St. Jude Hospital and Rehabilitation Center.

He was named by the State Department to be a director of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs in Ecuador.
